STATE SENATOR LESLIE QUITS

Today

A Calf's Education.
Great Glider Flight.
Motorize, Not Mobilize.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

HEARST RANCH, San Simeon, Cal., April 7.

ROUNDING up of cattle and branding of calves today, on the Laguna section of this ranch, about three hundred thousand acres in extent.

You ride a cow pony six or seven miles over small mountains, covered with wild oats, a natural growth, and hear, far off, the bawling of calves and bellowing of their mothers.

About twenty-five hundred calves, in all, are to be branded, dehorned and vaccinated against blackleg, a mysterious disease, that comes with high feeding and quick growth, on these pastures, rich in protein.

INSIDE a corral a few hundred calves bawl without ceasing. Their mothers, patiently waiting outside the fence, bellow continuously. An occasional heavy-headed bull looks on, worrying about the calves not at all. Something familiar about him. You have seen human fathers, just as indifferent.

WITHIN that corral, the tiny horns are taken off, caustic applied to prevent resprouting. Each animal is branded, on hip and shoulder, then vaccinated with an additional treatment for the bull calves.

They are sad little animals, when our meat eating civilization finishes with them. But their educational troubles are over until they meet the butchers a short time later, and that meeting, at least, is painless.

IN the long run, man diminishes their suffering. He has eliminated, with dipping, ticks that would worry them through life, and his vaccination saves them from long disease, many of them from death, long drawn out.

A. F. Parks, manager of the big ranch, assures you that it does not really hurt the calves.

"They would bawl anyhow. Just afraid to be caught."

A TALL blond cowboy, six feet four, cowboy heels included, exclaims:

"Hurt them? Sure not! They enjoy it. It's the only excitement they ever have. And see what a time all these folks are having."

He is perfectly sincere in his belief that calves like the excitement. "These folks" are neighbor ranchers that come from far and near, with wives and children, to lend a hand, "take a nosedive" into the bountiful feast that melts away while the calves still bellow.

IN raising fine cattle, says Mr. Parks, the father is more important than the mother. The late John E. Madden, ablest of horsemen, said that with horses the mother is more important.

Both right, probably. Beef counts in cattle, spirit and courage counts in horses. Mothers supply the spirit and courage.

SOME cows have no calves.

"Any good cattleman," says Mr. Parks, "can pick out the barren cows, just by riding through the herd. They are all ribbed up, no heavy barrel, as graceful as a steer."

Such cows go to the butcher, as fast as they are weeded out. No cow, to her honor be it said, is barren voluntarily. Not so, with us humans.

THE country congratulates Capt. Hawks on his successful glider flight from ocean to ocean, a new flying feat. He has established the sturdiness of the glider, which is, in reality, a floating parachute, under the rider's control.

Col. Lindbergh says it will do more than the power plane, to educate new fliers.

Walter S. Marvin, chairman of the Curtis Airport Board, who flew up here from Santa Barbara for luncheon, yesterday, predicts that gliders will soon be equipped with low powered engines, just strong enough to keep them going, like the "outboard" engines attached to rowboats.

RUSSIA, much pleased with recent Communist-unemployed demonstrations, in this and other countries, predicts a grand demonstration for May first, which is Labor Day, in Europe.

The important Leningrad newspaper Isvestia predicts that there will be a grand "mobilization" of the American working classes, in favor of Communism.

Mr. Stalin could avoid needless expense and disappointment by looking into our national automobile statistics.

MOTORIZATION, is what interests American workmen, not mobilization. A new make of car means more to them than a new system of society. And so it will be, as long as our government by benevolent plutocracy, has brains and ability enough to see that its workers have money in the bank, a car in the garage, gasoline in the tank.

AMBASSADOR HUGH GIBSON, of the London naval conference, says the British, Japanese, American three-power treaty is all set and ready to go.

The treaty will save about $900,000,000 in the next six years, each nation will scrap three battleships and not build

WIFE MISSING IN BARREL MURDER

Second Rum Racket Suspect Arrested; Victim's Love Affairs Add to Mystery

Developments today in the "barrel murder mystery" were:

2—Detectives grill Philip De Fazia, alleged Clairton beer and rum runner, first man arrested in connection with mysterious slaying.

3—Widespread search is made for wife and children of William Gregory, barrel murder victim, in the hope that widow might be able to throw additional light upon her husband's bootlegging activities.

4—Detectives picture Gregory as a man of many loves, and declare his affairs with women complicate the mystery surrounding his slaying.

Hope of a quick solution of the slaying of Gregory, whose decapitated body was found in a barrel in Penn Township last week, was seen by detectives today as they questioned DeFazia and Mallins, declared to be members of a rum racket gang with which Gregory was said to be associated before he was slain.

The gang is said to have its headquarters in a bootleg-brewery in Lorigan street, Bloomfield. As soon as De Fazia and Mallins had been arrested, detectives raided the plant. The place had been

3 FIGHTING DOWNTOWN FIRE HURT

Occupants Flee 2 Buildings; Glass Wounds 2; Traffic Tied Up; Damage $25,000

Three firemen were injured fighting a spectacular fire which broke out in a three-story brick building at 136 Sixth street, below Penn avenue, during the noon hour today.

Workers in that building and in 138 Sixth street, adjoining, were forced to the street when smoke filled both places. Traffic was so jammed that police rerouted autos and street cars.

The flames broke out near the basement furnace of the building, whose first floor is occupied by Lubow's clothes shop. Mabsco supply house is on the second and third floors.

ELEVATOR SHAFT AFIRE

Neither of these shops appeared badly damaged. Flames crept up the elevator shaft in the rear and sent off great clouds of smoke which chased customers in nearby restaurants from their lunches.

The injured firemen were Capt. John McGlumphy, 50, of Engine Company No. 33; Capt. Patrick Cosgrove, 52, of Engine Company No. 39, and Hoseman Robert Muetzel, of Engine Company No. 39.

EX-BOXER, PALS BEATEN BY GANG

Walter J. (Peezer) Rodgers, of 1018 Gibbons street, a former pugilist, and three companions were badly beaten by a gang of eight men who attacked them on Washington Street Bridge early today.

Several of Rodgers' ribs were fractured, his nose broken, and a number of teeth were knocked out. The injuries of his companions—Ray Jackson, William Carr and Edward McGuire—were less serious.

The gang, according to Rodgers, attacked them as they were returning from the North Side. He said that after robbing them the thugs sought to throw them over the bridge, and it was only by fighting desperately that they were able to save their lives.

Rodgers was given first aid in Mercy Hospital.

German Mail Plane Crashes, Two Killed

LONDON, April 7.—(INS.)—The German mail plane, bound for Croydon, crashed and burned today at Limpsfield, near the airdrome. Pilot Wessel and Engineer Connert were killed and the mail destroyed.

URGES RASKOB RESIGNATION

WASHINGTON, April 7.—(INS.)—The action of John J. Raskob, Democratic National chairman in contributing $65,000 to the organized anti-dry forces, was condemned and his resignation suggested on the floor of the Senate this afternoon by Senator F. M. Simmons (Dem.), of North Carolina, who led the southern revolt against Gov. Alfred E. Smith in the presidential election.

Simmons declared the Democrats of North Carolina repudiated Raskob's gifts to the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, which has used its funds to elect both anti-prohibition Republicans and Democrats to Congress.

Simmons protested against Raskob making such contributions to the wet cause while remaining Democratic national chairman.

"All will recognize the impossibility of Mr. Raskob continuing as titular head of the party in his fight to destroy prohibition," said Simmons. "I am repudiating in behalf of the dry Democracy of North Carolina, the action of Mr. Raskob in helping to finance the campaigns of wet Republicans."

NEW TAXI FIRM ASKS CHARTER

Application has been made for a charter to organize, promote and finance another taxicab company in Pittsburgh.

The application was made by U. J. L. Peoples, George Wortman and Dr. F. C. Blessing, who were identified with the unsuccessful attempt to reorganize the Red Cab Company recently. According to Wortman, the applicants for the charter have 400 cabs already ordered.

The Peoples-Wortman-Blessing application is the second filed since the strike began more than three months ago.

Recently the Highland Taxicab Company applied for a charter.

A yellow cab was damaged slightly by fire yesterday at Ward and Zulema streets, Oakland. According to police, Anthony Pruiss, of 133 Beltzhoover avenue, the driver, was menaced by a small crowd that gathered. The fire started, apparently from the ignition, while Pruiss was making change for a fare. Pruiss is said to have fled and a squad of police dispersed the crowd.

Mooney Flies Home In Repaired Plane

CHICAGO, April 7.—(INS.)—Arthur M. Mooney, Wichita, Kan., aviator and airplane designer, who attempted a secret transcontinental nonstop flight, prepared to hop off here today for Wichita.

Mooney, after being forced down at Fort Wayne, Ind., with a defective gasoline pump, flew to Chicago yesterday after repairing the trouble.

Snow Flurries, Cold Will Pass Quickly

Snow flurries took possession of Pittsburgh this afternoon, and Weatherman Brotzman warned that they would likely continue through the night, with the thermometer falling to the freezing point. However, the outlook for tomorrow is promising. The weather will probably be clear and the thermometer climb.

Marie Prevost Asks to Drop Harlan Name

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., April 7.—(INS.)—The motion picture colony learned today that Marie Prevost, featured screen player, plans to go into Superior Court and have the word Harlan deleted from her name.

Miss Prevost yesterday was sufficiently improved from a major operation to be removed from Hollywood Hospital to her Malibu Beach home. When she has fully recovered from the operation, Miss Prevost plans to be known legally as Marie Prevost, her name before her marriage in 1924 to Kenneth Harlan. They were divorced in November, 1927.

Renewed Leviathan To Carry Night Club

NEW YORK, April 7.—(INS.)—Fresh from a $500,000 face-lifting and patching operation, the United States liner Leviathan was in port here today, ready to resume trans-Atlantic service. The ship has just undergone an overhauling in Boston and brought 600 passengers, including James J. Tunney, former heavyweight boxing king, to New York from that city.

When she sails Saturday the Leviathan will be the first liner to offer a night club, featured by all the entertainment of a Broadway organization.

COURT HOLDS MERGER FATE

CLEVELAND, O., April 7.—(AP.)—With the fate of a billion-dollar steel deal hanging in the balance, attorneys representing a dozen of the biggest financial giants of the steel industry, battled with arguments in Federal Court here today over an attempt to get a federal injunction to prevent the merger of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company with the Bethlehem Steel Corporation.

The court fight was an eleventh hour engagement in the war over the merger, which is scheduled to end tomorrow in a stockholders' meeting at Youngstown.

The injunction petition being heard is one of four on file here and at Youngstown. It asks the court to forbid the stockholders' meeting, to forbid them to vote if they meet, to forbid the directors from consummating the merger, to forbid them from dissolving the company and to make the injunction permanent.

PRESSURE CHARGED

Arguments of Attorney Clan Crawford, representing the plaintiff, B. R. Shover, of Pittsburgh, a stockholder, began the hearing which was held by Federal Judge Arthur J. Tuttle, assigned here from Detroit. Crawford said the merger deal was arranged by James A. Campbell, chairman of Sheet and Tube, under pressure from outside interests, that the deal was unfair to Sheet and Tube stockholders, and that they had been betrayed by their officers and directors.

Newton D. Baker, former secretary of war, representing the entire directorate and officers of Sheet and Tube(who were defendants, said no fraud was alleged in the petition and that none had been committed or at-

Permit Likely for 8-Story Duquesne Club Annex

The Duquesne Club, probably will be granted a permit to build an addition of eight stories or more to its clubhouse in Sixth avenue.

The Zoning Board of Adjustment indicated after a hearing today, that the permit would be issued. This permit had been refused by the city's Bureau of Building Inspection because a zoning ordinance which calls for a 10-foot sideyard, was not complied with in the building plans.

The Board seemed to feel that the provisions of this ordinance were met by an inner-court and an open space in the rear of the addition.

Granting of the permit would allow an early start on the improvement, which is regarded as an investment of $1,500,000.

The ground is in the rear of the club and was purchased from the Arbuckle estate for $540,000. It is bounded by Strawberry way and Coffey way.

The addition is not intended to swell the membership list but simply to relieve the present crowded quarters. The club now has 1,500 resident members and 500 non-residents, which is believed capacity.

WITHDRAWAL DUE TO FIGHT BY KLINE

Veteran Leader and Maker Of 4 Mayors Leaves Race To Armstrong, Jr., Riley

State Senator Max G. Leslie today announced his withdrawal from the state senatorial race.

The one-time political boss of Pittsburgh made the announcement which his friends were working to have Mayor Charles H. Kline withdraw his opposition to Leslie and permit the veteran senator to remain in the race.

FAMILY'S WISH

"I have decided that I will not be a candidate for re-election as a state senator.

"I have forwarded a letter of recall to the secretary of the commonwealth which will be presented to him in Harrisburg today, withdrawing my petition.

"My decision was reached at a family reunion at my home yesterday, April 6, my sixty-sixth birthday.

"My children were unanimous in their request to me to retire and I am complying with their wishes."

FEUD WITH KLINE

Leslie's statement was regarded by political observers as marking at least a temporary eclipse of his power. He has been at odds with Mayor Kline, particularly since the last primary campaign when Leslie threw his support to James F. Malone.

For years Leslie had had a leading voice in political affairs in the

LIQUOR LICENSE ISSUED HERE

Judge James R. MacFarlane today granted a wholesale liquor license to the Shipley-Massingham Company, druggists, 949 Penn avenue, after he had determined that the law requiring wholesalers to take out a license had never been repealed.

Wholesale druggists generally have ignored the law since prohibition became effective, Attorney Charles H. Sachs told the court. He said he would seek a conference of judges and ask for a ruling on the need of his client applying for a license hereafter. The cost is $1,000 a year.

Chicago Workmen Busy, Census Shows

CHICAGO, April 7.—(AP.)—The census takers in Chicago, according to Joseph E. Vesely, supervisor of the census here, have found unemployment relatively slight.

Vesely said only a few unemployed were found in every several hundred enumerated.

Pioneer Panama Canal Pilot Dies

COLON, Panama, April 7.—(AP.)—Capt. John Constantine, the first canal pilot appointed by the United States, died here yesterday. He was 72 years old.

1930 CONSTRUCTION PROGRAM BILLION ABOVE ESTIMATES

MARCH GAIN IN BUILDING AMAZING

Dr. Julius Klein, in Radio Talk, Points to Speedy Recovery in U. S. Acitivity

Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, April 7.—America's nation-wide construction program will call for the expenditure of $11,000,000,000 in 1930, a billion higher than was estimated only a short time ago, Dr. Julius Klein, assistant secretary of commerce, has revealed.

Speaking over the Columbia Broadcasting System he announced that building contracts awarded in March increased 45 per cent over February, reaching a figure only five per cent below March a year ago when business in general was going to top speed He adaded:

"That is real news—in fact it is one of the most striking, impressive indicators of the anticipated 'dawn of a new day,' particularly when consideration is also given to the fact that January of this year was 21 per cent below January last year, and February was about 12 per cent below February a year ago.

BILLION BOOST

"But perhaps even more important is the fact that some of the ultra-conservative governmental economists are right now boosting their estimates for nation-wide construction this year by approximately one billion dollars, placing the new total at $11,000,000,000 instead of $10,000,000,000 as estimated a few weeks ago."

Klein said that the $11,000,000,000 construction bill represents public and private building and maintenance, including the activities of public utilities. The increase in the estimate is almost entirely in the field of commercial and industrial structures, residences and other private operations. Declaring that the value of the construction work was nation-wide and industry-wide in effect, Klein added:

CREATES JOBS

"Construction work makes jobs. It helps to keep the wheels of manifold industries revolving. The construction dollar is split into tiny fractions, and pieces fly out and alight in the cash-drawers of practically all the major economic activities of the country. And when we consider how many billions of construction dollars are expended in America each year, we see how giant benefits are inevitable piled up."

FAYETTE POOL AGENTS HELD

UNIONTOWN, April 7.—Arrest of five alleged district agents in different sections of Fayette county today is believed to be the death knell to the clearing house pool in the county which is estimated to have taken more than $500 here daily.

Those taken into custody on charges of selling lottery tickets were: "Spider" Robinson, of Uniontown; "Skemp" Morris, of Republic; J. M. Moser, of McClellandtown; Orlando Tate, of Edenborn, and Joseph Kozosky, of Lambert.

According to information given County Detective A. A. Downing by several of the young men arrested, Ness Feelo, recently taken into custody, collected the pool tickets and money and conveyed them to Pittsburgh. When the automobile he was driving was stopped by county and state officials, Feelo had money and 10,000 pool tickets in a steel box, officers say.

Cornerstone Laid For New Church

WASHINGTON, Pa., April 7.—Several hundred members of the First Baptist Church witnessed the laying of the cornerstone of the new building, to be erected at a cost of $250,000. Henry Bigler, superintendent of the Sunday School presided. The Rev. B. Frank Taber, as the concluding act of his 12-year pastorate, laid the stone. The Rev. Mr. Taber's resignation was effective today.

Heppenstall Co. Gets Tax Refund

WASHINGTON, April 7.—(INS.)—A credit and abatement of $128,998 was awarded the Heppenstall Forge and Knife Company, Pittsburgh, by the Bureau of Internal Revenue today.

Grandmother, 58, Seeks $250,000 Heart Balm

NEW YORK, April 7.—(AP.)—A 58-year-old grandmother, former wife of Charles Kaufman, Detroit banker, took the stand today in her $250,000 breach of promise suit against Charles F. Hardman, retired millionaire.

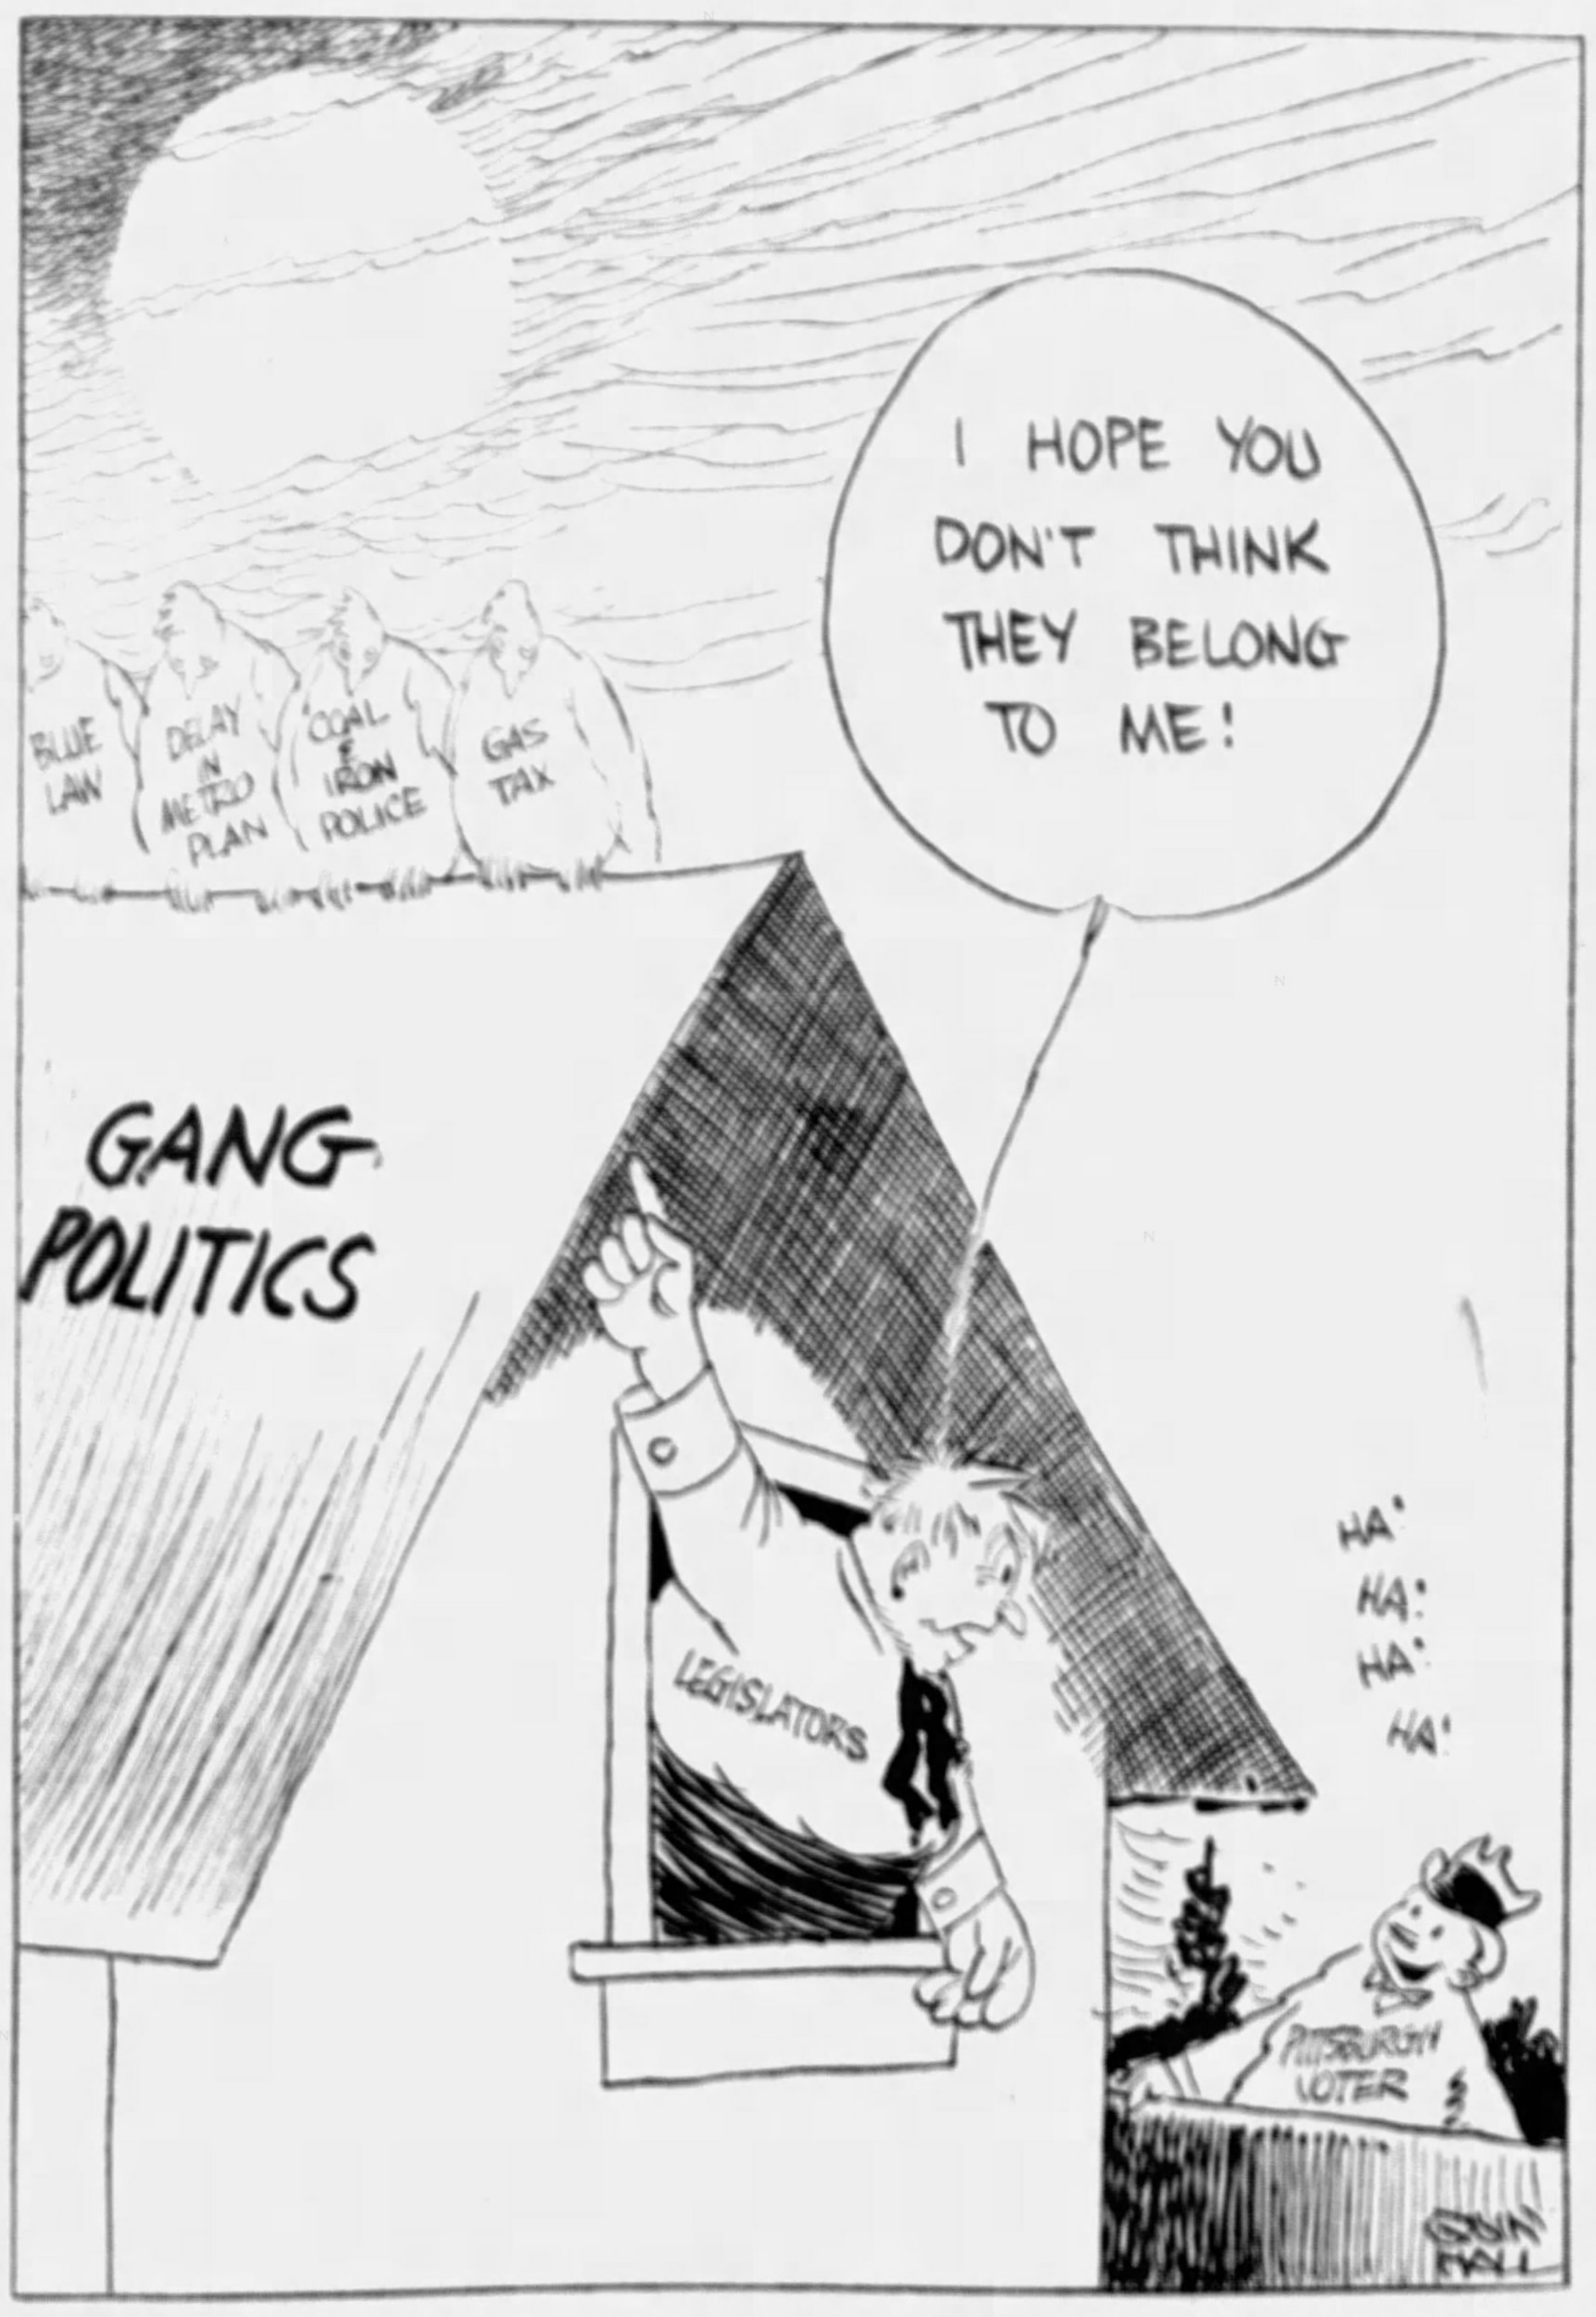
She is Adelaide Lean, now living on East One Hundred and Fifty-sixth street. She asserted that, after meeting her in 1922 and for a time paying her bills, Harman married another woman in 1927.

She was divorced from Kaufman in Detroit in 1904 and came to New York to rear and educate their two daughters, now married, her attorney said.

Harman charged in rebuttal that the breach of promise action was a conspiracy between Mrs. Lean and the woman who introduced them, Mrs. Lena Turner. His attorney described Mrs. Lean as a "more than middle-aged but flirtatious woman." Harman, the attorney said, does not deny paying some of her bills, but said he did so because she appealed to him that she was without funds.

BUT CHICKENS COME HOME TO ROOST

—By Quin Hall—



DISTRICT AIDED BY RIVERS BILL

WASHINGTON, April 7.—Under the impetus of President Hoover's demand for development of inland waterways, the House Rivers and Harbors Committee today began final preparations for presentation to Congress of the most ambitious rivers and harbor bill since the World War.

With earlier estimates discarded, it is probable the measure will call for the expenditure of more than $150,000,000 on new projects in every section of the nation.

The bill will, according to Representative Dempsey (Rep.), of New York, chairman, for the first time pave the way to a unification of the great waterways system of the country.

With its completion Pittsburgh, Chicago, Minneapolis and Kansas City will be linked by water with the Gulf of Mexico through the Mississippi, Missouri, Ohio and Illinois River systems.

The biggest projects to be advanced are the deepening of the Great Lakes, deepening of the Erie and Oswego canals if they are surrendered to the Federal government by the state of New York, and the Illinois waterway, linking Chicago and the Mississippi. These three projects alone are estimated to cost nearly $70,000,000.

Scores of smaller rivers and harbors improvements also are expected to be included in the bill.

Ice Floes in Lake Trap Trio in Boat

CHARLEVOIX, Mich., April 7.—(INS.)—With a strong gale blowing, three men held fast in a small boat in ice floes just outside the harbor today were in grave peril of drowning. The men—Joseph Smith, Ernest Smith and Charles Archer—were bound out to lift fish nets when a shift in the wind turned the ice floes until they were surrounded.

Oscar Smith, captain of a Coast Guard tug, put out to aid them, but the crush of the ice made all efforts futile.

Ex-U. S. Engineer's Killer Denied Mercy

LONDON, April 7.—(AP.)—The Central Criminal Appeals Court today dismissed the appeal of William Henry Podmore against sentence of death for the murder of Vivian Messiter. Podmore was found guilty of murdering Messiter, at one time a prominent engineer in the United States, March 8. Messiter was operating a garage in Southampton, and Podmore, known as the "man with the scar," was employed there.

FIGHT TO BLOCK LAKE RATE PLEA

WASHINGTON, April 7.—(INS.)—A group of Southern railroads handling lake cargo coal, the Chesapeake and Ohio, Louisville and Nashville, Virginian, and Norfolk and Western, today asked the Interstate Commerce Commission to dismiss the complaint of Pennsylvania and Ohio bituminous operators charging existing rates of lake cargo coal unduly favor the southern mines.

The complaints are insufficient in law because they affirmatively show that the complainants are not injured by reason of the rate relationship set forth in the complaints, the railroads say, for the reason that the rates alleged to be unduly preferential are higher than the rates from the districts in which complainants are located to the common markets wherein it is alleged they encounter competition.

Milk Floods Street As Truck Crashes

One hundred gallons of milk poured into Grant street when the truck of Paul Puff, 21, of 107 Hickory street, collided with the machine of Sterling McLean, 21, of 5124 Carnegie avenue, early today. Both men were arrested on reckless driving charges. Mrs. Dorothy McLean, who was riding with her husband, and her sister-in-law, Miss Mary McLean, were injured slightly.

Gives Beggar Last Dime, Tries Suicide

PHILADELPHIA, April 7.—(INS.)—Giving away his last dime to a beggar, Frank L. Le Duc, 50, wealthy Holyoke, Mass., resident, attempted suicide at a rooming house here today. The rooming-house proprietor smelled gas escaping from Le Duc's room and called police. Le Duc was revived. The police said he told them he lost an $80,000 business during the stock market crash of last fall. Le Duc was arrested.

Hill Family Routed By Fire in Home

The home of Samuel Gordon at 2622 Bedford avenue was damaged by fire of undetermined origin today and members of the family were forced to flee to the street. The residence is a two-story structure and the fire is believed to have started in the basement. Battalion Chief Frank Harris estimated the damage at $2,000.

MELLON LIQUOR RULE UPHELD

WASHINGTON, April 7.—(AP.)—The claim of Secretary Andrew W. Mellon to the right to determine the existence of mitigating circumstances in the matter of a seizure and condemnation of an automobile taken for violating the revenue laws was upheld today by the District of Columbia Court of Appeals.

The decision was made by Chief Justice George E. Martin, and concerned a case in which a car owned by Julian Gradou was seized at Detroit, on which a conditional sales contract was held by Walter E. Heller & Co.

The company presented a petition to Secretary Mellon asking the return of the vehicle on the ground that it had no suspicion the car would be used illegally. The petition was denied and the suit was instituted.

The Treasury Secretary set up the claim that his decision under the law was conclusive and need not be controlled by the courts. The lower court agreed with him, as did the District Court of Appeals today.

SUING RUDY VALLEE

CLUE TO GIRL IN MYSTERIOUS 'PHONE CALL

Woman Friend Reports She Was Invited to Party by Missing Store Employe

Detectives today redoubled their search for Miss Elizabeth Hanzel, 22, of 241 Lafayette avenue, assistant manager of a department in a downtown store, and choir singer, when they learned of a mysterious telephone call she had made to a girl friend the night she disappeared.

Miss Ruth Kemmler, of 1745 Cowley street, told investigators today that the missing girl had called her at 9 o'clock last Tuesday night and had invited her to a party.

MAN ON 'PHONE, TOO

Miss Hanzel's voice trembled and she appeared to be in fear, Miss Kemmler said. Her story led detectives to believe that the Hanzel girl had been forced to make the call.

Following Miss Hanzel on the 'phone, a man also asked Miss Kemmler to attend a party, but she declined, she said.

CLUE IN BRUISED GIRL

Another development in the Hanzel girl's disappearance was the story of Mrs. Schaffer, who told detectives that, as she was walking over the Sixth Street Bridge last Wednesday, she noticed a girl resembling Miss Hanzen, who was crossing the bridge from the North Side district. This girl was bruised about the face as if she had been beaten, the woman told police.

Police today broadcast a description of Miss Hanzel over the state-wide telegraph system.

Barefoot Fugitive Caught on Freight

LEHIGHTON, Pa., April 7.—(INS.)—Minus shoes and stockings, Leonard Dexter, 15, escaped inmate of the Rochester (N. Y.) Reformatory, was captured here today by Lawrence Cosgrave, a Lehigh Valley Railroad detective.

The barefoot youth was discovered beating his way on a fast freight train. He was put in jail pending arrival of officers from the Rochester institution. Dexter escaped April 5. He was serving 18 months for larceny.

$1,000 Rum Swept Up By Cape Cod Gale

PROVINCETOWN, Mass., April 7.—(INS.)—A fifty-mile-an-hour gale swept Cape Cod today and among the wreckage tossed up by giant waves on the sands was five barrels of Scotch malt, valued at $1,000. This gave rise to speculation as to whether a rum running vessel had been wrecked.

Small craft were tossed up on the harbor front and scores of vessels scurried to port.

Orchestra Plays For Jail Prisoners

A concert replaced the usual religious service in the county jail yesterday and the 700 prisoners were entertained by the Brookline Orchestra, under the direction of Thomas Griffiths. The entertainment consisted of six musical selections by the orchestra and two solos by Miss Helena Baschcopf.

HIS GLIDING REWARD

MRS. HAWKS WELCOMING CAPTAIN AT TRIP'S END

Capt. Frank M. Hawks as he received his reward in New York, where he arrived yesterday, after a glider trip from the Pacific to the Atlantic. A motored plane towed his glider.

HAWKS' GLIDER FEAT CHEERED

NEW YORK, April 7.—(INS.)—Capt. Frank M. Hawks was honored in New York today for adding another lustrous chapter to man's conquering of the air. Completing the first coast-to-coast glider flight, believed the longest glider run ever made, Hawks arrived here yesterday afternoon shortly after 4 o'clock, towed by an airplane driven by J. D. Jernigan.

His actual flying time for the 2,860 miles covered was 36 hours and 42 minutes. Counting 20 stops made en route, his time was six and one-half days.

On his arrival Hawks revealed he was caught in a terrific storm near Syracuse, N. Y., his glider suddenly soaring from 3,000 to 6,000 feet. Twice, so violently was the sailplane tossed about, he decided to leap for his life in a parachute. He exhibited blistered hands to show how desperately he battled with the glider controls as he rode out the storm.

Chicago Residence Damaged by Bomb

CHICAGO, April 7.—(INS.)—A dynamite bomb exploded today in the vestibule of the H. Stern home, damaging the residence and grounds to the extent of $3,000.

The blast wrecked the vestibule and the windows and plaster in the structure were splintered. Although members of the household were asleep at the time, none suffered major wounds.

Toy Gun Toter Shot As Robber Suspect

CHICAGO, April 7.—(INS.)—The so-called "nickel and dime" bandit lay at the point of death in a hospital today as the result of his fifth alleged attempt within two weeks to rob the same elevated station agent.

Following four successful robberies, Policeman Henry J. Dompke was posted at the station. He shot and wounded the man, who gave his name as John Howard, 21. Police say he carries a toy pistol.

Films to Display Progress of Capital

A week's schedule for the showing of a motion picture of the development of Washington will be started here today under the auspices of the Pittsburgh Chapter of the American Institute of Architects. The pictures today will be shown in the Catholic High School, Schenley High School and St. Mary's of the Mount High School.

South Hills Post No. 156 will hold its monthly meeting tomorrow night in the post club rooms, West Liberty avenue. Refreshments will be served and plans considered for the annual banquet and Memorial Day observance.

Coolidge Running For Insurance Post

NEW YORK, April 7.—(AP.)—Coolidge is running again. He will be re-elected Wednesday to his insurance directorate.

tempted, and that the court had no right to substitute its judgment of the merger ove. that of directors and stockholders.

Judge Tuttle indicated he might rule on the application for injunction before tonight. Attorneys for the merger opposition said if his ruling should be negative, they will rush to Youngstown to press action on the injunction petition in Common Pleas Court there.

Crawford opened his argument with an attack on the manner in which the merger agreement was made. He cited parts of the deposition given by Campbell Friday in which the chairman of Sheet and Tube said he had made the deal "under pressure" and without conferring with Eaton and other large stockholders.

BAKER DENIES FRAUD

Newton D. Baker, special attorney for Sheet and Tube, answered Crawford. He said the petition, making no allegation of fraud, requested the court to substitute its judgment for that of the Sheet and Tube directors, that the bill does not charge the contemplated merger, is not a good trade, and that this action was filed so recently it seems to be the purpose is to delay the stockholders' meeting rather than to test the questions raised in the suit.

Cyrus S. Eaton, one of the most powerful of the steel captains in the fight, who is leading the merger opposition, continued today his claims that he has enough votes and proxies to defeat the merger in the stockholders' meeting.

Other anti-merger leaders said today the injunction suits were not an admission that they were lacking in votes, but that they feared their opponents through control of the election machinery, might use some legal parliamentary "trick" in the stockholders' meeting to approve the merger.

RIVALS MAKE CLAIMS

In a statement issued today, opponents of the merger openly asserted that the proposed consolidation is defeated whether the stockholders meet tomorrow or not. The anti-mergerists claim to control 503,926 shares of stock to vote against the proposal.

Only 395,201 votes are necessary to defeat the consummation of the merger.

James A. Campbell, veteran chairman of the Sheet and Tube board, followed the anti-mergist's statement with a plea to stockholders to disregard the "inaccurate reports" of the opposition. He insisted he has faith that the merger will be approved.

Day-Night Steel Merger Fight Wears Proxy Foes

YOUNGSTOWN, O., April 7.—(AP.)—Two groups of hollow-eyed, sunken-cheeked men today hoped that court proceedings in Cleveland would not prolong the billion-dollar battle over the proposed merger of Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company with Bethlehem Steel Corporation.

They are the members of the staffs of Sheet and Tube and of the group opposing the merger. Both have been working virtually day and night in the battle for proxies, moulding and "firing" the ammunition of statements, letters, 'phone calls, telegrams and cables.

The men have been working until the small hours of the morning, rushing home for an hour or two of sleep, a shower, a change of clothes, and rushing back to the office.

Roy Welch, secretary-treasurer of Sheet and Tube, reached home early one morning so overcome by fatigue that he stumbled against a door and cut a gash in his head. Philip Schaff, leader of the Cyrus S. Eaton forces here, was said by assistants to be "almost a nervous wreck."

Lawyers, too, have been pressed to the limit of endurance in drafting suits and answers to suits, working under the time limit imposed by the Sheet and Tube stockholders' meeting, scheduled for tomorrow.

NAVY PARLEY DELEGATES DELAYED

Homecoming of U. S. Envoys On April 22 Is Unlikely; Conference Marks Time

By HARRY R. FLORY
International News Service.

LONDON, April 7.—Though they have booked passage aboard the Leviathan for that date, it appeared improbable today that the American delegates to the London naval conference could sail for home April 22.

Departure of the delegation then would necessitate winding up of the conference by a week from Thursday at the latest, in order not to interfere with the Easter holidays.

Even if hope of a five-power treaty is abandoned, it seems unlikely that all the preliminaries necessary for formulation of a three-power pact could be completed by that time.

Briand's Parley Stand Approved by Cabinet

PARIS, April 7.—(INS.)—The French cabinet today gave its stamp of approval to the activities of Foreign Minister Aristide Briand at the London naval conference.

The cabinet, at a special meeting, commended M. Briand for "maintaining all points of France's attitude" at the parley.

Cotton Says Envoys Acting on 3-Power Pact

WASHINGTON, April 7.—(AP.)—Joseph P. Cotton, acting secretary of state, today said the delegates to the London naval conference were obviously making plans for a three-power pact in event they could not obtain a five-power pact and that they realized the time was short for a five-power treaty.

The acting secretary referred to the radio speech yesterday by Ambassador Hugh S. Gibson as a general guide to the present situation in London.

Cotton said tentative plans at present indicated the American delegation would sail for home about Easter time.

LOSS PUT AT $25,000

Fire Chief Richard L. Smith estimated the damage at $25,000. He said firemen were handicapped because they had to chop through concrete to reach flames, which spread between the two layers of the basement floor.

Theodore Makrauer, an owner of the Mabsco shop, told of discovering flames near the furnace and of trying to extinguish them with a hand device.

An innocent victim of the fire was Don Alphonso Zelaya, pianist, son of the former president of Nicaragua. A recital he was giving in the Select Furniture Store, near the blaze, was interrupted by shrieking sirens of fire engines.

School Nurse Heads Social Work Club

BEAVER, Pa., April 7.—Mrs. Jean Coates Fisher, Ambridge school nurse, was elected president at a dinner meeting of the Beaver County Social Workers' Club. Other officers are: Vice president, Miss S. Elizabeth Bowry, of Ellwood City; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Mary Jane Weaver, of Beaver. Dr. Rebecca Leaming Fieger, of Sewickley, and Miss Frances McDowell, of Geneva College, addressed the club.

Poison Rum Sends Victim to Hospital

John Czopek, 32, of 1725 Wharton street, was in St. Joseph's Hospital, South Side, today, suffering from poison liquor, according to the hospital report. He said he obtained the liquor in Forbes street, Soho.

DONAHUE SCION'S BRIDE

MR. AND MRS. JEROME T. DONAHUE

Donahue, son of F. J. Donahue of the Donahue stores, and his bride, the former Mary Julia McKelvey, of Woodsdale, W. Va., at home in Pittsburgh after their marriage in Wheeling. The wedding was a quiet event, and parents of the couple were without knowledge of it.

J. T. DONAHUE MARRIES

"Of course, I can cook," the bride said. "But maybe I need some practice with biscuits."

The best man said:

"All right," conceded the groom. "I'll cook coffee, 'n' wipe the dishes, but I won't wash 'em."

"But we'll always accept invitations out to meals," they chorused.

And that is how the household of Mr. and Mrs. Jerome T. Donahue, newlyweds, will be run, Mrs. Donahue decided.

They were married in Wheeling Saturday and are in Pittsburgh today. They will stay in Donahoe's bachelor apartment in the Morrowfield Apartments, Squirrel Hill, until they find a home where she can cook cake.

Formerly Miss Mary Julia McKelvey, of Woodsdale, near Wheeling, Mrs. Donahoe was bride in the ceremony presided over by the Rev. E. J. Yahn, St. Joseph's Cathedral, Wheeling.

The bridegroom is the son of P. J. Donahoe, of the Donahoe stores. Parents of the couple were unaware of the event until after the ceremony. However, they knew it was impending.

3 'Cry Baby' Bandits Sentenced to Chair

MINEOLA, N. Y., April 7.—(INS.)—Three of Jamaica's cry baby bandits were sentenced to the electric chair today in Nassau county court by Judge Lewis J. Smith, for the murder of Charles Bauer, druggist, at Westbury, L. I., during a hold-up.

They accepted the sentence calmly. The trio were James Bolger, 19; Italo Ferdinandi, 22, and James Butler, 24. They were condemned to die in the week of May 11.

Williams to Testify In Air Defense Quiz

WASHINGTON, April 7.—(AP.)—Alford J. Williams, recently-resigned speed flier of the Navy, has been called to testify tomorrow before a Senate Naval Affairs subcommittee investigating into airplane equipment. The inquiry will be on a resolution introduced by Senator Tyding (Dem.), Maryland, who said he wanted to ascertain why the United States Navy lagged behind other countries in fast pursuit and bombing planes.

Jewel Robber Dares Police in Same Block

LEBANON, Pa., April 7.—(INS.)—While a traffic policeman waved through a busy line of cars only a half block away, a lone robber today smashed a display window of the Hoffer Jewelry Company and escaped in an automobile with loot valued at $1,500. An immediate police pursuit was organized.

ILLINOIS VOTING FACES PROBE

WASHINGTON, April 7.—(INS)—Apparently stirred by reports of large expenditures in the Illinois senatorial primary, Senator Norris (Rep.), of Nebraska, this afternoon moved in the Senate to speed adoption of his resolution authorizing a new campaign funds committee to investigate senatorial primaries and elections.

He filed a formal motion to discharge the Senate Elections Committee from further consideration of his resolution. He did this, he said, because the committee has had the resolution under consideration for five weeks without acting on it.

Norris made no mention of the Illinois campaign and privately expressed surprise at reports that he planned to investigate it. He pointed out he would not be a member of the investigating committee in any event, because he is a candidate for re-election this year.

Mt. Lebanon Zone Change Protested

The rezoning of Academy avenue, Mount Lebanon, south of Cochran road, from light industrial to a commercial district, will be opposed at meeting of the township commissioners tonight. The Civic Association has distributed circulars asking residents to attend tonight's meeting when the rezoning ordinance will be up for final passage. If the change is made it is said Fred Ollett will erect a cold storage house.

Rezoning of the Beverly School Plan, also will be up for consideration.

11 Wharf Sleepers Jailed as Vagrants

Twenty men arrested for sleeping on the Water street wharf last night told Magistrate Leo Rothenberg in Central Police Court today that they were forced to sleep out because they had no jobs. The magistrate discharged nine of them who said they had prospects of employment, but sent the 11 others to the workhouse for 30 days. All had been charged with vagrancy.

ILLINOIS BETS PICK WOMAN FOR SENATE

Mrs. McCormick Is 8 to 5 Favorite as Dramatic Battle Draws to Close

By GEORGE R. HOLMES.
International News Service.

CHICAGO, April 7.—The most remarkable senatorial primary the country has ever witnessed drew to a close in Illinois today in a welter of excitement and dramatic tension.

For the first time in history, a woman—Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick—is making a real bid for the Senate. She has organization, money and brains back of her. Tomorrow the voters of Illinois will decide whether she or Senator Charles S. Deneen is to be the Republican nominee for the Senate in November.

The betting favors Mrs. McCormick by 8-to-5 odds in Chicago's Loop.

UNIQUE BATTLE

The betting odds are indicative of popular opinion in the Loop. But betting odds do not determine an election contest, particularly one which is as unusual, as unique as this Deneen-McCormick battle.

The imponderable element, in the opinion of the Illinois sages, is the women element. If this contest were between two men and the primary indications the same as exist today, the betting fraternity would lay the eight to five without undue perturbation.

All the surface odds appear to favor Mrs. McCormick, but it is the so-called silent vote, the vote behind the sheet in the voting booth that will decide the issue.

The eve of decision found both candidates and both camps confident.

Mrs. McCormick has based her campaign principally upon the League Court issue. Senator Deneen voted for American adherence to the court. Mrs. McCormick, like her husband before her is unalterably opposed to it.

ASSAILS COURT

Throughout the 102 counties of the state, from 1,000 political platforms, she has assailed the court and her opponent's record: Persistently she has challenged Deneen to say whether he will again vote for the court when and if President Hoover again transmits the proposal to the Senate, as he has said he would.

To this challenge Deneen has retorted that the whole issue of the League Court is artificial and extraneous.

QUIZ RAILROADS ON OWNERSHIP

WASHINGTON, April 7.—(AP.)—A questionnaire to ascertain ownership of the country's 173 class I railroads was prepared today by the House Interstate Commerce Committee as a preliminary step in its investigation of railroad holding and investment trust companies.

The committee expects the roalroads to file replies to the questionnaire within 60 days.

The railroads also are required to reveal their holdings in all other railroads and terminal companies and the voting power of all securities.

The investigation was authorized by the House after the committee found itself unable to formulate legislation designed to bring about consolidation of the 1,500 railroads into 21 great systems, when it was found that holding and investment trust companies were not under the jurisdiction of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Gethsemane Bomb Plot Rumor Denied

JERUSALEM, April 7.—(AP.)—Anofficial announcement today labeled as untrue the reports that bombs were found Saturday in a garden near Gethsemane.

The announcement explained the rumors by saying that seven shells intended for Turkish guns during the World War were discovered April 1 and destroyed by police.

P. R. R. Carries 1,545 On N. Y. Excursion

The largest excursion of the year was run over the Pennsylvania railroad to New York and return over the week-end, representatives of the railroad announced today. Those making the trip totaled 1,545 and filled 37 coaches.

Weather Conditions.

There is a disturbance of marked intensity centered over Quebec this morning and covers the entire eastern portion of the country. Lowest barometer reported is 29.00 inches, at Montreal. It produced light to heavy rains everywhere from the upper Ohio valley eastward and as far south as South Carolina and cloudy and rainy weather continues this morning everywhere north of Virginia and east of Indiana.

Another disturbance appears in the far Northwest over British Columbia. It is producing cloudy weather over that section and mild temperatures.

A high pressure area, centered over the Plains states is attended by clear skies as far east as Indiana and moderately cold weather. The temperatures are freezing or below over North Dakota and eastward over the upper Mississippi valley and the upper lakes to Eastern Ontario.

River Conditions.

The headwaters of the Monongahela are rising, due to moderate rains; elsewhere the rivers are stationary or falling slowly. Stage at Franklin is 4.1 feet; Lock No. 4, 12.8; Pittsburgh, 13.6; Dam No. 4, 9.4; Dam No. 6, 10.1; Dam No. 8, 11.6, and Dam No. 12, 9.8. The dams are down. The rivers will rise slightly.

SEEK WIFE OF BARREL VICTIM

dismantled of its machinery and the walls and floors covered with lime. But beneath the lime detectives discovered what they believe might prove blood stains.

SLAIN IN BLOOMFIELD

Chief of County Detectives George W. Murren said he believed that Gregory was tortured and slain at the Lorigan street address and his body taken in a barrel to Penn Township.

Disappearance of Gregory's wife was declared by detectives today to be as mysterious as the murder of her husband. What motive she had for leaving the city was a puzzle to investigators.

The first real clue surrounding the disappearance of Mrs. Gregory was given today by a sister-in-law of her husband, Mrs. Helen Shoemaker, 20, of 225 Robinson street, North Side. She said that Mrs. Gregory, an employe of a 5 and 10 cent store in East Ohio street, North Side, had left the store last Wednesday in company with a male companion and her children.

WOMAN QUESTIONED

Another angle entered the investigation of Gregory's death today with the questioning of a woman—Miss Marie Wallace, of the North Side, who is said to have admitted to detectives that she was a friend of the slain man. Gaylord Lightner and his wife, Mrs. Helen Lightner, and J. B. Orr also were being held. They were arrested late Saturday when, detectives say, they were about to leave the city in Gregory's automobile.

Mrs. Lightner, a friend of Gregory and Justice, implicated De Fazia in the slaying. Mrs. Lightner told detectives she saw Gregory for the last time on Monday morning when he left the Sheffield street rooming house to "see Philip." Justice declared Gregory had told him De Fazia was the owner of the beer truck he had "hijacked."

SWEETHEART WARNED

A young woman sought as Gregory's sweetheart, according to Justice, had been warned.

"We're going to get Bill Gregory and when we do we'll get him right," the victim's father-in-law told detectives this woman had been warned.

She is believed to have known more about Gregory's business than any other person and for that reason detectives are anxious to question her

Fire Set in Search For Dime Wrecks Flour Mill

SHARON, Pa., April 7.—(AP.)—The loss of 10 cents by an 11-year-old boy was blamed today for a fire that partly destroyed the Sandy Lake flour mills and consumed a large quantity of stored grain.

Dropping a dime in a field adjacent to the mill, Lloyd Tyler, 11, obtained the aid of Frank Henderson, of Sandy Lake, to search for it. Henderson was said to have set the grass afire. Sparks were carried to the roof of the mill. The Sandy Lake Fire Department succeeded in checking the flames before the structure was burned completely.

Brady Convalescent After Operation

NEW YORK, April 7.—(INS.)—William A. Brady, 66, veteran theatrical producer, was reported resting comfortably today after an operation for appendicitis. Brady has been ill for several weeks.

PASTOR BLOCKS SUNDAY MOVIE

Dr. Robert M. Blackwood, general secretary of the Sabbath Association of Western Pennsylvania, today urged members of the Pittsburgh Ministerial Union to be on the alert against Sunday movies.

Sunday movies are being given occasionally as benefit performances, Dr. Blackwood said. He prevailed upon Public Safety Director James M. Clark to revoke a permit for a benefit show to have been given last night in Hippodrome Theater, North Side, he said.

The Rev. J. Sala Leland was elected president of the union, the Rev. W. W. T. Duncan, vice president and the Rev. Walter Retter, secretary and treasurer. The Rev. Donald Mackenzie, of Western Theological Seminary, was the principal speaker.

Court Decides U. S. May Fix Oil Prices

WASHINGTON, April 7.—(AP.)—Holding that the Secretary of the Interior has the right to fix the price at which oil taken from government-owned lands under lease may be sold, the District of Columbia Court of Appeals today reversed an action by the District of Columbia Supreme Court granting the Texas Company a permanent injunction against Secretary Wilbur.

Secretary Wilbur refused to approve a contract made by the Cody Petroleum Company to sell oil from the Oregon basin in Wyoming to the Texas Company for 53 cents a barrel at the well and insisted upon a price of 85 cents per barrel.

Mothers Baby Eight Days, Learns It Is Wrong One

CINCINNATI, April 7.—(AP.)—An interne's error was blamed by General Hospital officials today for a mistake causing Mrs. Ella Adams to mother the wrong baby for eight days. The infant really belonged to Mrs. Eunice Adams.

The mistake became known when Mrs. Eunice Adams called at the hospital to see her baby she had left there for treatment. Hospital attaches took her to an incubator ward and showed her a four-pound child.

She protested it was not her baby. Her child was not that small, she said.

Investigation showed the baby belonged to Mrs. Ella Adams and was the only survivor of triplets.

Mrs. Ella Adams was notified by telephone to return Mrs. Eunice Adams' baby. She protested, but finally acquiesced. Mrs. Eunice Adams' infant weighs 8 pounds 4 ounces.

Dr. H. H. Langdon, assistant superintendent, said the error probably occurred because both babies were indexed the same day and both mothers are named "Mrs. E. Adams."

Mrs. Eunice Adams now has her baby at home, but the baby of Mrs. Ella Adams remained in the incubator ward for treatment.

Ex-Countess Will Marry Nobleman She Shot

LONDON, April 7.—(INS.)—The engagement of Alice Silverthorne, of Buffalo, formerly the Countess De Janze, to Raymond De Trafford, wealthy Englishman and nobleman, will be announced shortly, it was reported here today.

The expected marriage will culminate a romance that began many years ago in the jungles of Kenya Colony, East Africa. The former countess met De Trafford, younger brother of Sir Humphrey De Trafford, a leader in the British sporting world, while she was in Africa.

The Countess De Janze attracted international attention three years ago when she shot and slightly wounded De Trafford in a French railway train compartment at the Gare De Nord in Paris. De Trafford insisted it was an accident, and the countess emerged from the affair with a small fine.

Soon after she was divorced from the count, and rumors began to spread that she would marry De Trafford. Friends of the latter declared today the marriage would take place within a month.

SALT MADE IN DEFI TO BRITAIN

Volunteers Refuse to Turn It Over to Authorities And Leaders Are Arrested

DANDI, Bombay, India, April 7.—(AP.)—Police and a party of followers of Mahatma Gandhi engaged in a scuffle on the beach this morning while volunteers engaged in the civil disobedience campaign were collecting salt in defiance of the government monopoly.

While so engaged the police arrived and demanded the salt, which the volunteers refused to hand over. While the altercation was in progress a number of villagers arrived at the beach and also began to collect salt.

The police then arrested the captain of the volunteers and others who had told the volunteers not to give up their salt. In the scuffle which followed two Nationalists were reported slightly injured.

GANDHI HOLDS FIRM

Mahatma Gandhi, who opened the civil disobedience campaign himself yesterday, arrived at Aat on the beach from Dandi shortly after the scuffle to observe his usual Monday silence and meditation.

In a speech written by him and read aloud by a volunteer, Gandhi said he would come to Aat again tomorrow to collect salt with the volunteers. He exhorted all the villagers to do likewise. He advised them to come clad only in loin cloths as they could not afford to have their clothes torn. He also urged them not to surrender the salt they had collected, even if the police broke their hands.

The salt gathered by Gandhi yesterday has been refined and sold at auction for 525 rupees.

SON AIDS LEADER

Manilal Gandhi, who marched with his father to Dandi, has arrived at Bhimrad, to take charge of the civil disobedience volunteers previously led by his brother, Ram Das, who was arrested yesterday with about 60 others.

A number of women volunteers have started the sale of contraband salt in Surat.

NEW GAS WELL MENACES CITY

OKLAHOMA CITY, April 7.—(AP.)—A gas well, estimated to be producing at a rate of 75,000,000 cubic feet a day, blew in at the edge of the city today, creating a new fire threat less than 24 hours after the wild No. 1 Mary Sudik gusher, several miles to the south, had been brought under control.

Tools were thrown away when the gasser came in, and the well was spurting a big column of highly-inflammable gas into the air. No immediate steps were taken to stop the flow.

Grants Extradition Of Al Capone's Aide

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., April 7.—(AP.)—Gov. Carlton today honored a requisition for the extradition of Jack McGurn, said to be Al Capone's chief aide.

McGurn, held at Miami, will answer a charge in Chicago of carrying concealed weapons.

The Governor today also honored requisition papers for the return from Orlando to Indiana of James Trout, to answer to a charge of murder in the first degree and James Leech, indicted for auto banditry and burglary.

Swindling Suspect Back in Greensburg

GREENSBURG, Pa., April 7.—Wanted in Greensburg on charges of counterfeiting, forgery, false pretense and larceny, Clifford Halliday, 26, alias Melvin Arnold, of Scottdale, today was brought back to Greensburg by state police following his arrest in Steubenville, O., last week on similar charges. Halliday attempted a jail break in Steubenville, but was captured. Local merchants and residents claim they were victims of Halliday within the last six weeks.

Woman, Man Given Terms in Rum Raid

Found guilty of operating a disorderly house, Tony Lrazeano, 34, of 1312 Pasteur street, was sentenced this morning to 30 days to jail by Judge Thomas D. Jones in Morals Court.

Police testified that they raided Lrazeano's establishment at 8 Shomin street, rear, yesterday and found 35 bottles of moonshine. A woman found in the raided house was sentenced to five days in jail. She gave her name as Mrs. Thresa Conley, 31, of 1312 Colwell street.

Wife Dies in Leap At Resort Hotel

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., April 7.—(INS.)—Mrs. Marion Bunting, 32, of Drexel Hill, Pa., wife of George M. Bunting, an electrical contractor of Philadelphia, leaped or fell to her death today from a seventh floor window of Hotel Dennis. Bunting said his wife had suffered a nervous breakdown. Dr. Isaac Leonard, acting county physician, pronounced the death a suicide.

JOB INCREASED IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, April 7.—(AP.)—A definite increase in employment is reported by 1,350 business and industrial firms with headquarters here, the New York Board of Trade announced today.

The Board sent out a questionnaire recently and 1,500 had answered thus far. The majority of these companies, many of which have branches and connections in all parts of the United States, reported payrolls up to or above the average, and the executives of most expressed the belief that business had passed its lowest depression and that a steady improvement would follow.

One group reported that although keeping their personnel intact they were passing through a period of depression which made full-sized staffs unnecessary.

Policemen Escape In Saloon Bombing

CHICAGO, April 7.—(AP.)—A bomb exploding in the doorway of a South Side saloon operated by Patrick Gallagher as two patrolmen were passing yesterday showered the officers with debris. Neither was injured.

The resort was closed at the time of the explosion which wrecked the place. Police attributed the bombing to a beer feud.

Woman Painfully Burned in Fire

FREEDOM, Pa., April 7.—Trapped in the second floor of their home by flames, Mrs. Henry Klingelhoeffer, 65, suffered severe burns about the head, face and body. Her son, Paul, 19, escaped by climbing over the roof from his bedroom. Fire swept through the interior of the seven-roomed frame house, entailing a loss estimated at $3,500.

Fourth Attempt At Suicide Succeeds

DENVER, April 7.—(AP.)—Joseph Primock, 57, wealthy Denver jobber, yesterday was successful in his fourth attempt at suicide. Primock shot himself to death in a hotel room. Police who had been searching for him since last Tuesday said a quarrel with relatives apparently caused the jobber to take his life.

Police records show he made three previous attempts to end his life, once at Greeley, Col., by means of gas, a second time when he jumped from a bridge in Chicago and a third time in another city.

3 DIE AS PLANE FALLS, BURNS

HAYS, Kan., April 7.—(AP.)—Apparent failure of a biplane to straighten out of a "wing-over" brought death to Leslie Marshall, 34, the pilot, and Orvill Herbert and Melvin Ridgway, both passengers and both 19 years old.

They were killed here yesterday at the Hays Flying Field.

Falling from an altitude of about 500 feet, the airplane burst into flames when it struck the ground.

Pilsudski Calls German Doctor

STATE SENATOR MAX LESLIE QUITS RACE

city. It was recalled today that he was instrumental in bringing about the "harmony" ticket resulting in the election of Mayor Kline for his first term.

During the heydey of his political career, Leslie was given credit for the election of four mayors. He backed Joseph G. Armstrong in 1913, E. V. Babcock in 1917, William A. Magee in 1921 and Mayor Kline in 1925.

ARMSTRONG TRIBUTE

When Commissioner Armstrong was notified of Leslie's withdrawal from the senatorial race today, he said:

"Senator Leslie's withdrawal means that Allegheny County will lose the keenest mind that has represented it at Harrisburg."

Commissioner Armstrong was asked how the withdrawal would affect his son's plans as a candidate for the State Senate. He said that Armstrong, Jr., would have to speak for himself.

CAREER BEGAN IN 1889

Leslie's first public office was that of deputy revenue collector for Pittsburgh, to which he was appointed in 1889. He was a member of the Common Council from 1896 to 1904, and was president of the councils in 1901 and 1902. He was chairman of the Republican city executive committee from 1901 to 1916.

Leslie achieved leadership in the city in 1912 when Roosevelt was running for president. At that time the late Senator William Flinn, backing Roosevelt, proposed present Secretary of Labor James J. Davis as a candidate for the Republican national convention. Leslie and Commissioner Armstrong succeeded in having Davis withdraw from the race and they put Edward M. Bigelow forward as their candidate. Flinn then threw his support to Charles Frazee and elected him. From that time on, however, Leslie gradually increased his power in local politics.

James Off Davis-Brown Ticket; Magee Withdraws

Lines of division in Pennsylvania's political situation will be sharply drawn by tonight, with the expected elimination of several candidates from the state ticket. This is the final day for filing withdrawal petitions. All names of candidates not canceled today must appear on primary election ballots.

Harmony in the Davis-Brown camp seemed assured today with the announcement of Lieut. Gov. Arthur H. James of his withdrawal as a candidate for justice of the Supreme Court.

James and Judge George W. Maxey were rivals for a place on the slate headed by Secretary of Labor James J. Davis, for United States senator and Francis Shunk Brown, for governor.

MAXEY WINS PLACE

James' withdrawal announced last night in Wilkes-Barre, is taken as a sign that William S. Vare has joined other members of the Philadelphia "War Board" for the slating of Judge Maxey.

John Garverich, of Harrisburg, withdrew today as a candidate for the Republican nomination for secretary of internal affairs, and threw his support to the incumbent, Secretary James Woodward of McKeesport. Others left in the race are State Librarian Frederic A. Godcharles; Philip Dewey, manager of the State Workmen's Insurance Fund; Charles C. McLain, of Indiana, and Charles Fred White, of Coatesville.

MAGEE WITHDRAWS

In the local field, former Congressman James M. Magee withdrew formally today from the contest in the Thirty-fifth Congressional District and asked his friends to support Stanley Carrington in opposition to Congressman Harry A. Estep, seeking renomination.

Late last night there had been no announced withdrawals in the Sullivan-O'Malley-Morin contest for Congress in the Thirty-fourth District.

O'Malley's friends said last night he would stay in the fight to the finish and Morin's supporters declared he would make a definite announcement probably late today.

LEGISLATURE CHANGES

State Representative candidates withdrawing included Jerry J. Moriarty and Leonard P. Kane, Pittsburgh, Republican, Fourth Allegheny; Edward C. Kroll, Republican, Sixth Allegheny; Gilmore Roy Keitzer and Robert M. Taylor, Homestead, Republican, Eleventh Allegheny; James Hanley, Pittsburgh, Republican, Third Allegheny; Herman C. A. Hofacker, Republican, Twelfth Allegheny; Samuel L. Cheeseman, Butler, Republican, Butler County; Emmett Sipe, Connellsville, Republican, Second Fayette.

Glider Flights At Schenley Oval

Members of the recently organized Pittsburgh Glider Club took short hops yesterday at Schenley Oval, with a large number of interested spectators on hand. Yesterday's meet was the second period of preliminary flights for members. A score flew the motorless craft at low altitude.

Another meeting of the club is scheduled next Sunday at the oval, after which a more desirable gliding site will be sought. Mounted police were on hand yesterday to keep spectators from interfering with the flights.

DAVIS QUARTERS IN HENRY

County Commissioner Armstrong and his chief clerk, William H. Ziefel will open headquarters in the Hotel Henry for the Davis-Brown campaign in Allegheny County. Headquarters for other western counties will be opened soon in the William Penn Hotel.

Headquarters for Senator Joseph R. Grundy, who is seeking to succeed himself, will be opened today in the Pittsburgher Hotel. S. C. Jamison, Grundy's local representative, will direct the Senator's western campaign with the assitance of State Senator Coyne, Republican city chairman.

PINCHOT MEETING

Frank I. Gollmar, Allegheny County chairman of former Gov. Pinchot's campaign for another term, has called Western Pennsylvania leaders to a meeting today in the Magee Building headquarters.

Pinchot is expected to be in Pittsburgh for meetings and a speech in McKeesport next Wednesday night. He will broadcast over KDKA and WJAS on Thursday and Friday nights and hold conferences on Saturday.

Headquarters for the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment have been obtained in the Magee Building across the hall from the Pinchot suite.

The anti-dry group is supporting a ticket headed by Francis H. Bohlen, University of Pennsylvania professor, for United States Senator; former Congressman Thomas W. Phillips, of Butler, for governor, and Charles Dorrance, mining engineer of Scranton, for lieutenant governor.

MELLON HOME TOMORROW

W. L. Mellon, former Republican state chairman, was expected to return to Pittsburgh tomorrow, after a 10 days absence, and indicate his choice of state candidates.

There is a growing conviction that the Mellons would give moral support to Grundy, but would not take an active part in the campaign.

Brown's announcement from Philadelphia last Saturday that he was in favor of a referendum on the liquor question was attacked by Pinchot and Phillips.

Pinchot characterized Brown's statement as a "pitiful postponement and evasion." Phillips declared Brown's stand presented in the gubernatorial race "a wet ticket, a dry ticket and a straddle ticket."

Traffic Drive Urged To Cut Accidents

Rigid enforcement of traffic ordinances was urged today by Lewis W. McIntyre, chairman of the Better Traffic Committee enforcement section, to curtail accidents.

Citing the first three months of this year, with the highest number of fatalities ever recorded here in a like period, McIntyre stated great reductions have been made possible through concentrated enforcement. St. Louis and Detroit are outstanding in their results through this method, he said.

American Lawyer Rhine River Victim

STRASBOURG, France, April 7.—(AP.)—The body of a man who jumped or fell into the Rhine River yesterday was identified today by papers in his pockets as that of Herbert S. Brannon, lawyer, born in Chicago, in 1892. Brannon arrived recently in Strasbourg on a sightseeing visit. Spectators who saw him fall said that he appeared abnormal.

any more for a long time. Goody, goody, goody, as the child says. But what KIND of battleships will Britain and Japan scrap. Will they scrap ships still able to go under their own power? Or will they scrap lovely blue prints, such as the late Lord Balfour so nobly scrapped when he made amusing scraps of our statesmen?

THIRTEEN years ago, yesterday this country entered the war, after yelling about a statesman that "kept us out" of it, for a little while. That war cost us fifty-one thousand million dollars, and will cost us fifty thousand millions more, before we cease paying for it. Taxpayers have paid more than six billions, in interest on the war debt, already. The exact sum paid is $6,748,088,000.

OUR share of nine hundred millions to be saved, by tieing ourselves up in a new foreign entanglement would not amount to much, compared with the cost of a new war.

Uncle Sam should keep ready and able to defend himself, no matter what anybody else may do, and without anybody's help. He is rich and powerful enough to do that.

And with an adequate air fleet and submarine fleet, it would not be expensive, as defense costs go.

IF WE have any Triple Alliance, it should be made up of Mexico, Canada, United States, ALL AMERICAN, ALL INTERESTED IN THE SAME TERRITORY.

And we should be grateful to the British dominions, Canada especially, for squashing the stupid suggestion that this nation guarantee to take part in defending European nations in case of attack.

Canada and other British dominions said to Britain, "You can give that guarantee for England, but not for us," and the scheme fell flat, happily for us.

FIVE-DAY WEEK HELD JOB CURE

NEW YORK, April 7.—(Universal.)—Adoption of the five-day week in American industry and business is held out by William F. Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, as a panacea for unemployment and business depression.

Green, speaking before the Independent Order of B'rith Abraham in the Brooklyn Jewish Center, also urged maintenance of wage levels as a means of preventing recurring periods of idleness and business stagnation.

FOX SELLS OUT FILM STOCK TO SYNDICATE

Relinquishes Control to End Financial Troubles; Will Remain as Advisor

International News Service.

NEW YORK, April 7.—The gigantic financial battle of control of the Fox theater and motion picture enterprises ended today when William Fox announced a final peace move. The magnate relinquished control of his $300,000,000 movie business in the sale of his 151,000 "B" stock shares to a syndicate headed by Harley L. Clarke, president of General Theaters Equipment, Inc. Clarke is a Chicago public utilities company head.

Fox Film class "A" stock's brilliant jump of nearly 10 points to $50 a share this morning was the stock market's response to the announcement. Loew's, in which Fox Film holds controlling interest, jumped 3½ points today to $84 a share. General Theaters Equipment, a recent addition to the stock exchange's list, advanced a point to 49.

The Stock Exchange announced that dealings in the rights to subscribe for class A common stock and debentures, as tentatively offered under the Bancamerica-Blair refinancing plan, had been suspended, as verbal notice of withdrawal of the offerings had been received. All trades in these rights will be canceled, leaving only the brokerage commissions to be paid.

FOX TO GIVE AID

In a formal statement, Samuel Untermyer, attorney for Fox, said the conflicting banking interests involved in refinancing the Fox companies will participate jointly in a new refinancing plan that will feature a $50,000,000 issue of 6½ debentures.

The price received by the magnate from the Chicago syndicate was not revealed.

Fox, although selling control, will continue as chairman of an advisory board of the company for five years.

Both Halsey, Stuart & Co. and the Bancamerica-Blair-Lehman-Dillon-Read banking groups will aid the refinancing, it was announced, and both have approved the new organization plan.

W. R. Sheehan, vice president of the Fox companies, who backed the Halsey Stuart refinancing plan, said Clarke has provided ample finances to cover an expansion program.

DEBTS TO BE PAID

Untermeyer said that all the debts of the Fox companies would be paid at once with interest. He said all pending litigation "will doubtless" be dismissed.

Fox's financial and legal troubles were revealed last October, shortly after he recovered from injuries sustained in an automobile accident. Two stockholders' suits, demanding an equity receivership were filed, and these started an amazing succession of legal actions, climaxed in recent weeks by several injunctions.

Arkansas Town Fills Offices With Women

YELLVILLE, Ark., April 7.—(AP.)—The city government of Yellville, small mountain town of North Arkansas, will pass into feminine hands the coming year.

An all-woman ticket has been elected without opposition, and indications are the appointive offices, even to that of town marshal, will be filled by women. The city officials are headed by Mrs. V. L. Walton, mayor.

CANCER SERUM AIDS BOY

LOS ANGELES, April 7.—(Universal.)—Outstanding among the 750 cancer patients treated with the Coffey-Humber sheep-gland extract was a [illegible]-year-old boy from Long Beach.

Eight weeks ago this lad was suffering from a sarcoma of the mouth which almost closed his breathing passages and almost prevented him from speaking. And, besides, he was weak and emaciated.

The boy, speaking freely, breathing easily, told Dr. John D. Humber:

"I've gained [illegible] pounds since my first injection—and I'm able to work."

The malignant growth has almost disappeared.

Dr. Humber and his wife treated 450 patients at the clinic and more than [illegible] at various city hospitals. As always the cancer sufferers reported favorable progress.

Mexicans Check Communist Plot

MEXICO CITY, April 7.—(AP.)—Dispatches to La Prensa from Orizaba and Vera Cruz report that alleged plots for a Communist revolt in Orizaba, Cordoba, Jalapa and Vera Cruz, where the party is strong, were checked by wholesale arrests of labor leaders. Troops have been placed on guard around public buildings in Vera Cruz to prevent any attempt at disorder.

KILL 2 CONVICTS IN JAIL BREAK

FOLSOM PRISON, Cal., April 7.—(AP.)—Two convicts were killed in an attempted prison break here yesterday and another prisoner was wounded seriously.

The convicts who died before the rifles of the guards were Harry Stewart, 36, sentenced from San Francisco, and Edward Baker from Orange County. Baker was serving five terms of from five years to life, each running concurrently.

Stewart was committed December 27, 1928, for second degree robbery. His term was from one year to life. Baker also was committed for robbery.

Constable Jailed As Drunken Driver

GRAPTON, W. Va., April 7.—(AP.)—C. P. Green, Taylor County constable, pleaded guilty to driving while intoxicated and was fined $136 and sent to jail for 60 days. Green's resignation was demanded by Prosecuting Attorney James C. Holt. He wrecked his automobile on a street here.

Meyersdale Banker, Ill, Kills Himself

MEYERSDALE, Pa., April 7.—(AP.)—John N. Cover, 55, prominent banker and business man, died yesterday afternoon of a self-inflicted bullet wound, according to a coroner's report. He had been in ill health.

Boys Cling to Pier Hour Awaiting Rescue

OIL CITY, Pa., April 7.—Two Oil City school boys, with their dog, pushed out from shore in a homemade raft. The swift current of the Allegheny River carried them quickly into midstream. The raft struck an eddy and swung into the pier of the dismantled Petroleum street bridge.

The raft was broken in two. Boy Scouts knowing the rudiments of swimming, they clung to the pier until rescue came an hour later.

A crowd of several thousand watched them until Howard Smithman came to the rescue in a motorboat.

The boys, James Isherwood, 13, and Donald Reed, 14, were bundled into a waiting car and hurried home.

Obituary

Guy Randall Ainsworth

Guy Randall Ainsworth, 54, of 2646 Voelkel avenue, Dormont, died yesterday while being taken to the South Side Hospital. Mr. Ainsworth had been an advertising solicitor for the Sun-Telegraph for the last two and a half years. He was formerly affiliated with various moving picture companies. He was a member of St. Clair Lodge No. 684, F. and A. M.; Chartiers Commandery No. 78, Knights Templar, and the Almas Club of Dormont. Masonic services will be held Tuesday evening at the Beinhauer mortuary, 2630 West Liberty avenue. He leaves his wife and a son, Guy S. Ainsworth, of Seattle, Wash. Interment will be made in Mt. Lebanon Cemetery.

Gleim Funeral.

The body of Perry M. Gleim, 79, who died in Los Angeles, Cal., February 8, was to arrive in Pittsburgh today for burial. Services were to be conducted at Aeberli's Chapel, North Side, and burial was to be in Uniondale Cemetery. Mr. Gleim was a retired North Side druggist and was in business on the North Side for many years. He retired and went to California five years ago. Mr. Gleim was a member of the Reformed Church of the Ascension and of McKinley Lodge, No. 318, F. and A. M., of which he was a past master. He leaves his widow, Mrs. Amelia Gleim, and a daughter, Mrs. William S. Church, of Chicago.

O'Donnell Funeral.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow for Peter O'Donnell, Sr., 72, for 37 years an employe of the Cresson Steel Company, who died Friday in his home, at 5256 Carnegie avenue. The services will be held in St. Kieran's Catholic Church, and interment will be in St. Mary's Cemetery. Mr. O'Donnell also spent seven years in the employ of Spear & Co. He was born in Ireland and came to Pittsburgh when a young man. He leaves his widow, Mrs. Catherine McKinney O'Donnell; seven sons, two daughters, a brother, two sisters and 21 grandchildren.

John Linnenbrink.

ROCHESTER, Pa., April 7.—John Linnenbrink, 86, retired jeweler, died last night at his home here. He was born in Zelienople, served his apprenticeship at watchmaking in Pittsburgh and located here in 1865. He retired 10 years ago. He introduced the first carrier service for Pittsburgh dailies here. His father, Dr. Joseph Linnenbrink, was the physician to the Economite Society from 1846 to the time of his death in 1871. He leaves three daughters, Miss Abbie, Miss Louise and Miss Adelaide. His wife, who died some years ago, was a granddaughter of United States Senator Abner Lacock.

George A. Smith.

George A. Smith, 73, a former member of the state legislature and Republican committeeman from Westmoreland County, died Saturday in his home at Derry, Pa. He was born in Latrobe and came to Derry 40 years ago. He had been engaged in the clothing business for many years. Mr. Smith was a member of the Masons, the Shrine, the Derry Chamber of Commerce and Rotary Club. He leaves his widow, Mrs. Mary Malone Smith, five sons and a daughter.

Mrs. Sarah A. Dunn.

AMBRIDGE, Pa., April 7.—Mrs. Sarah A. Dunn, 74, wife of Thomas Dunn, is dead at her home in Baden. She was born in Britton Ferry, Wales, and moved here when 11 years old. She leaves her husband and two sons, Allen B. and Thomas Dunn, Jr., both of Ambridge.

Mrs. Lucy Irons Dolphin.

Mrs. Lucy Irons Dolphin, 70, formerly of Pittsburgh, died yesterday in a San Francisco hospital. As a young woman Mrs. Dolphin was a telegraph operator for some years at Indiana, Pa., and Pittsburgh. She leaves a son, J. Chester Dolphin, of Redwood City, Cal., and two sisters, Mrs. Ella Corbin, of Rochester, Pa., and Mrs. P. O. McKeon, of Tulsa, Okla. Another sister, Mrs. Jacob Henrici, died about a year ago.

Seton Hill Official Will Address Grads

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., April 7.—The Immaculate Conception Catholic High School, completing its first term as a four-year institution, will hold its commencement exercises on Sunday, June 8. The speakers will be the Rev. Dr. James A. Reeves, vice president of Seton Hill College at Greensburg.

200,000 RUSH GREEK STADIUM

ATHENS, Greece, April 7.—(AP.)—A crowd of nearly 200,000 persons stormed the gates of the Athens Stadium yesterday afternoon in an excited rush to obtain seats for one of the principal shows in connection with the centennial celebration of Greek independence now in progress.

Police cordons were swept aside and the people swarmed into the seats, including those reserved for officials and diplomats.

The attraction was a dramatic presentation of some of the chief scenes of the war for independence played by more than 5,000 performers.

Death of Wealthy Doctor Held Suicide

LOS ANGELES, April 7.—(AP.)—Police here announced that their investigation of the death of Dr. Henry J. Woodhouse, 79, revealed the wealthy retired physician had committed suicide.

Dr. Woodhouse's body was found Friday night in a vacant house in Pasadena. An autopsy revealed he had been shot in the head. The investigation was launched on the theory of police that the physician may have surprised a burglar in the house, a $70,000 structure he owned.

Berlin and Moscow Linked by Telephone

MOSCOW, April 7.—(AP.)—The Soviet capital is now linked by direct telephone with Berlin. The Associated Press correspondent here talked with the Berlin correspondent for 15 minutes yesterday, the conversation being as clear as it is between two local telephone stations of any American city.

The line is not at present available for the transmission of news dispatches by Moscow correspondents, but it is understood that the authorities are now discussing this question.

National Mine Union To Hold Meet Here

ZIEGLER, Ill., April 7.—(AP.)—Earl Golly, of Belleville, was elected by a state meeting of the National Miners' Union here to visit Russia this summer and study working conditions there, paying especially attention to wage scales and hours. He is to report his findings to another state meeting.

Announcement was made that a national convention would be held in Pittsburgh on June 1.

Missionary Freed By Chinese Bandits

HANKOW, China, April 7.—(AP.)—The Rev. R. H. Glazier, British missionary who escaped from a bandit attack against Yuanchow, Kiangso province, March 27, said that Miss Nina E. Gemmell, formerly of Girard, Kan., and Tacoma, Wash., had been released by the bandits who captured her and two other missionaries in the attack.

Mr. Glazier arrived at Changsha, Hunan, yesterday.

Injuries in Fight Causes Man's Death

DOVER, April 7.—John Aul, 27, living near Strasburg, died at Union Hospital of skull injuries received 10 days ago when struck by a brick during a fight with his cousin, Paul Aul, 26, police said. Sheriff Harry C. Smith is conducting an investigation.

DENIES ACTORS JOINED NAVY

NEW YORK, April 7.—(AP.)—Lieut. Com. Glenn Howell, of the naval intelligence office of this district, last night protested that it was "a reflection upon the good name of the Navy" to say that a number of the actors in Mae West's "Pleasure Man" had joined the Navy after their arrest in connection with the closing of the show as an indecent performance and their release on bail.

A thorough investigation, he said, showed that "none of these people" is in the Navy.

The statement that some of the defendants had joined the Navy was made at various times during the trial, which recently ended in a disagreement of the jury, by both Assistant District Attorney James G. Wallace, the prosecutor, and Nathan Burkan, defense counsel.

SUICIDE IN SHIP MYSTERY SEEN

SAN PEDRO, Cal., April 7.—(AP.)—Investigation of the disappearance of Helen Irene Fink, singer, who vanished from her stateroom aboard the steamship Virginia last Wednesday night while the vessel was 300 miles off San Diego, apparently was closed yesterday.

Department of Justice agents boarded the Virginia when she docked here Saturday, talked with Capt. James I. Roberts, master of the vessel, and expressed the opinion that the woman, who lived in Washington, D. C., and was a member of a Philadelphia family, had committed suicide by leaping from a porthole.

Don't fool yourself!

Since halitosis never announces itself to the victim, you simply cannot know when you have it.

Halitosis makes you unpopular

If you are not as popular as you wish to be, look for the cause. Possibly it is halitosis (unpleasant breath)—the unpardonable social offense.

It is impossible for you to tell when you have halitosis. It never announces itself to you.

The one way to be sure of not having it is to rinse the mouth systematically every day with full strength Listerine — especially before meeting others.

Being an active germicide capable of killing 200,000,000 germs in 15 seconds, full strength Listerine checks mouth fermentation and infection—both a cause of odors. Then it gets rid of the odors themselves; it is an instant deodorant.

Keep a bottle handy in home and office. Use it every day. It puts you on the polite, popular and profitable side. Lambert Pharmacal Company, St. Louis, Mo., U. S. A.

DEBATERS LAUD AMERICAN SCHOOLS

Arguments Hold Private, Not Public Institutions Produce Great Men

A debate was held in Sacred Heart Church, Shady avenue and Walnut street, last night between the Rev. Dr. E. Lawrence O'Connell and the Rev. Howard J. Carroll on the subject, "Education and Americanism."

"The first American schools," said Father O'Connell, "were religious schools. The same thing can be said of most of our American colleges.

"For over 200 years after the settlement of the English colonies all the schools were church schools.

CHURCH SCHOOLS FIRST

"The tax-supported public schools, as a system of state education, dates from 1850, some 60 years after the adoption of the Constitution of the United States.

"Three generations of American children were being educated, and well educated, before any one ever heard of the public school. Hence the public school. Hence the public school as at present constituted has utterly no claim to be the only true American one.

"From the very beginnings of our national history the private school and the religious school has carried a great burden of educating large numbers of American children, as any one who knows American history can testify."

LAUDS PRIVATE SCHOOLS

Father Carroll, answering the Sunday Sun-Telegraph's full-page feature about public schools, said the private school and not the public school had produced the greatest Americans. Washington, Webster, McKinley, Roosevelt and Wilson were all products, not of the public, but of private religious schools, he asserted.

Of all the Presidents of the United States, continued Father Carroll, 16 were educated in religious colleges. Of the justices of the Supreme Court, seven out of eight of them were educated in religious colleges.

German Makes Dye From Dead Cactus

BERLIN.—That a certain species of cactus can be made to produce a natural plant dye, is the claim of Prof. H. Molisch, a German chemist. He has named it "cactorubin," because of its reddish color, and says that it is produced when the cells of the plant die.

National Sewing Week

To those who have not yet discovered the pleasure and smart economy of sewing, National Sewing Week affords a most favorable occasion . . . To make an attractive dress, a dainty outfit for a child, new over-drapes, or other decorations, is a pleasant as well as profitable adventure.

During National Sewing Week make it a point to see for yourself how modern patterns and the electric sewing machine have simplified the making of good-fitting clothes and smart ensembles.

In her article recently published in the American Magazine, Mrs. Coolidge graciously expresses her appreciation of what sewing has meant throughout her eventful life.

Mrs. Hoover's leadership in the Girl Scout movement, in which sewing is given a prominent place, shows her high regard for sewing skill.

CHANCES FADE FOR SENATE DRY PROBE

Norris Loses Hope When Mitchell Opposes; Speed Urged on Transfer Bill

WASHINGTON, April 7—(AP.)—Early action on the prohibition enforcement transfer bill and on prison relief measures was advocated before the Senate Judiciary Committee today by Attorney General Mitchell to help administration of the dry law.

The bill for the transfer of the enforcement unit from the Treasury Department to the Department of Justice has been passed by the House.

The attorney general regarded unfavorably the resolution of Chairman Norris proposing a Senate investigation of prohibition enforcement and the author conceded after the meeting that he had little hope for the inquiry.

When Chairman Norris called his attention to Mrs Mabel Walker Willebrandt's newspaper article on prohibition, the attorney general excused himself from comment on the ground that her charges dealt with a period prior to this administration.

Reporting that federal prisons were greatly overcrowded, Mitchell attributed this principally to increased prosecutions under the dry law. However, he said the Dyer automobile theft law, the Mann act and the Narcotic act also had contributed to the increase in number of prisoners.

After again deferring action on the Norris resolution the committee held itself ready to hear Senator Borah (Rep., Idaho), who has charged laxity in enforcement, and Senator Wheeler (Dem., Montana), who also has asked a Senate inquiry before taking a final vote.

Arguing for the transfer measure, Mitchell said the same government department which investigates and arrests prohibition violators should prosecute them. He opposed, however, the provision to transfer to the Justice Department control over the industrial and medicinal alcohol permits.

Discussing his resolution, Senator Norris said after the committee session that he doesn't think there has been a fair test of enforcement and he would like to learn the facts. He said that if the people who are as ardent prohibitionists as he feel an investigation would hinder the new administration he doesn't want to spill the beans. He added that he has not observed improvement in enforcement under the Hoover administration.

Swiss Approve Increased Tax On Rum

BERNE, Switzerland, April 7 (AP). A referendum for revision of the Swiss law governing the manufacture and sale of alcohol has been voted by 482,000 to 317,000. The bill does not provide for the limitation of manufacture or sale but only for increased internal revenue.

Seventeen cantons were favorable to the revision and five against. Twenty-five million liters of distilled liquors were manufactured in Switzerland in 1929. The country has 4,000,000 inhabitants.

Kelly, Foss Postal Pay Bills Favored

WASHINGTON, April 7 (AP). W. Irving Glover, Second Assistant Postmaster General, today urged favorable action on the Foss bill to raise salaries in the railway mail service and the Kelly bill to provide more promotion possibilities in that service before the House Postoffice Committee.

The bill would make salaries range from $3,200 to $5,000.

These famous Kraft-Phenix Foods

Good till April 12

Regular Full-Sized Packages

Both for 33¢

TWO famous Kraft Cheese foods . . distinctly different . . offered to you at a special Lenten combination price . . this week only!

"Philadelphia" Cream Cheese is the table dainty that looks like whipped cream and spreads like creamed butter.

Fresh and cool as you take it from its silver foil wrapper, it can be put right onto the table. Served with fruits and after-dinner coffee . . salads. Spread on your morning toast with strawberry jam. And, of course, it's a classic for sandwiches!

Velveeta, the new cheese food, is as golden as "Philadelphia" Cream is snowy-white.

In Velveeta the finest Cheddar cheese is combined with valuable elements of milk which are lost in the usual cheese making. That's why authorities recommend Velveeta for children. That's why anyone can eat freely of this delicious cheese food. It's as digestible as milk itself.

Velveeta's so easy to use. It slices when chilled. Spreads like butter. Melts on the instant . . toasts an even tempting brown.

EASTER MODES SPRING 1930

As Depicted by Pittsburgh Stylists daily in the Sun-Telegraph

IN A SEASON which has introduced so many new and attractive styles, the four we have illustrated here are typical examples of what smart women will buy in Pittsburgh stores for Easter wear. They are as amazingly noteworthy for their extremely advantageous pricing as for their undeniable chic. In their selection and portrayal, we have attempted a composite of the style for Spring, as decreed by stylists and buyers in all of Pittsburgh's important shops and stores. We have culled the stores' fashion advertising, appearing every day in the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, for this information.

At left—Tailored suit of lacy tweed with the important finger-tip jacket, high-belted and nipped-in at waist. Truly feminine and decidedly of the vogue. The flared skirt interprets the mode becomingly. The blouse of flat crepe.

NEW SPRING HATS

LAST-MINUTE versions of captivating chic in millinery are presented in this collection of hats from which smart women are choosing for Easter. Copies of Paris creations in lacy straws, linen, baku, ballibuntl and other exotic straws of 1930. Baku hat, pictured above, is popular in either black or colors.

SMART ACCESSORIES

THE last touches to your costume, but by no means the least important. Pittsburgh's great stores and shops offer a fascinating assortment. Sketched at random.

The Handkerchiefs of fine linen with new patterns in colors to match the costume or complete the ensemble.

CHICAGO'S REDS RIOT, 20 HURT

CHICAGO, April 7.—(INS.)—Nearly a score of persons were suffering today from serious injuries inflicted in Communist rioting which resulted yesterday when the United Ukranian Societies of Chicago held a parade and mass meeting of protest against Soviet activities.

Squads of police reserves guarded the paraders following the clash to prevent further violence. The clash, involving 2,500 persons, broke out at the St. Nicholas Ukranian Church when Communists distributing literature against the parade were dispersed and the leaflets destroyed.

Dozens of persons were slugged and trampled in the melee. Three are known to have suffered fractured skulls.

AIR KIDNAPING 'FAMILY ROW'

NEW YORK, April 7.—(INS.)—Bronx police have lost interest in J. Morgan Corbett, wealthy Boston realtor, alleged airplane kidnaper of James D. Quinn, handsome young aviation mechanic.

Quinn charges, according to the police, that Corbett and three aids beat him unmercifully to make him tell where Corbett's beautiful estranged wife is now living.

"Just a family squabble," police and the district attorney's office declared. "It may be settled out of court."

Edward Klein, of New York; Arthur Hamel, of Haverhill, Mass., and Edward Kendall, of North Reading, Mass., will answer charges Wednesday.

WOMAN IN FALL LOSES SUIT

A jury today returned a verdict for the city in a $20,000 damage suit brought by Edward Carrier and his wife, Ada, of Veto street.

Mrs. Carrier averred she stumbled on uneven bricks in Veto street, fell into a manhole and suffered severe injuries on March 28, 1928.

Assistant City Solicitor Harry Diamond argued that while the city was obligated to keep streets and sidewalks in good repair, it was impossible to prevent unevenness.

Montefiore Given Motor Ambulance

A modern automobile ambulance today was part of the equipment of the Montefiore Hospital. The ambulance was presented to the hospital by the Montefiore Aid Society yesterday. A. Oseroff, acting president of the institution, received the gift from Miss Esther Levitt, president of the society.

The ambulance, which cost $4,000, was the second valuable gift the society has made to the hospital in recent years. In the building of the new hospital at Fifth avenue and Darragh street, the society contributed $10,000 to the general building fund.

Beaten by Gang Along Boulevard

Attacked by a gang of young men at the corner of Washington street and Bigelow boulevard this morning, Walter Rodgers, 33, of 1018 Gibbons street, was severely beaten. Police removed him to the Mercy Hospital where it was stated he had suffered fractures of the jaw and nose. Several stitches were placed in a wound on the chin. He was unable to give a reason for the attack.

PAIR HELD IN CHILD'S DEATH

NORWICH, N. Y., April 7.—(AP.)—Charged with murder in connection with the death of his 11-year-old daughter, Ralph H. Mumbluo, 34, and his wife, Edna, 37, were arrested here and held for extradition to Erie, Pa.

The clothing of the little girl, who burned to death in her bed at her Erie home March 22, was soaked with gasoline, police said.

The child inherited property valued at about $8,000 from her mother, Mumbulo's first wife, when she died seven years ago. Mumbulo was named guardian. The girl's life was insured.

"Girl Unafraid"

"Girl Unafraid" is the tragic love story of Ardeth Carroll, a golden haired, amber eyed Irish girl, who defied convention when the boy she loved was forced to marry another girl by his mother.

An orphan, Ardeth lived with her Aunt Stel. Growing up into a beautiful young lady, she longs for the finer things of life. Her first taste of real romance comes when she sees Ken Gleason, star football player, win laurels on the gridiron. She clips his picture from the paper and treasures it secretly.

Neil Burke, her childhood sweetheart, roughly wins her kisses but not her heart.

Ardeth becomes manager of a tea shop and there becomes acquainted with Ken Gleason. It was a case of love at first sight.

Kenneth explains to her mother that his mother's death is expected at any time and that he cannot disappoint her as she has looked forward always to his marrying Cecile Parker.

The Baxters on Vacation And Sharon Lynn Buys House

By DOROTHY HERZOG

(Copyright 1930 by Premier Syndicate, Inc.)

HOLLYWOOD, April 7.

THE Warner Baxters board the Chief en route to New York, and thence to Cuba for a well earned vacation. They will be home in five weeks . . . Marjorie White and Dixie Lee also plan a vacation. They are wavering 'twixt geographical extremities: New York or Honolulu. Go East, young women, go East . . . I See in the publik prints that Marie Corda, ex-wife of Alexander (Director) Korda, is now in England and declaring for publication that her next husband will be Mr. Korda—if any. At least this is keeping the publicity in the family, divided though it be except via alimony —Elsie Ferguson has arrived in town to appear in a Warner flick . . . Sharon Lynn has purchased Clive Brook's Malibu Beach house which is neighbored by Ronald Colman's and William Lebaron's ditto. Ronald, by the by, is said to have met Gloria Swanson for the first time—and that some time ago. Bayard (playwright) Vieller is in town to attend a bit of business and round up an emoter or two for his forthcoming Broadway play.

MOVIE SEX APPEAL

IT was one of those general merchandise country store sets the studio czar chanced to see it. He looked around disapprovingly.

"Bad," tersely. "No sex appeal on the set."

It was gently suggested that in a general merchandise country store set there could hardly be sex appeal.

"Ought to have a touch of S. A.," insisted the czar.

Some one hit on the solution. A dog and pups were rented by the property department. Said dog and pups occupied a languorous spot on the floor by the stove.

The czar was content. The set had a touch of sex appeal.

SHIES AT SPIDERS

IN her effort to find the right residence for herself, Vivienne Segal, mascoted by her ankle-high pups, So-No-More and Kens, accompanied a real estate gent much on the roof rounds. She was on the verge of taking one of the houses she looked at, but suddenly her eye spotted an enormous spider spinning a ditto web in a corner of the ceiling.

Vivienne Segal

"Look at the size of that animal!" shrilled Vivienne.

BACK TO BROADWAY

RUTH CLOSER HALE—or should the first name be Louise? At all events Miss Hale is a famous actress, along in years but young in spirit. She signed a four weeks' contract with A. W. K. Film Kumpny to come to Hollywood and portray a featured role in some picture or other. She arrived. She visited the studio. She was kept waiting in the reception hall. No one seemed to know Miss Hale.

Finally, a ray of enlightenment blessed an exek. He had Miss Hale ushered into his office. He explained to her that his studio had changed its mind about her playing the part she was signed to play. It had been given to another. She could take her four-week contract out in writing, she being a writer of some note.

Miss Hale said nothing. She departed the studio. She shortly after, I am told, departed Hollywood en route to New York. No comment.

GALLOWS THERE, BUT MAN DOESN'T DIE IN SHERIDAN

By JOHN MANNING.

"Guilty" is the new talkie in the Sheridan Square. It is the old story of the girl who falls in love with the son of her father's greatest enemy. It is a murder mystery, one that reaches a real climax after a series of well-played preparatory incidents.

Virginia Valli is the heroine and the daughter of an ex-senator who has done a "stretch" in Atlanta Penitentiary for bribery after a conviction by the hero's father. She is well supported by John Holland and John St. Polis.

The plot is well handled. The action is smooth and logical. The big situation is the one of an innocent man condemned to die on the gallows. His salvation comes by the merest stroke of chance and at the last possible moment.

In addition to "Guilty," the bill offers a really funny "Aesop's Fable," news reel, a Grantland Rice "Sportlite" and a musical short, "Ride 'Em Cowboy."

"Guilty" was secured by the management at the last minute in place of the advertised "Beau Bandit."

Begin Excavation For New School

Construction work on the new Francis de Sales School at McKees Rocks was begun when steam shovels were placed to excavate for the structure. The structure will contain eight rooms and will be devoted to high school studies. It is estimated that at completion the project will have cost $90,000.

Wilkinsburg Sons, Fathers to Dine

MUSIC

Pittsburgh Symphony Society

SYRIA MOSQUE

PROGRAM

Overture, "Roman Carnival"	Berlioz
A London Symphony	Williams
Symphonie Espagnole	Lalo
Second Hungarian Rhapsody	Liszt

The Pittsburgh Symphony Society closed its fourth season last night with one of the best concerts in its history. Syria Mosque was crowded as always at these concerts and it is pleasant to note that the audience always gives a special welcome to the concertmaster, Elias Breeskin, to whom so much is due for the success of this musical enterprise.

J. Fred Lissfelt

The program was very well balanced, two symphonic works of quite different character, a casual overture and the fireworks of Liszt to send us all home in happy mood. Vaughn Williams' "London Symphony" was not nearly so depressing as the program notes would have us believe. Like Bloch's "American Symphony" it is hardly a symphony, but more accurately a musical pageant during which pass pictures, the tragedies of every city.

The orchestra seemed comfortable with all the music played last night. There was doubtless a greater homogeneity, and an occasional good solo. Eugene Goossens conducted with far greater interest than on his last visit; the program seemed to please him too.

The soloist last night was Albert Spalding, and never before has this audience been so intensely interested nor so enthusiastic over any violinist. And with reason, for Spalding played with such sense of dramatic values in Lalo's "Spanish Symphony" that the Great Stone Face might have turned to listen. Like all great artists he gets his effects by most legitimate musical means, but a remarkable personality helps him to say the last word in all he plays. A DeFalla Dance and variations on Schubert's "Hark Hark the Lark," as encores, helped quiet the justly greedy audience.

J. FRED LISSFELT

Civic Playhouse To Present Comedy

The Y. M. and W. H. A. Civic Playhouse will present C. B. Fernald's adaptation of Luigi Chiulgi's comedy of continental manners, "The Mask and the Face," tomorrow and Wednesday evenings. The cast, the majority of whom are professionals, will be headed by B. Iden Payne.

Payne is not new to the Playhouse activities. He was the first director of the theater when he was head of the drama department at Carnegie Tech. Since leaving the school to be on the acting and directing boards of the Goodman Memorial Theater in Chicago, he returned to play the lead in last year's Playhouse production of Sherwood's comedy, "The Queen's Husband."

Penn Players Here Tomorrow Evening

The Mask and Wig Club of the University of Pennsylvania will present the club's forty-second annual production, "John Faust, Ph.D.," in Syria Mosque. Several Pittsburgh students at Penn are in the cast.

Walter Winchell Will Be Found on Page 21.

MYSTERY ROLLS DOWN STAIRWAY IN WARNER

By MILDRED FILLMORE

William Powell again has stepped into the character of Philo Vance, the S. S. Van Dine fictional detective, and is solving another murder on the Warner talk screen. It is "The Benson Murder Case" this time.

The crime literally forces its attention on Philo. He is sipping a cup of coffee when there is a "boom"—or is it a "bang?"—and down a stairway a nice new corpse comes a-rolling.

The picture, however, doesn't begin like a mystery at all. Instead, its opening has the earmarks of Wall Street drama. There are frenzied tickers and frenzied faces. And there is Benson, a big-moneyed fellow, who sells three persons short.

From here the action moves ahead to night time and to the Benson hunting lodge. A thunder storm—nature's gift to the makers of mystery drama—is in progress. So you know the murder will happen any minute. And, after it does, it is just a matter of being patient with Mr. Vance while he assembles clues and goes into scientific deductions.

The picture manages the suspense. And it has melodramatics contrasted by some lighter comedy moments.

Mr. Powell makes as interesting detective as he did in "The Greene Murder Case" and in "The Canary Murder Case." And again Sergt. Heath is present in the person of Eugene Pallette. Likewise, E. H. Calvert has his usual role of the district attorney. So, with so many familiar faces about, we aren't a bit frightened at the idea of a gun-toting killer parading around.

Remains

Ben Pollack is director of a popular orchestra which is retained in the Nixon restaurant for dinner, dance and cabaret music.

Ponselle Concert In Mosque Tonight

Rosa Ponselle, soprano, will give the closing May Beegle Concert in Syria Mosque tonight. Stuart Ross, pianist, will contribute a group of numbers. Miss Ponselle will sing the aria, "O nume tutelar," from the opera "La Vestale." "'Twas Night and All Around Was Still," from "Il Trovatore" will also be given. A group of songs by English composers will close the program. They are "The Message," by Silberta; "To the Birds," by George Hue; "The Virgin's Slumber Song," by Max Reger and "Homage to Spring," by MacFadden.

Now—
you can burn gas in your present boiler or furnace

GIVE your present heating plant an opportunity to show you what it can really do with gas as the fuel . . . how well it can act . . . how wonderful it can behave.

With a Roberts Gas Heating Unit installed you never have any doubt about the heating of your house. It's completely automatic and maintains constant healthful temperature at all times . . . There's no coal shoveling, no ashes to lift, no bother of any kind, day or night. You can start your heating by a single match in the Fall and it lasts 'till Spring. And a wonderful thing about a Roberts is that its first cost and upkeep isn't half so hard on your pocketbook as you might imagine.

Do it now . . . investigate all about the Roberts. It can be installed in a jiffy and you can begin enjoying automatic house heating at once. Let a Roberts in your furnace match wits with the fickle weather-man . . . let it keep your house at an even temperature whether the weather outside is rain or snow.

Fill out the coupon below or telephone the House Heating Section for a representative to call and explain all about this wonderful new unit . . . how easy it will be to install in your present furnace . . . and how easy it is to buy.

FILM SPIRITUAL, THAT IS "HALLELUJAH" IN HARRIS

By CLARENCE E. GRUNDISH

"Hallelujah" on the screen and Dick Ware and vaudeville acts on the stage comprise the new bill in the Harris. This "Hallelujah" is King Vidor's pictorial of Negro life. More, it is a motion picture spiritual.

That place, hell, and that slim tempter, the devil, are very real to these Negroes that Mr. Vidor displays. And God is very real. Only God is way up there in the clouds, while the devil is close by —walking with them, clutching at them and dragging them down.

The story revolves about Zeke, the wayward and older brother in a southern Negro family. He is suddenly brought to religion when gun-fire murders a younger brother. He becomes a preacher. Then he falls—and for the second time —the victim of a woman's wiles.

HE RIDES A DONKEY

Zeke, while at the job of preaching, goes riding about on a donkey. Which is a thought for the thoughtful. And there is a Jezebel, who becomes so enthused with religion, that she clubs a fellow senseless with an iron poker when he tries to keep her from attending a revival meeting. That's what she does to anyone who tries to stop her march to Glory, she boasts. Which shows Director Vidor has a sense of humor.

The picture is rich in atmosphere and rich in the talent of its cast, an all-Negro one. It attains elaborateness in scope of story and in scope of settings. There are parades, revivals—and a spectacular baptism in the old Mississippi. There are moments when the frenzied emotions of the characters literally come panting out at you from the sound screen.

A GRAB AT GREATNESS

Mr. Vidor has something that many directors lack. He proved it in "The Big Parade." He proves it again. He has mastered the neat trick of instilling the breath of life into the movie cameras. Yet, in this Negro glorification of his he seems to have allowed himself to be carried away by the hysterical religious frenzy which he depicts. He has missed making a great picture. But it is a courageous effort. It is entertainment. It is a contribution to screen achievement.

A moment when the film does grab at greatness comes when the prodigal Zeke returns from the hearthstone of unclean love, from tragedy in the swampland and from big stones in the prison yard. On river boat, on boxcar roof and on open road, he sings his song about "going home." And the quiet faith this Negro son has in his mother is more poignant and stirring than all the religious hysteria that comes before it. And this Negro mother! She is a woman deserving of all the mammy songs Al Jolson or anyone else ever sung.

LEGITIMATE THEATERS ONLY OFFER BILLS OPENING TODAY

The movie theaters having abandoned Monday, amusement openings today are confined to the legitimate theaters. The attractions include the return of the Schwab and Mandel operetta, "The New Moon," opening tonight in the Alvin. Next week (Easter week) that house is to be dark, the underline feature, "Nina Rosa," being listed for Easter Monday, April 21.

"Strange Interlude" will begin its second week in the Nixon tonight and will be kept for a third week. The succeeding attraction in that theater will be a three-day engagement of "The Rivals," Thursday, Friday and Saturday, April 24, 25 and 26, with a Saturday matinee. Mrs. Fiske, and James T. Powers, seen here in a revival of the same play a few seasons ago, will head the special cast.

The Pitt tonight will present "Alias The Deacon," with Berton Churchill as guest star, supported by the George Sharp Players. Mr. Churchill created the role he plays in the original production. Underlined in the Pitt is "Charlie's Aunt," which will bring Hugh Banks back to the Sharp house.

Trafford Rotarians Arranging for Fete

The Trafford Rotary Club is making arrangements for a gala occasion when the new charter is received May 1. The board of directors has appointed committees to arrange for the banquet and program to be held in the Methodist Church. More than 150 guests are expected on this occasion.

Carnegie Library Promised Carrick

Announcement has been made that the building at 1732 Brownsville road, Carrick, is being remodeled for a branch of the Carnegie Library. The plan was given a trial last summer when a branch from the Knoxville Library was installed in the Mothers Club of Carrick home.

CHICKIE

CHAPTER LIII.

CHICKIE was like one with a raw gash on her arm. It hurt her so, she was impelled to stop now this one, now that, seeking some anodyne to kill its pain.

When she spoke to Jimmy, all unaware he struck his hand across the wound. Now Janina dropped ointment. She took it with a pitiful eagerness—asking more.

Janina sitting opposite, cool and handsome insisted calmly that she did the things Jimmy considered so terrible." Yet Janina puffed a cigaret, blowing the smoke with delicious satisfaction exulting in every breath life gave her. She was not crushed. Indeed not.

Chickie said with elaborate indifference: "Makes it nice for pretty ladies doesn't it? Only why do they need to do it?"

"What do you mean need?"

Pretending to smile at the youngsters who were now clapping their hands as an immense birthday cake was brought to their table: "Well, there's still such a thing as marriage, isn't there? They could wait for that, couldn't they?"

A mocking laugh: "Yes, like dear ole Stella did! Marriage, my dear is a luxury the gods do not give to all. Not enough men to go around and not enough of what there are inclined to the holy state."

Janina's lips curled with sardonic humor: "One way you look at it, isn't convention a vicious thing? It's a matter of actual statistics that women far outnumber men. So some of the best get left. Take Stella for example. Now she'd make a peach of a mother and you know how wild she is for kids. Along comes some pretty nonentity and grabs off the man Stella had staked out as her own.

"Now, I ask you—is it anything but vicious to shove poor ole Stella into the frigid zone and shout at her 'Stay there! You get left.' And would any one but a boob like this same Stella heed such an order?"

Janina's Affair

Chickie's own problem was too sore and too pressing. She was not interested in Stella. She said: "But when two people each love, Janina, there's not much reason why they shouldn't wait for marriage, is there?"

"Might be a thousand reasons why they'd be fools to wait. Love doesn't always wait on circumstance, you know. But why ask me? I'm beyond the pale! Marriage hasn't been anything in my young life."

"Has love, Janina? You've never really told me. You mean now that you loved and you thought you had the right?"

Janina's strong, brilliant face paled as it did when she was suddenly and deeply moved. After a pause she said bitingly: "Being rather primitive, ole dear, I didn't wait to ponder the right and the wrong?"

Excitement rose swift and hot to Chickie's throat. She said eagerly: "Oh, it's swept you?"

"I'll say it did!"

"Afterwards were you sorry?"

"I'm not sorry now, and I wasn't then."

"Not at all? Not even in the very beginning?" Unconsciously Chickie leaned forward; her eyes glittered.

Janina regarded her with hard amusement: "Why so interested in this recital of crudeness and wrong, little one?"

Chickie stammered, flushing painfully: "It wasn't crude at all, then. And when you love a person, I suppose it makes a difference, doesn't it?"

"Usually happens that way. All young and trustful once, you know."

"Do you mean that you were to be married and then something happened? Oh, that must be dreadful!"

Not Remorseful

"Maybe I had a sneaking hope of that, though marriage didn't enter much into the consideration. Well—it was quite some time ago."

An odd softness crept into the clear, inclusive voice: "Know why I'm telling this to you, angel face? Well, I'm fond of you. And I hate contempt! Even though it gives me an ache and I can feel the fool hypocrisy of it."

"Oh, I don't feel contempt for you, Janina."

"You'll have."

"No—but just the same I can't understand how you could do it and not feel sorry even now."

Janina's shoulder raised scornfully: "Leave it to the good people to burn with remorse. My kind of love doesn't measure its giving. It doesn't come creeping afterward and try to snatch it back. What I did I wanted to do. That's all there was to it!"

"Weren't you afraid the man might think less of you afterward?"

"Oh that mid-Victorian stuff! What is a man anyway, that he should scorn us because we have the same feelings he considers so imperious and right in himself? But that's the meanness in women—petty things dependent on the attitude of others. If a fellow thinks less of a girl when he knows she loves him he's a cad and it's a darn sight better to find him out than to marry him—"

"But it must have hurt terribly, Janina, when it was over?"

"And I suppose it hurts a woman who is married when she looks out of the window some dreamy morning and sees love flashing out of sight. Marriage can't give any guarantee that the emotion will last. It only agrees to perpetuate the blunder in case there's been a mistake. What's the odds? As for me, I'll say it's worth the hurt—any hurt!"

Chickie Nervous

A thrill of admiration ran up from Chickie's heart. Big to feel like that—fearless. Oh, Janina wouldn't shame a thing with regrets. She wouldn't look back and want to snatch it to herself again. Give freely, gladly—proudly—that was the way.

That evening she grabbed up his letters from the hall rack. With the first impulse of happiness she had felt since his going, she hurried into her room and read them. Like the others—full of impulsive youth. He missed her so. She dwelt in his thoughts—drew them with longing. He kept seeing her eyes, so sad that day. Don't have them so! Why—and they loved each other. They would be together soon.

She raised her head—smiled. Well—

But the day he was coming—and sent a wire that she was to meet him—a wild nervousness possessed her. She kept running into the dressing room, putting pins in her hair, taking them out, combing the whole thing over. His train was due at one o'clock at the Penn. Station. Lewis gave her the afternoon off.

Janina dropped a note on her desk: "Is your wandering boy coming home, baby? Don't worry, angel face; you look a dream. For the love of heaven, don't do any more fussing with that phiz of yours! Give him my love—it's free!"

She reached the terminal 20 minutes before his arrival. Yet she kept rushing up to the time table, scanning it. She asked the gate man which track the train would take, and she ran over and strained her eyes down its length.

Barry Returns

When finally she heard its whistle, she hung back and when it came, she was afraid to move. Suddenly she saw him, first one to come swinging along he glanced about with feverish intensity—up and down—not seeing her. A look of blank, incredulous disappointment like a powdering of chalk overspread his face.

Then she raised her hand—took a few hurried steps. And he saw. Her heart opened with joy. He laughed—he ran up and caught her in his arms—kissed her—and again, not caring that others might see—were looking.

He said: "Chickie—miss me?"

She looked before her—eyes filled.

"You got my letters?"

She nodded.

"Oh, look up and smile, won't you!"

She did. She laughed full in his face and she stole her hand under his.

He said, pressing her fingers: "Chickie, happy?"

"Yes, I am now."

"And you will be—from now on."

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Tuesday, April 8

THE lunar transits for this day presage extremely active, advantageous and generally prosperous conditions. New ventures are under most encouraging sway, which may incite radical change in business and environment. The financial prospects are fairly strong and the prospect of promotion, preferment and favors from superiors excellent. It is a time for pushing to high goals.

Those whose birthday it is are assured of a year of progress, promotion and prosperity, with important change probably in fresh fields of endeavor. They should push indomitably to high goals.

A child born on this day should be excellently equipped for success, prosperity, high adventure and good station in life, advancing by its own faculties as well as by the influence of those in high places.

Roles in Real Life Satisfy Majority of Us, Is Fay King's View

THEY TELL ME I'M TOO FAT NOW!
FAY KING

By FAY KING

TO THE countless many of us for whom Broadway and Hollywood are only incidents or names, it is hard to understand the desperation and despair which prefers death to life without the plaudits of these places.

There is so much worthwhile in life aside from the momentary fame which falls to the lot of the young and beautiful who triumph for a time in the spotlight of the stage or screen.

Yet we hear of a lovely woman in the bloom of life who wished to die because she could not starve herself down to demand poundage, and who thought nothing worth the struggle except her blind ambition for approval in the realm of make-believe.

There are many useful, happy roles in REAL life!

Love's Reawakening

Marion and Lillian Leave Madge Bewildered

I HAD not realized that I was really counting upon what Katie's theory of the burglary would be until she voiced the ridiculously notion concerning Marion.

"Katie, whatever do you mean? Surely you know that Marion's mother is Mrs. Underwood and that her father, now dead, was—"

"I know und you know shoost vot Meesis Underwood say—dot's all! Lookit!" Her voice rose excitedly. "Ven I first coom by you to vork, ven you und Meester Graham first get married by each oder, Meesis Underwood und Meester used to coom veesit all time, but vas dere efer any Marion? Shoost answer me dot, vunce."

"No, Marion was not with her mother then," I said. "You knew why at the time, Katie. Marion's father, Mr. Morton, Mrs. Underwood's former husband, was living and was keeping the child away from her mother. You know, too, that when Marion's father died he made a deathbed atonement and confession of the wrong he had done her mother and restored the child to her."

Katie's smile was magnificently patronizing.

"I know all dot old story," she said, "but eet all apple sauce to me. You know vot I teenk, me?" She struck one clenched fist against her chest, and I had hard work to keep back a laugh, it was so faithful an imitation of a gesture frequently used by one of her cinema heroines. "I teenk Meesis Underwood not Marion's real moder. Oh, I know she looks like Meesis Underwood, but I tink her real moder vas Meesis Underwood's twin sister."

"But Mrs. Underwood never had a twin sister," I expostulated feebly.

"How you know?" Katie countered with an insolence that I know was not intentional. "You not so old as Meesis Underwood, you not around ven she born. Und I tink dot twin she marry in secret somebody very high oop, und he haf to keep eet secret account hees fader, und he die mit nobody knowing, und den his old fader he find oudt und he treat dot twin so mean she und Meesis Underwood dey say he nefer shall see dot baby Marion. But now old grandfader dead, maybe he leave Marion money und some bad ooncle no like dot und he sneak in here und try to steal papers vot show who she really is, so dey no haf to pay her money."

"Katie!" I gasped at last, heroically triumphing over my laugh muscles. "You should be writing best sellers."

"Yah, I tink dot, too," she returned imperturbably. "Maybe, after vile, I get tired keetchen vork und I try dot. My Eenglish not so goot, but I could take correspondence course in dot, too, shoost same as for detec-a-tive. Get me diploma, not so?"

"I believe so, Katie," I answered chokingly.

She surveyed me benevolently.

"You got coldt," she observed. "You all choked opp. Better let me feex you something hot und you go to bed rest of day."

"No! No!" My contrition made me explosive. "I am perfectly all right. And I think your theory is very interesting. I shall study it over very carefully. Just now, I want to talk to you about luncheon. I know you've planned to have it just before Mrs. Bickett takes the train for New York, but I wish you'd have it a little earlier. I'm going out with Mother Graham for a drive and you know when she comes back she'll be hungry."

"All right, I feex," she answered with her invariable cheery phrase. "But I vish you go to bed instead of drive. Nobody can do nodings mit you, efer, so I safe my breat. But you remember now vot dose mens look for last night vas tings about Marion."

The Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

Man, the Discoverer

MEN are always doing something wonderful and amazing!

Now, they have discovered a brand-new planet a million-million miles from the earth. But they have never discovered a new way to keep a baby from crying, a golf ball from getting lost in the rough, or a hat from blowing off in the March wind.

They have invented high-powered bombs that will kill a whole regiment of soldiers—but they have never invented anything that will kill the aroma of a spring onion.

They have found substitutes for coal, for food, for diamonds and even for youth. But they never found a substitute for a can-opener, or trousers, or women.

They have computed the distance of the earth from the sun and can tell you just how long it would take a rocket to reach Mars. But they have never computed the distance from the office to the house sufficiently accurately to get there in time for dinner.

They have built airplanes, in which they can pass over mountains and rivers and oceans without stopping. But lots of them have never found a way home, by which they can pass a speakeasy without stopping.

They have invented alarm-clocks that will go off at any given moment; but they have never invented a way to make a man get UP when he hears one.

They can sail ships for miles under the sea without getting wet. But no man can hold an umbrella over a woman for half a block so that she won't get wet.

They understand the Einstein Theory and the mysterious power of the X-Ray. But the average man cannot understand a woman with whom he has lived half his life.

They have worked out "memory courses" whereby they can remember dates, places, names, and all the chief incidents of history. Yet, they have never managed to find anything that will prevent a man from forgetting the date of his wedding anniversary.

They have found scientific ways to foretell what the weather will do a day, a week, or a month hence. But they can't tell what a woman will do from minute to minute.

They have learned to make synthetic ice, synthetic pearls and synthetic beer, which cannot be distinguished from the real thing. But their synthetic love-making is still as obvious as a gold tooth, as unconvincing as a memorized selling-talk, and as crude as a wood-cut.

It has taken them years and years of scientific research to discover a new planet. But that's nothing! Think of the time they spend looking for an old hat!

Correct Manners

A Note of Sympathy

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

Recently a lady relative passed away. I was unable to attend the funeral services, due to distance, but I sent flowers. Is it still necessary to write a letter of condolence to her family, or do the flowers convey the same thought? L. T. E.

THE flowers will convey your message of sympathy, of course, but, since the woman was a relative of yours, it would seem natural and gracious for you to write a note of sympathy also.

The Prize-Winner

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

I am about to take advantage of the excellent tact and understanding which you show in your suggestions published in answers to inquiries.

Although no more proficient in bridge than most of the other members of a friendly club to which I belong, I have had a persistent run of luck this year, winning a prize in five out of eight meetings. Should I continue to accept prizes if my luck continues?

Of course I am delighted with each of the prizes. It seems to me rather unappreciative toward the hostess who presents the prize to give it away again. To refuse to accept more prizes also seems to me to be affecting a rather superior and condescending attitude, which I would resent in anyone else.

On the other hand, it has become an embarrassing situation, inasmuch as I feel more piggish every time. I have thought of making deliberate mistakes when it appears as if I am in for it again, but this does not seem fair to my partner. What would you do?

MRS. D. H. C.

THANK you for your kind words about my column. You are very friendly to tell me of your approval, and you made me very happy.

Now about your phenomenal run of good fortune—don't take it in an unnatural or forced way. Just thank the god of chance that he has been so kind to you, and graciously and unself-consciously accept the rewards of your good fortune. Also you are probably being unfair to yourself in not acknowledging that some of the rewards are due your good playing and card-instinct.

In any event, don't do what you think of doing, as you set forth in your last paragraph, for this kind of thing is not straightforward and is thoroughly unnecessary.

And more luck to you!

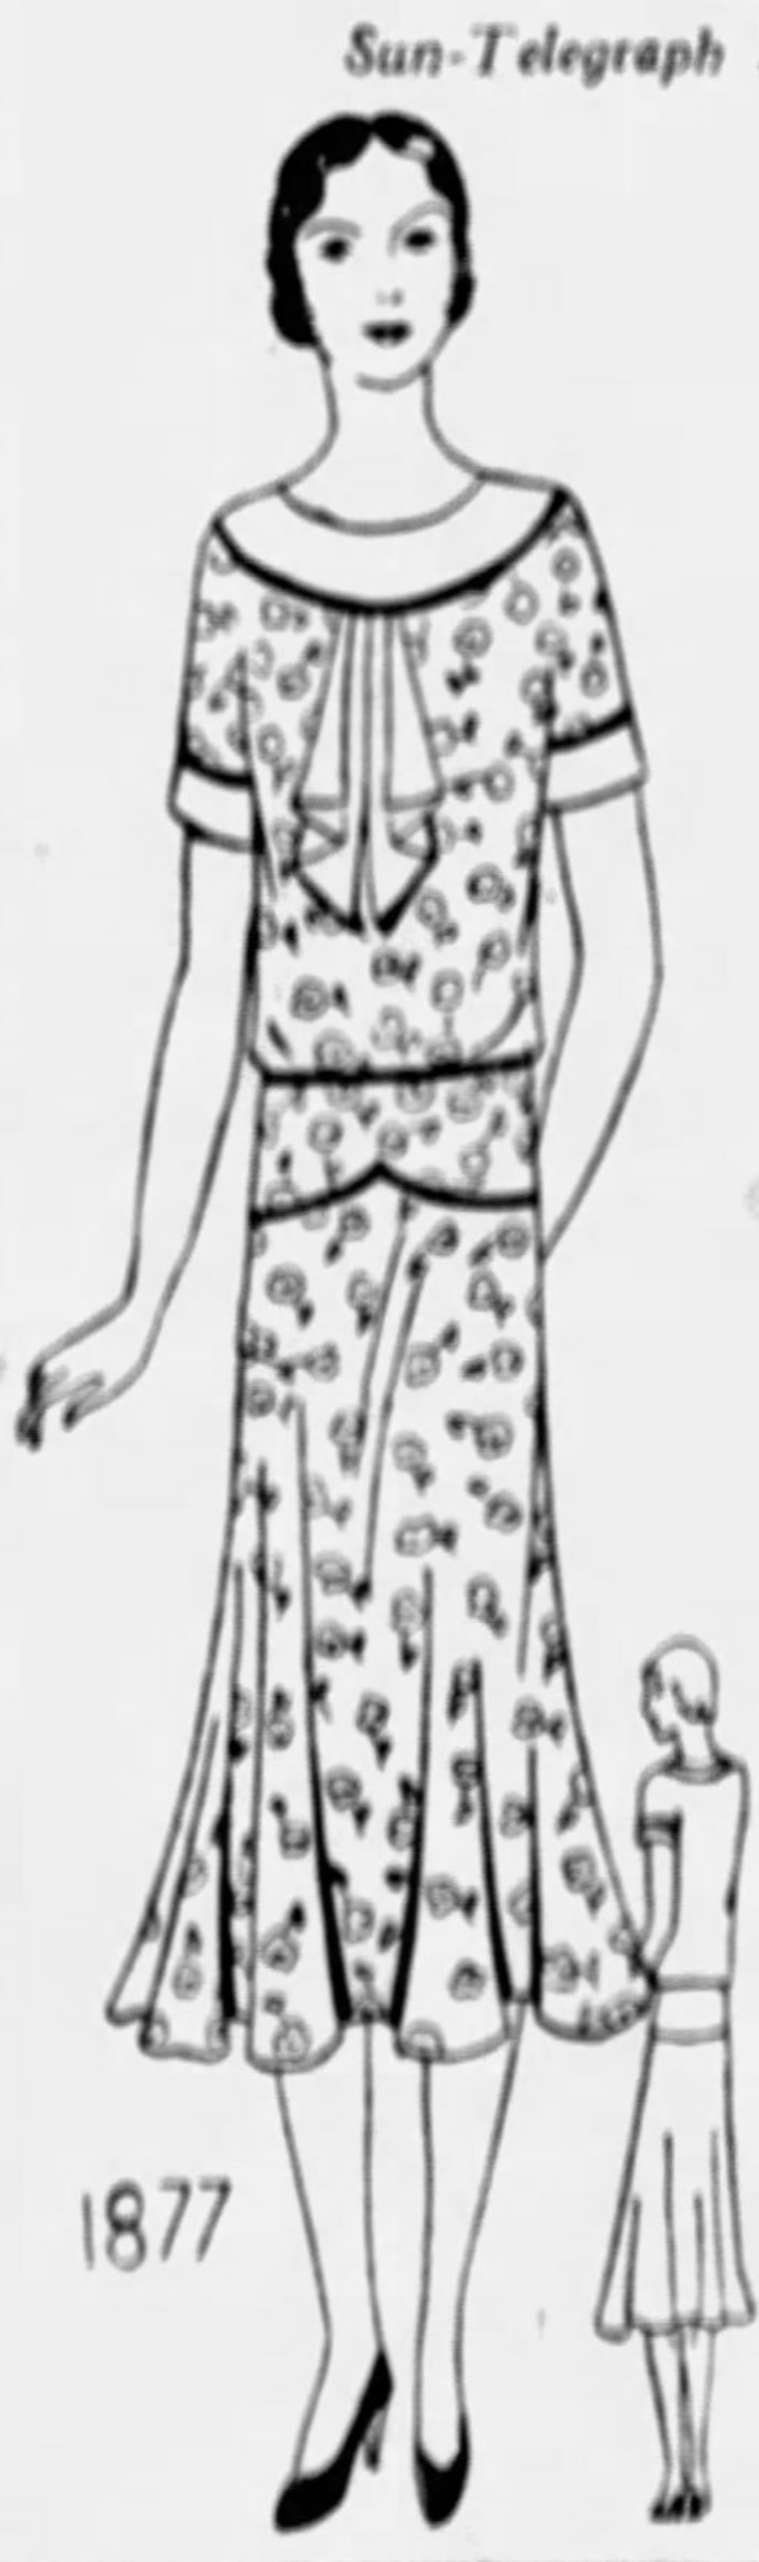
Attractive Cotton Frock

Pattern 1877

Sun-Telegraph 15c Practical Pattern

By ANNE ADAMS



The printed cotton frock grows in popularity as the season advances. Note the charming details of the model shown today... the rounded neck with dainty yoke and graceful jabot, the snug hip band and flared skirt that join in upward curve.

Design 1877 may be made of printed silk or cotton with equally charming results...dimity, pique, shantung, batiste, etc. The yoke, cuffs and jabot are cut from contrasting fabric, preferably pique. Colored binding is used extensively this season for dainty finish of seams.

This pattern may be ordered only in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 32, 34, 36, 38 and 40. Size 14 requires 2⅞ yards of 36-inch fabric and ½ yard trimming.

No dressmaking experience is necessary to make this model with our pattern. Yardage for every size, and simple, exact instructions are given.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS (15c) in coins carefully wrapped, or stamps, for each pattern. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, STYLE NUMBER and SIZE wanted.

Our PATTERN BOOK of NEW SPRING and SUMMER STYLES is FIFTEEN CENTS, but only TEN CENTS when ordered with a pattern. Address all mail and orders to Sun-Telegraph Pattern Department, 243 West Seventeenth street, New York City.

1.—Enclose 15 cents in coins.
2.—Write clearly NUMBERS of patterns and SIZE wanted.
3.—Write or print your NAME and ADDRESS plainly.
4.—If you want SUN-TELEGRAPH Style Book send 10c extra.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Painful Spasms

"TIC DOULOUREUX" is a French term meaning "painful spasm." It is applied to a form of neuralgia in the face.

It is quite distinct from the ordinary neuralgia. It involves the parts of the head supplied by the "trigeminal" nerve.

DR COPELAND

This nerve, as its name indicates, divides into three branches. One branch goes to the end of the nose, the eyelids and the forehead. Another goes to the upper lip, the cheek and temple. A third goes to the skin of the lower jaw and the area in front of the ear.

You will see that this nerve, through its branches, supplies the whole face. Not only does it give motive power to the muscles located in this region, but it also supplies the sense of feeling. Wherever these branches extend, there are the locations of the excruciating pains which accompany this ailment.

When the nerve becomes overstimulated, there is a twitching or contraction of the jaw and face. Acute pain is felt in that part supplied by the affected branch of the nerve. The pain usually attacks the eyeball and is felt over the eye.

It is an ailment more commonly met in people over forty than among the young. Diseases of the teeth and jawbone may be responsible for this trouble. If the antrum, that hollow space in the bone under the cheek, is involved, here is the source of the trouble.

Overwork and loss of sleep, a rundown condition, or exposure to wet and cold may bring on this condition. It may last only a day or two at a time, or it may continue for several weeks. It may not occur often, long intervals of comfort being experienced. The attacks come on suddenly.

The symptoms are very pronounced. There are severe, cutting, shooting and dagger-like pains. The first symptom may be located in the side of the nose and the upper lip. The pain extends to the cheek, eye and temple, into the teeth and all over the one side of the head.

Sometimes the muscles of the face twitch and contract. The patient runs down under the terrible pain. He loses sleep and there is always the dread of other attacks.

None of the usual hot applications or other treatments in cases of ordinary neuralgia seem to have any effect on this condition. Drugs should be taken only under a competent physician's orders. There is always the danger of contracting a bad habit if self medication is used.

Various operative measures have been used. The pain is so acute that patients would resort to almost anything to end the suffering. Removal of a section of the nerve has been done. Another treatment is to inject alcohol into the nerve itself. This procedure has given relief, at least, temporarily, and anything that affords relief from such suffering is worth while.

Answers to Health Queries

A. R. Q.—What can I do for blackheads?

A.—Correct your diet by cutting down on sugar, starches, and coffee. Avoid constipation.

MRS. M. F. K. Q.—What causes liver spots?

A.—This condition is due to more or less poor intestinal elimination. The first thing to do therefore, is to correct constipation.

THE BEAUTY BOX

By HELEN FOLLETT

BENEATH the surface of the skin are soft padding, little fat cells that are nourished from within. The thin woman with the dried and wrinkled complexion should keep that fact in mind and spread the butter on a little heavier when she butters her bread. If skin cushions are to resist the sagging and evaporating effects of age, there should be a certain amount of fat included in the diet. External oilings are also of benefit. Every night, willy-nilly, cross her heart, she should use her tissue-building cream. Every morning there should be the cold-water application to harden and vitalize the muscles.

PLUMP gals have not fallen for the nipped-in waistline, thus exhibiting good sense and liberty of opinion. The high line accentuates body width. It is only for the slender darling that the flat tummy and the nice curve from the waist, down over the hips and along the thighs. If there is any tight lacing going on these eyes have not beheld it.

THE shower bath is better and more cleansing than the bath in the tub. Needlepoint sprays are vitalizing and tonic. The average man prefers the shower, but women have been averse to giving up the luxurious lolling in the tub. Lazy little louts!

Household Hints

Handkerchief linen, organdy blouses, or any soft silk material that loses its body with washing will be stiffened if washed in lukewarm suds, rinsed in clear water, then in water in which a few lumps of sugar have been dissolved.

While cleaning the pantry shelves fold at least three newspapers to the required size and place them on the shelf with the fold in front. Then when the top sheet is soiled it can easily be removed by slitting the fold with a knife.

In laundering the popular handkerchief linen and organdy blouses, wash in lukewarm suds and rinse ther dissolve a few lumps of sugar in lukewarm water and dip the articles in this rinse water. Sugar will add the desired stiffness to these soft materials and improve their appearance.

INDIA EXTENDS MANUFACTURE OF DOPE

Production of Cocaine in India Stirs Offificials Insisting on Drug Control

By KENNETH CLARK, Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, April 7.—British India has authorized the cultivation of the coca plant and the manufacture of cocaine.

This disquieting report, reaching Washington, fell like a bomb in official circles which had been led to believe that the British were promoting the most energetic measures in India to suppress the dope traffic.

Upon a unanimous recommendation of the select committee on dangerous drugs, the Assembly of India, for the first time has permitted the production of cocaine, the report declared.

BUSINESS MONOPOLY

Like opium, of which 90 per cent of the natives are users, the cocaine business is to be a government monopoly. A government-owned factory at Ghazipur manufactures drugs derived from opium, and the government loans money without interest to opium cultivators. Opium is sold to natives in government shops.

Heretofore, production of coca leaves has been confined almost exclusively to Peru and Java. The production there more than supplies the world's medical needs, as attested by the health committee of the League of Nations.

MORE THAN NEEDED

This committee, following a survey, reported that cocaine is manufactured 500 times in excess of medical requirements.

In 1928, a cocaine factory was opened in England. Now, with the reported authorization in India, the British will be among the largest producers of this drug.

Washington officials believe that cocaine production in India violates the spirit, if not the letter, of The Hague and Geneva anti-drug conventions. By those treaties the nations signatory agreed to restrict the drug output to the barest medical and scientific requirements.

Debate Granting Science Vacation

CHAMPAGNE, Ill.—(I N S.)—Scientists would not feel highly complimented had they listened in on a debate staged recently here.

The question argued was: "Resolved, That scientists should take a vacation for 15 years."

Believe It or Not, He Pays Alimony To Four Wives

LOS ANGELES, April 7.—(INS.)—Life to Spafford Wykoff, 38, is just one alimony payment after another, it was disclosed today.

He has been married four times. Each of his wives has blessed him with a son.

Wife No. 1 gets $150 monthly; wife No. 2 receives a $30 check each month; wife No. 3 gets $5 less a month. When wife No. 4 received a divorce, she was awarded $100 a month.

Wykoff, who had his divorce from spouse No. 4, set aside in order that he might sue on a similar action, told the court his income was $300 a month.

Aged Couple Get Blessing From Pope

CHICAGO.—(INS.)—At the age of 72, Mr. and Mrs. Clinton O. Uller, of this city, have received the blessing of Pope Pius XI in honor of their golden wedding anniversary and as a special tribute to their lifelong work for St. Bonaventure's Church here, which they helped to found nearly 40 years ago.

Going Thru Happiest Days of Her Life

"Why shouldn't I smile," says Mrs. Nancey Yager of Robinwood Hall, Elmhurst, Long Island, N. Y., "when I finally found that I can be free from the trouble I suffered from a sour stomach, by simply taking that marvelously pleasant new medicine called Acidine. It has cleared up the rash on my skin, and I have more pep than I need, now."

Not more than one person in a hundred has a stomach so perfect that it needs no help to digest the starchy food, and sweets, which make stomachs sour. It's these excessive acids which thin the blood, lower your energy and cause skin rash. The first signs of too much acid are sick stomach, indigestion, burning sensation in throat, gassy belching. Try Acidine just once and you will see why more than two million people depend on it. Get it at any drug store.

Leaves Your Hair Lovely and Alluring

A "Beauty Shampoo" in 10 minutes

Quickly, Easily, at a few cents cost—you can have a Real "Beauty Shampoo" that will give Your Hair a Loveliness, quite unobtainable by Ordinary Washing.

YOU CAN SAVE TIME, expense and inconvenience, by adopting this simple method of "beauty shampooing" which gives truly professional results at home.

The beauty of your hair, its sparkle . . . its gloss and lustre . . . depends, almost entirely, upon the way you shampoo it.

A thin, oily film, or coating, is constantly forming on the hair. If allowed to remain, it catches the dust and dirt—hides the life and lustre—and the hair then becomes dull and unattractive.

Two or three teaspoonfuls of Mulsified in a glass or pitcher with a little warm water added, makes an abundance of . . . soft, rich, creamy lather . . . which cleanses thoroughly and rinses out easily, removing with it every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff.

Only thorough shampooing will . . . remove this film . . . and let the sparkle, and rich, natural . . . color tones . . . of the hair show.

Ordinary washing fails to satisfactorily remove this film, because—it does not clean the hair properly.

Besides—the hair cannot stand the harsh effect of ordinary soaps. The free alkali, in ordinary soaps, soon dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle and ruins it.

That is why women, by the thousands, who value beautiful hair, are using Mulsified Cocoanut Oil Shampoo. It cleanses so thoroughly; is so mild and so pure, that it cannot possibly injure, no matter how often you use it.

You will notice the difference in the appearance of your hair the very first time you use Mulsified, for it will feel so delightfully clean, and be so soft, silky, and fresh-looking.

Try a Mulsified "Beauty Shampoo" and just see how quickly it is done. See how easy your hair is to manage, and how lovely and alluring it will look. See it sparkle—with new life, gloss and lustre.

FOUR KILLED, MANY INJURED BY AUTOS

by WILLIAM PFARR

L. L. HILL, of Wilkinsburg, assistant superintendent of mails and candidate for the postmastership, is related to some prominent folk about town. Although he knows them well, he didn't know about the blood relationship until it was proved after argument by Charles C. Cuppers, superintendent of the East Liberty postoffice, who knows them better.

J. Earl Jacobs, the well-known clerk in Common Pleas Court, is becoming known as the gentleman of big verdicts. Mr. Jacobs might be excused for ignoring anything under $100,000 as small money, for he has "taken" the three biggest verdicts in their particular classes in Common Pleas. As clerk, Mr. Jacobs takes the written verdict from the jury and reads it aloud. His outstanding readings: The $500,000 verdict of the Darlington estate over the Pennsylvania Railroad; the $170,000 breach of promise verdict of Nellie Richardson against the late Mr. Denniston, and now the $102,000 personal injury verdict of Miss Mary G. Hahn against A. W. and R. B. Mellon.

DR. E. E. ERICSON, professor of English at Pitt, is a high private in the field artillery and drills at Hunt Armory Sunday afternoons. And his son, who is a sergeant in the R. O. T. C. at Pitt, is in the same squad. It might be said that Dr. Ericson joined the outfit to study the psychology of the enlisted men.

Times have changed. Where once a person injured in an accident bickered for months with the insurance company, now the settlements are comparatively easy. It is accepted today that a fractured leg is worth so much, a broken arm so much and so forth. Comparatively few accident cases now reach the courts. Proof: Out of 800 cases handled last year by L. A. Belsmeyer, a superintendent of claims, only five were not settled privately.

JUDGES, compared with lawyers, have an easy time of it. Their salaries are certain and they have none of the expenses and worries of building up a clientele. But almost every judge has two pet peeves: he doesn't like to have his decisions reversed by a higher court and (2) he froths when a lawyer asks for a new trial on the ground that the judge's charge to the jury was incompetent.

Fire Captains Eddie Kerney and George Mause and their colleagues have a difficult time trying to steal an hour's sleep on night-turn. On one side of the engine house is No. 6 Police Station, which gets more than its share of noisy John Drunks; on the other side the Animal Rescue League houses howling dogs.

TWENTY, 30, 40 policemen rushed from the Ross street entrance of the City-County Building. Some ran across the street, others hurried to their motorcycles at the curb, others moved speedily along Ross street. A triple murder, we thought, but we were wrong. It was simply quitting time.

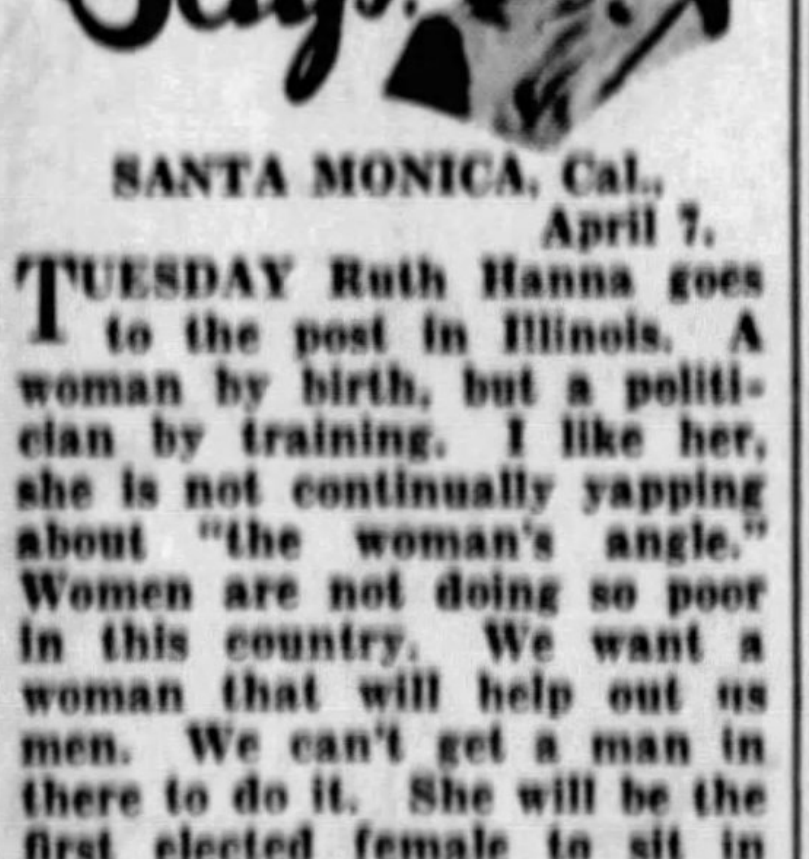
Mrs. W. F. Reamy, of Mt. Washington, is noted as a hostess. Not long ago (two years, to be exact) her son, Robert, brought two friends home for a famed Reamy dinner. As the visitors sat down, each took from a pocket a package, laid aside the napkin fold and began munching the enclosed ham sandwich. They explained: "This is our first trip here, Mrs. Reamy, and we weren't sure you'd make good."



SANTA MONICA, Cal.,

TUESDAY Ruth Hanna goes to the post in Illinois. A woman by birth, but a politician by training. I like her, she is not continually yapping about "the woman's angle." Women are not doing so poor in this country. We want a woman that will help out us men. We can't get a man in there to do it. She will be the first elected female to sit in that "august body." Ruth won't feel at home in the Senate—she is too young. There is 40 old ladies in there now. Only difference these don't knit.

Yours,
WILL.

YO YO! NEW FAD, HOLDS CITY IN GRIP

Sun-Telegraph Imports Popular Western Game; Warner Theaters Aid Plan

Pittsburgh is going Yo Yo!

The nation's newst fad has hit this city like a cyclone, and before long old and young alike will be playing with the delightful toy which came out of the West a few weeks ago and is rapidly gaining in popularity in the East.

The Yo Yo is a brightly colored little disc which spins on a string, and can be made to walk, bounce and do various gyrations, its performance depending entirely upon the skill of the operator. It originally was imported from Hawaii, and first gained popularity in this country among the film stars and society people of Hollywood.

AMUSES GROWN-UPS

Although the toy is extremely popular with the younger generation, it also is a "grown-up" pastime, and has become a pet foible in many western cities.

The Sun-Telegraph, first in the field in all news, learned of the widespread interest in Yo Yo playing, and immediately effected arrangements to introduce it to Pittsburgh.

In co-operation with Warner Brothers theaters, the Sun-Telegraph brought to Pittsburgh two Yo Yo experts from California to make demonstrations of the Hawaiian novelty in Warner Brothers theaters.

Furthermore, the Sun-Telegraph and Warner theaters have worked out a plan to distribute several thousand of these new toys to the children of Pittsburgh. After the Yo Yos are distributed properly, they will sponsor a city-wide Yo Yo championship, offering valuable prizes to the winners.

C'mon, Kiddies! Be among the first to get one of the toys and to learn the fascinating new game.

HERE'S THE PLAN

Here's how! Each day this week the Sun-Telegraph will print a coupon. Clip the coupon and take it to one of the Sun-Telegraph Yo Yo parties and you will be given a Yo Yo absolutely free.

The first series of Yo Yo parties will be held next Friday afternoon, April 11, from 4 to 6 o'clock in the following Warner Brothers theaters:

The Rowland, Wilkinsburg; the Liberty, Regent, Arsenal, Schenley, Manor, Belmar and Plaza.

The second Yo Yo party will be held at the Enright Theater next Saturday afternoon, between 1 and 6 o'clock. Any child carrying a coupon from the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph and attending one of the above theaters at the time specified, will be given a genuine Flores & Stone Yo Yo.

60-FOOT ROAD ON N. SIDE PROPOSED

Engineers Work on Plan To Relieve Congestion; River Boulevard Branch

Another new thoroughfare for the North Side, giving an outlet on the west to the Ohio River boulevard and the West End Bridge and connecting with the eastern extension of East Ohio street, has been projected by North Side business men.

The preliminary study of the plan, now in progress, holds out relief from traffic congestion for the entire downtown section of the city.

The plan, proposed by the North Side Chamber of Commerce, embraces the widening of South Diamond street from Sherman avenue to Union avenue to a 60-foot street, bisecting West Park to join Ridge avenue and cutting through East Park to connect with Lockhart street.

WOULD MOVE CHURCH

Only four short blocks would be improved in the widening process, and the only large building in the pathway of the proposed thoroughfare is the First Presbyterian Church of Allegheny.

The minimum cost would be about $250,000.

The park land is owned by the city and with many precedents for its cession for uses other than recreation, it is believed that no legal obstacles are in the way of its appropriation for a new street.

SAY BOYS ADMIT 90 CAR THEFTS

Two South Side boys held by Dormont police, the borough officers reported, early today confessed to having stolen approximately 90 automobiles from the South Hills and South Side districts. They are being held for Juvenile Court.

According to Capt. Ralph Miller, of Dormont, and Patrolman Casper Hasley, of the Pittsburgh police, the pair were picked up at Mattern street and Potomac avenue, Dormont. After being taken to the lockup, they are said to have admitted the thefts. Because of their youth, the Sun-Telegraph will not publish their names.

Robbery Suspect Caught in Avalon

Caught in the act of trying to force an entry into Schilling's Grocery, 6 California avenue, Avalon, according to Police Chief Lewis F. Luckan, Louis Cholewa, 17, of Valera, is being held today in the Avalon lockup. He is to be given a hearing tonight before Justice of the Peace Elmer Greiner, of Bellevue.

Cholewa was whittling away the wood around the lock of a rear door of the store when apprehended, Luckan said. A short time before, he was frightened away from an apartment in the Glosser Building, 2 California avenue, by a woman occupant, police said.

Arsenal Discovered In Home, Man Sought

The discovery of eight sticks of dynamite, fuses, acid, shot gun shells, a steel vest and stomach protectors in the home of Bernard Capriotti, of 131 Dalham street, East End, prompted a police search for him today, it was reported.

Police went to the Dalham street address early yesterday in search for Capriotti, who, they say, escaped during a raid on an alleged disorderly house in Holmes way.

New Thoroughfare as Planned for North Side

NEW PROJECT GIVING AN OUTLET ON THE WEST TO THE OHIO BOULEVARD PLANNED BY ALLEGHENY BUSINESSMEN

The proposed new thoroughfare sponsored by the North Side Chamber of Commerce as a relief from traffic congestion for the entire downtown section. It would give an outlet on the west to the Ohio River boulevard and the West End Bridge, and would connect with the eastern extension of East Ohio street. Engineers are now working on drawings for the project.

SAUPP FUNERAL RITES TODAY

Funeral services were to be held today for Franrk D. Saupp, 57, president of the Dodge Brothers' motor car agency in the Pittsburgh district, who died Wednesday in Rochester, Minn. The services were to be held in his home at 621 North Negley avenue at 9:30 o'clock. A funeral mass was to be celebrated in SS. Bingler.

Auto on Mercy Errand Hits Child

John Clark, 3, of 15 South Sixth street, suffered shock and body bruises when he was struck by an automobile driven by E. A. Roberts, of Brentwood, and in which Roberts was taking three men who had been injured in an accident to a hospital.

Roberts was on his way to the South Side Hospital with the victims of an automobile crash on the Sawmill Run boulevard, when his machine struck the boy at Carson and South Seventh streets, yesterday. He took the boy to the South Side Hospital.

Police absolved Roberts of blame.

POLISH UNITS CONSOLIDATE

A central organization working for the advancement of Polish residents of the district, has been approved by representatives of all Polish organizations in this district. The new body, to be known as the Federated Polish Organization, was formed last night at a meeting in Falcon Hall, South Side.

The federation will have a combined membership of 25,000 and it will maintain a social service bureau, a health service, a legal advice agency and arrange lectures and maintain summer camps for children.

The following organizations have become affiliated with the federation: Polish Women's Alliance, Fourth District; Polish Falcons of America; Philarets Association, Polish Clergymen's Association, Polish Army Veterans' Association, St. Joseph's Union, Polish Roman Catholic Union and individual societies and political clubs.

3 LOSE LIVES IN CRASH OF CARS

Aged East End Woman Hurt Fatally When Run Down, Negro Boy Held as Driver

Four persons were killed and nearly a score injured in automobile accidents in the Pittsburgh district yesterday.

Miss Mary Louise Keys, 22, of 56 Kerr street, Uniontown, a school teacher, was killed when a machine in which she and three companions were riding struck a culvert and upset on the William Penn Highway, near Burke's Glen, Patton Township.

The injured, taken to the Columbia Hospital, are Glenn Davis, 48, of Beyer street, Uniontown, driver of the machine; Jack Miller, 24, of 1930 Hamilton avenue; Latrobe, and Miss Jane Murray, of Delmont. The victims were extricated from beneath the car and taken to the hospital by motorists.

The party was returning to their homes from Pittsburgh. Miss Keys was a teacher in the Masontown school, Fayette County.

AGED WOMAN KILLED

Suffering a fractured skull when she was struck by an automobile near her home last night, Mrs. Evelyn H. Smith, 79, of Baum boulevard and South Aiken avenue, died in the Homeopathic Hospital a short time later. Police arrested James R. Bey, 16, Negro, of 225 Fifth street, Braddock, as the driver of the car.

When a motorcycle crashed into the rear of a bus on the McMurray road, Upper St. Clair Township, last night, George Constanduras, 40, of 528 Blaine avenue, Canonsburg, was killed, according to a morgue report.

Constanduras, riding in the sidecar of the motorcycle, driven by George Dratidas, of 519 Blaine avenue, Canonsburg, suffered a fractured skull when he was thrown to the ground. Dratidas, uninjured, was arrested, morgue attaches said.

A fractured skull suffered Saturday when an automobile in which he was riding crashed into an iron pole in Bigelow boulevard resulted in the death early yesterday of John Creeden, 32, of 1712 Eckert street. James McDonald, 28, of 910 Sandusky street, a passenger, was instantly killed. Richard Butler, 33, of Metropolitan street, driver of the car, and two other men were injured.

HURT IN COLLISION

Collision of two automobiles in River road, between Duquesne Junction and Munhall, resulted in injury to six persons, including two children. The victims are Milton Brothers, 41, of 901 Berkshire avenue; his wife, Mrs. Myrtle Brothers, 40; his son, Smith, 11, and his daughter, Bernice, 2, who were taken to the Homestead Hospital, as were the occupants of the other machine, Mrs. Sadie Siess, 43, of 1302 Bailey avenue, and her husband, Abe Siess, 44.

Struck by an automobile at South Seventeenth and Carson streets, Josephine Krauss, 11, of 918 Winnebago street, sustained lacerations and bruises, and was treated at the South Side Hospital.

Oliver Kain, of 1309 Glenn street, Homestead, swerved his automobile into an iron pole on the Manchester bridge to avoid crashing into another machine. The car was wrecked but its five occupants escaped with slight injuries.

Rival Frat Blamed in Raid By Police on Initiation

Members of the Kappa Nu fraternity today were wondering what other Pitt fraternity, if any, knew why three policemen broke in upon their all-night initiation ceremonies in their fraternity house, 760 Broughton street, at 3:30 a. m. yesterday, just when the ceremonies were at their height.

"They came in from three doors and looked as if they wouldn't tolerate anything funny, but they soon joined in with the spirit of the thing and left good fellows," one of the fraternity officers said.

"They looked all over the place and inspected our bar in the cellar, but there wasn't anything there but soft drinks, cigarets and candy. Then they came back up stairs, and one of them helped us put the candidates through some of the stunts. After that they left, telling us to go on having a good time."

Most of the eight candidates and the 40 members present agreed that some other fraternity might know a lot of things, basing their belief on "a mysterious-looking man in college clothes who stood outside while the police were in the house."

FREIGHT RAISE HERE TO BE FOUGHT

Pittsburgh Industries Call Meeting to Protest Tax Costing Million Yearly

Pittsburgh industrialists will meet Wednesday in the Chamber of Commerce to complete plans in their fight against the Interstate Commerce Commission's proposal to put into effect a new rate schedule on manufactured iron and steel shipments in this district. The new rates, which are to go into effect on May 10, will add $1,000,000 yearly to freight bills here, experts say.

Donald O. Moore, manager of the chamber's traffic division, who is leading the fight of local industrialists, called the meeting. Formal protests against the new rate scale will be filed with the Public Service Commission shortly after the meeting, it was said.

Evidence to show that the new rate scale is unfair to Pittsburgh firms and that it places them at a disadvantage with outside producers has been assembled and is ready for presentation to the commission when the hearing is called.

FIRST SERVICE EASTER SUNDAY

The nucleus of a new congregation formed from the disbanded membership of the old Eighth United Presbyterian Church will hold its first services in the new J. M. Wallace Memorial United Presbyterian Church, Greentree, on Easter Sunday. Six years ago the Eighth Church, then located at Locust and Van Braam streets, was disbanded. Its former members recently began working for a new edifice.

The memorial church was erected at a cost of $25,000 and named in memory of the Rev. James M Wallace, who served the Eighth congregation as pastor for 33 years. The Rev. J. Paul Graham, of Middletown, O., will occupy the pulpit the opening day.

WIFE'S PLAINT RESULTS IN ARREST

Liquor Reported Seized in Evergreen Road Home; Costs Proprietors $50

Patrolman George Gillespie, 46, of 1306 Federal street, a clerk in Traffic Court, was ordered suspended by Supt. of Police Peter P. Walsh today following a hearing in Morals Court at which it was testified that Gillespie had been arrested in a raid in which liquor was seized yesterday.

The raid was ordered on the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hoffman, 49, of 4127 Evergreen road by Supt. of Police Walsh on complaint of Gillespie's wife that Patrolman Gillespie had been spending most of his time in the Hoffman place.

Police reported seizing a half gallon of liquor during the raid. They arrested Gillespie, Hoffman and his wife and eight others. The Hoffmans were fined $50 on charges of keeping a disorderly house, and Gillespie and the eight other visitors were fined $2 each on charges of visiting a disorderly house.

Patrolman Gillespie will be given a hearing before the police trial board next week.

VERONA POLICE MOVE OFFICES

Today is moving day for Verona police. The two-story frame building in James street housing the police station and other borough offices is to be razed this week as a part of the improvement program in connection with the construction of the Allegheny boulevard.

Verona Borough Council sometime ago purchased the May homestead, across the street from the police station. When razing operations are ended, a new cellar will be constructed and the homestead moved across the street and changed into a modern municipal building.

Temporary quarters will be established in the R.benstein storeroom, James and Front streets. Borough employes expect to be busy today moving records from the old building.

Camera Question Box

The Sun-Telegraph's "Camera Question Box" each day will ask a question of public interest to Pittsburghers and will photograph those interviewed.

Today's question: "Should the manufacture of fireworks be banned to prevent such disasters as that in Philadelphia in which 11 persons were killed as well as the many Fourth of July accidents to children?"

Miss Duval

MISS REBECCA DUVAL, downtown, Humane Society agent: "I don't know, I enjoy seeing them myself. They should be controlled and children shouldn't be allowed to handle them promiscuously."

MRS. ETHEL PETERSON, McKeesport, child's worker: "I think they could celebrate the Fourth without dangerous fireworks. Some, I suppose, are really harmless and might be permitted."

Mrs. Peterson

L. T. Gallagher

L. T. GALLAGHER, Beechview, elevator dispatcher: "Absolutely, yes. A year ago, a rocket fell on my roof. That showed me what they can do. Not only that, but they'r' dangerous to people as well."

NICK CAPONE, Keenan Building, Criminologist: "I believe they should be abolished because too many children, men and women have been maimed and blinded by them. I do believe the Fourth should be celebrated with patriotism to remind us of the glory of the day."

Nick Capone

Miss Abrams

RUTH ABRAMS East Liberty, stenographer: "No. Good entertainment for the children on the Fourth of July is important. That's all the fun there is on that day. Why deprive them of fireworks. Of course, they should be handled carefully."

HILDA LABOVITZ, Rankin, secretary: "I think so. They endanger too many lives and too much property. More people are killed on the Fourth, I guess, than on any other day in the year."

Miss Labovitz

POSTAL CHANGE PROTESTED

The removal of the sorting and distributing departments in the South Hills branch of the Pittsburgh postoffice, located in Dormont, is being vigorously protested and has reached definite form in the sending of a communication to Congressmen Guy E. Campbell and Clyde M. Kelly.

Joining in this protest are the Dormont Chamber of Commerce, Dormont Rotary Club, Dormont Business Men's Association, Kiwanis Club, Lions Club, council and many business men and individuals.

Removal of these departments from the South Hills branch to Ferry street, downtown, means that the Dormont station no longer is a receiving or distributing source for incoming or outgoing mail. Protestors claim that because of this, mail is delayed as much as 10 hours in some instances.

The change to Ferry street was made as a result of the investigation by the postal committee from Washington on the service here.

That the change would delay the mails was denied by Postmaster George W. Gosser. In addition to Dormont, Brookline, Beechview and Mt. Lebanon are affected by the change.

Advertisers Hold Vote at Exhibit

A popular award to be made on the votes cast by visitors will feature the third annual exhibit of the Pittsburgh Advertising Club to be held in Kaufmann's auditorium April 28 to May 2. The club's annual banquet to be held April 29, will be part of the exhibit. The purpose of the exhibit is to afford an opportunity for presentation of advertising material which has originated in industrial Pittsburgh.

Victim Reporting Robbery Jailed As 'Drunk'

Theodore Norcott, of ■09 Berkshire avenue, had a run of hard luck this morning. He was seated in his automobile at Pasture and Fullerton streets during the early hours when a Negro approached. Norcott was robbed of his $55 watch, his wallet containing $15 and his automobile. When he went to the Center Avenue Police Station to report the robbery he was arrested on a charge of drunkenness.

Olympic Theater To Become Store

The remodeling of the Olympic Theater Building at 318 Fifth avenue for a five-and-ten-cent store for the J. G. McCrory Company is now being planned by architects. The work, consisting of interior alterations and a new store front, will be started soon. The Olympic Theater has been operated as a motion picture house for many years.

206,312 HOLD P. R. R. STOCK

The number of Pennsylvania Railroad stockholders reached another new high record last month, E. W. Smith, vice president, announced. The March report shows 206,312 registered stockholders on the company's books, an increase of 1,049 over the previous month and an advance of 50,000 in one year.

The greater portion of the increase is due to the allotment of stock to stockholders and employes at par the last two years and to a much wider distribution of stock among permanent investors, Mr. Smith said.

Most of the company's stock is held in Pennsylvania, the report stated. The average holding is 62.49 shares, a decrease of 9.39 as compared with a year ago.

HOOVER VISITS HIS SCHOOL

WASHINGTON, April 7.—(AP.)—President Hoover is looking forward presumably to weekly or biweekly visits to his Blue Ridge Mountain fishing preserve until the occasion offers for a more extended vacation at a greater distance from the city.

The chief executive returned to the duties of the Presidency today refreshed by the rest and out-of-doors recreation of his first trip of the season to the camp on the Rapidan River.

He looked back upon a successful expedition against the mountain trout of his preserve, in the course of which he proved himself the champion fisherman of the party. The 11 fish that fell victim to his casting on Friday proved the largest catch of the group, although luck attended the efforts of all.

Before leaving the camp, Mr. Hoover visited for the first time the school which he established for the children of his mountaineer neighbors and chatted for a time with the teacher, Miss Christine Vest. The school also serves as a church and Sunday School, attended by parents of the pupils, as well as by the children.

George Buraker, father of the lad whose appeal led to the building of the school, was the preacher.

Sunday 'Fine' Day For Drunks In East End

The city was richer today by $670 in fines collected at the East End Police Station yesterday, the busiest day of the year thus far.

Forty-two persons, mostly charged with drunkenness or disorderly conduct, were arraigned before Magistrate Charles Papale, bringing a reminder of pre-prohibition days. A total of 720 days in jail and workhouse was imposed as an alternative to payment of fines.

PASTOR SCORES O'NEILL PLAY

"If the play 'Strange Interlude' is a true picture of the moral attitude of Americans, then Western civilization is doomed," declared the Rev. Dr. Robert MacGowan, pastor of the Bellefield Presbyterian Church.

His sermon topic was "The Strange Interlude," Eugene O'Neill's play in its second week here.

He attended the play last week and during the week also visited the Roselia Maternity Hospital and Foundling Asylum, and the Western Penitentiary, he said, "and somehow the three are correlated in my mind."

"The play dramatizes the lives of idlers and wastrels," according to Dr. MacGowan.

"It is entrancing from an intellectual standpoint," he said, "but if the women of America are to become the pitiful selfish-minded type that the characters in the play depict and if promiscuous love and loose living away from Christ and Christianity are to prevail, then Western civilization is doomed."

ZONE HEARING AT MT. LEBANON

A public hearing will be held tonight by the Mt. Lebanon Board of Township Commissioners, on the ordinance providing the rezoning of property on Cochrane road, whereby the erection of a coal tipple would be authorized. The ordinance already has been given its first and second readings.

The plan has been bitterly opposed by property owners of that section who see in the erection of a tipple a reduction in property values. Feeling against the ordinance has reached the boiling point and indications are that there will be a large delegation and a heated discussion at the meeting tonight.

KIN HURT, FLINN FLIES TO SIDE

George Flinn, of 5020 Fifth avenue, was in Durham, N. OFFER REWARD FOR SCHOOL FIREBUG

Fox Chapel Taxpayers Post $500 After Old Robinson Building Is Destroyed

Reward of $500 was being offered today for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the incendiary who set fire to the old Robinson schoolhouse, New Dorseyville pike and Stony Camp road, yesterday. The proffer was made by the Fox Chapel District Association, which comprises Fox Chapel section taxpayers.

The school was destroyed by fire yesterday, residents saying attempts had been made twice previously to burn it.

Efforts to save it by Pleasant Valley volunteer firemen proved futile because of a shortage of chemicals, due, firemen said, to the normal supply having been used to extinguish another blaze.

LINK INSURANCE PLOT TO GANG

BENTONVILLE, Ark., April 7.—(AP.)—Authorities today investigated theories that St. Louis gangsters engineered an insurance plot to collect $200,000 in the slaying of William Robert Pearman, 47, Columbia (Mo.) automobile mechanic, and that Pearman was connected last August with an attempt to negotiate a land deal involving life insurance.

The theories were advanced by attorneys for Dr. A. J. Bass, retired dentist and wealthy land owner, held on a murder charge arising from the killing. Pearman, according to authorities, carried insurance policies aggregating $200,000 in the name of William Folta, a man who disappeared 17 years ago.

Counsel for Bass said Pearman and the dentist were only "tools" in a gangsters' scheme and that Bass had been inveigled into the project under threat of death.

John R. Duty, principal attorney for Bass, said the dentist was not "the master mind" in the plot and that in time he would "tell everything."

To Speak

PRINCESS DER LING

Her Imperial Highness of the Manchu Court of the late Empress-Dowager Tzu Hsi of China, who will address the Sewickley Valley's Woman's Club this afternoon in the Sewickley theater.

EX-PRINCESS OF CHINA HERE

Railroad stations with their rushing throngs mean more to Princess Der Ling, once first lady-in-waiting to the late Empress-Dowager Tzu Hsi, of China, than the splendor of royal life in Manchu court.

Now an American citizen, the princess today said to mingle with the throng and be one of them means more than to be kept in the showcase of royalty with little liberty. Princess Der Ling, stopping in William Penn Hotel, was here to speak this afternoon before members of the Sewickley Valley Woman's Club in Sewickley Theater.

The visitor is the wife of C. T. White, of New York City, owner of coal interests in China. There was no royal wedding, but a "quick" one, she said. The princess had to obtain permission from the empress to wed Mr. White, then American vice-consul in Shanghai. Once the permission was gained, they married immediately in fear the empress might change her mind.

She served as first lady-in-waiting three years, from 1903 to 1905. Her father was Lord Yu-Keng, who visited America several times on special missions and served as ambassador to many countries before his death in 1905.

Women Adopt Gardening, Ask Reference Books

By PENELOPE REDD.

"Fifteen years ago when the Museum of Art in Cleveland was presented with a collection of books on gardening by the Garden Club of Cleveland, we were embarrassed by a gift which seemed irrelevant to the museum's work.

"Today that collection is one of the most useful in the fine arts library, because women have adopted gardening as their own particular creative art."

Penelope Redd

This declaration was made by Miss Marian Comings, who has arrived in Pittsburgh to be in charge of the new fine arts room now being prepared by the Reference Section of the Carnegie Library.

Miss Comings organized the fine library of the Cleveland Museum and also the Daniel Burham Architectural Library at the Art Institute of Chicago.

"In Chicago, a committee of prominent architects endeavored to build up special collections. When the Library of Napoleon's architect, Fontaine, was offered for sale, the Chicago committee sent an English architect to Paris to examine the collection. His approval of its merits resulted in the immediate acquisition of Fontaine's library regardless of its cost."

Miss Comings has observed a phenomenal growth in the public's desire for art information. At Cleveland and Chicago, where the art libraries were primarily founded as research ones for the staff, the demand has converted them into libraries for the public.

In Pittsburgh, the fine arts library will be opened within a short time as an authoritative source of information for technicians in the arts, collectors of art, students of art history, and those who may want but the answer to a casual question. Miss Comings has met and answered them all in Cleveland and in Chicago, so whether you want an accurate Mayan design, or the identification of a family portrait, or a monograph on Albertini, or the number of cherubs in the Sistine Madonna, Miss Comings will answer all comers.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Pittsburgher Bradford Girl Wed

EVEN the vigorous showers of young April cannot drown our gaiety for there's an air of expectancy, a promise of lovelier things to come in the cool spring atmosphere.

So far the most provocative news of April has been of weddings, and of weddings-to-be. April is also bringing us some interesting news from the last days of March.

Word has just reached me of a wedding which took place on Saturday, March 29. Harry B. Gaffney, of Jackson avenue, Bradford, has made known the marriage of his sister, Sarah Gaffney, to Benjamin W. Dangerfield, son of the Harry Dangerfields, of South Negley avenue.

After May 1 the youthful Dangerfields will be at home in Beacon street. The bride is a graduate of Miss Baldwin's School and attended Smith College.

APRIL not only boasts of shimmering weddings but of golden weddings as well. Tomorrow the Andrew Carnegie Drynans, of Frederick avenue, Sewickley, will celebrate their golden wedding anniversary. They will hold a reception from 2 to 5 o'clock in the afternoon and from 7:30 to 9 o'clock in the evening.

Fishing Popular

GOLFING is popular at all the resorts and at Asheville there's another sport attracting many folks, an old, old one, that of Izaak Walton. Trout season will open April 15, when Asheville will be the mecca of all members of the Izaak Walton League.

Pittsburgh folks now at Asheville include Mrs. Thomas Morrison, Mrs. John S. McKelvy, Jr., Laura M. Collard and Margaret Strauss, who are at Grove Park Inn.

NEWS come from New York that the John W. Lawrences have been recent visitors and that the A. Rex Flinns have arrived from England where they attended the grand national steeplechase. The George R. Gibbonses of Dunmoyle avenue have been at the Ambassador Hotel in Los Angeles. I might add to this little packet of travel news.

Attends Bride

ELIZABETH GOEHRING, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Harry M. Goehring, of Schenley Farms, was a bridesmaid last Wednesday at a wedding which took place in Michigan. The bride was Virginia Dryden, daughter of the John Lester Drydens, and the bridegroom was Howard Ketcham, son of the Charles B. Ketchams, of New York. The ceremony took place that afternoon at 4:30 o'clock in the Grosse Point Memorial Church, Grosse Point, Mich. Elizabeth was a classmate of the bride at the Finch School in New York.

Wizard Pleases

THE Junior League's production of the "Wizard of Oz" Saturday morning in the Pitt Theater proved to be a great success and an immediate favorite with the children. They were held spellbound when the curtain rose on the first scene, the Munchkin farm, and were more than delighted with the beautiful scene in the last act, the palace of Glinda, the good.

Another performance of the play is to be given next Saturday morning at 10:30 o'clock. Of course it will be in the Pitt Theater, donated for both occasions by George Sharp.

Other members of the smart set did their bit by selling bon-bons and lollypops during the intermissions, and Priscilla Hall, who's president of the league, led the children in singing. On the committee selling the candy were several of last season's buds, Mary Franklin Robinson, Virginia Frew Wright, Anne and Margaret Rose, Anne Douglas Stewart, Helen Pendleton and Emily Frew.

APRIL 12 is the date chosen by Miss Emma Joan Hosenfelt, daughter of Henry Hosenfelt, of Oakwood street, for her marriage to John Gilmore Schrott, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Schrott, of Wilkinsburg. The wedding will take place this afternoon in the Homewood Avenue Methodist Episcopal Church at 5 o'clock.

The Rev. Dr. Richard Fowles will officiate. Miss Claire Marion Hosenfelt will be her sister's maid of honor and the best man will be John Gansauer, of Wilkinsburg, cousin of the bridegroom. Mrs. Blanche Kensey will play the wedding march.

Following the ceremony a reception and dinner will be held in the Penn Lincoln Hotel, after which Mr. and Mrs. Schrott will leave for a motor trip. They will live in Laketon road, Wilkinsburg Heights, upon their return.

NEW SPRING ENSEMBLE UNITES WOOL AND SILK

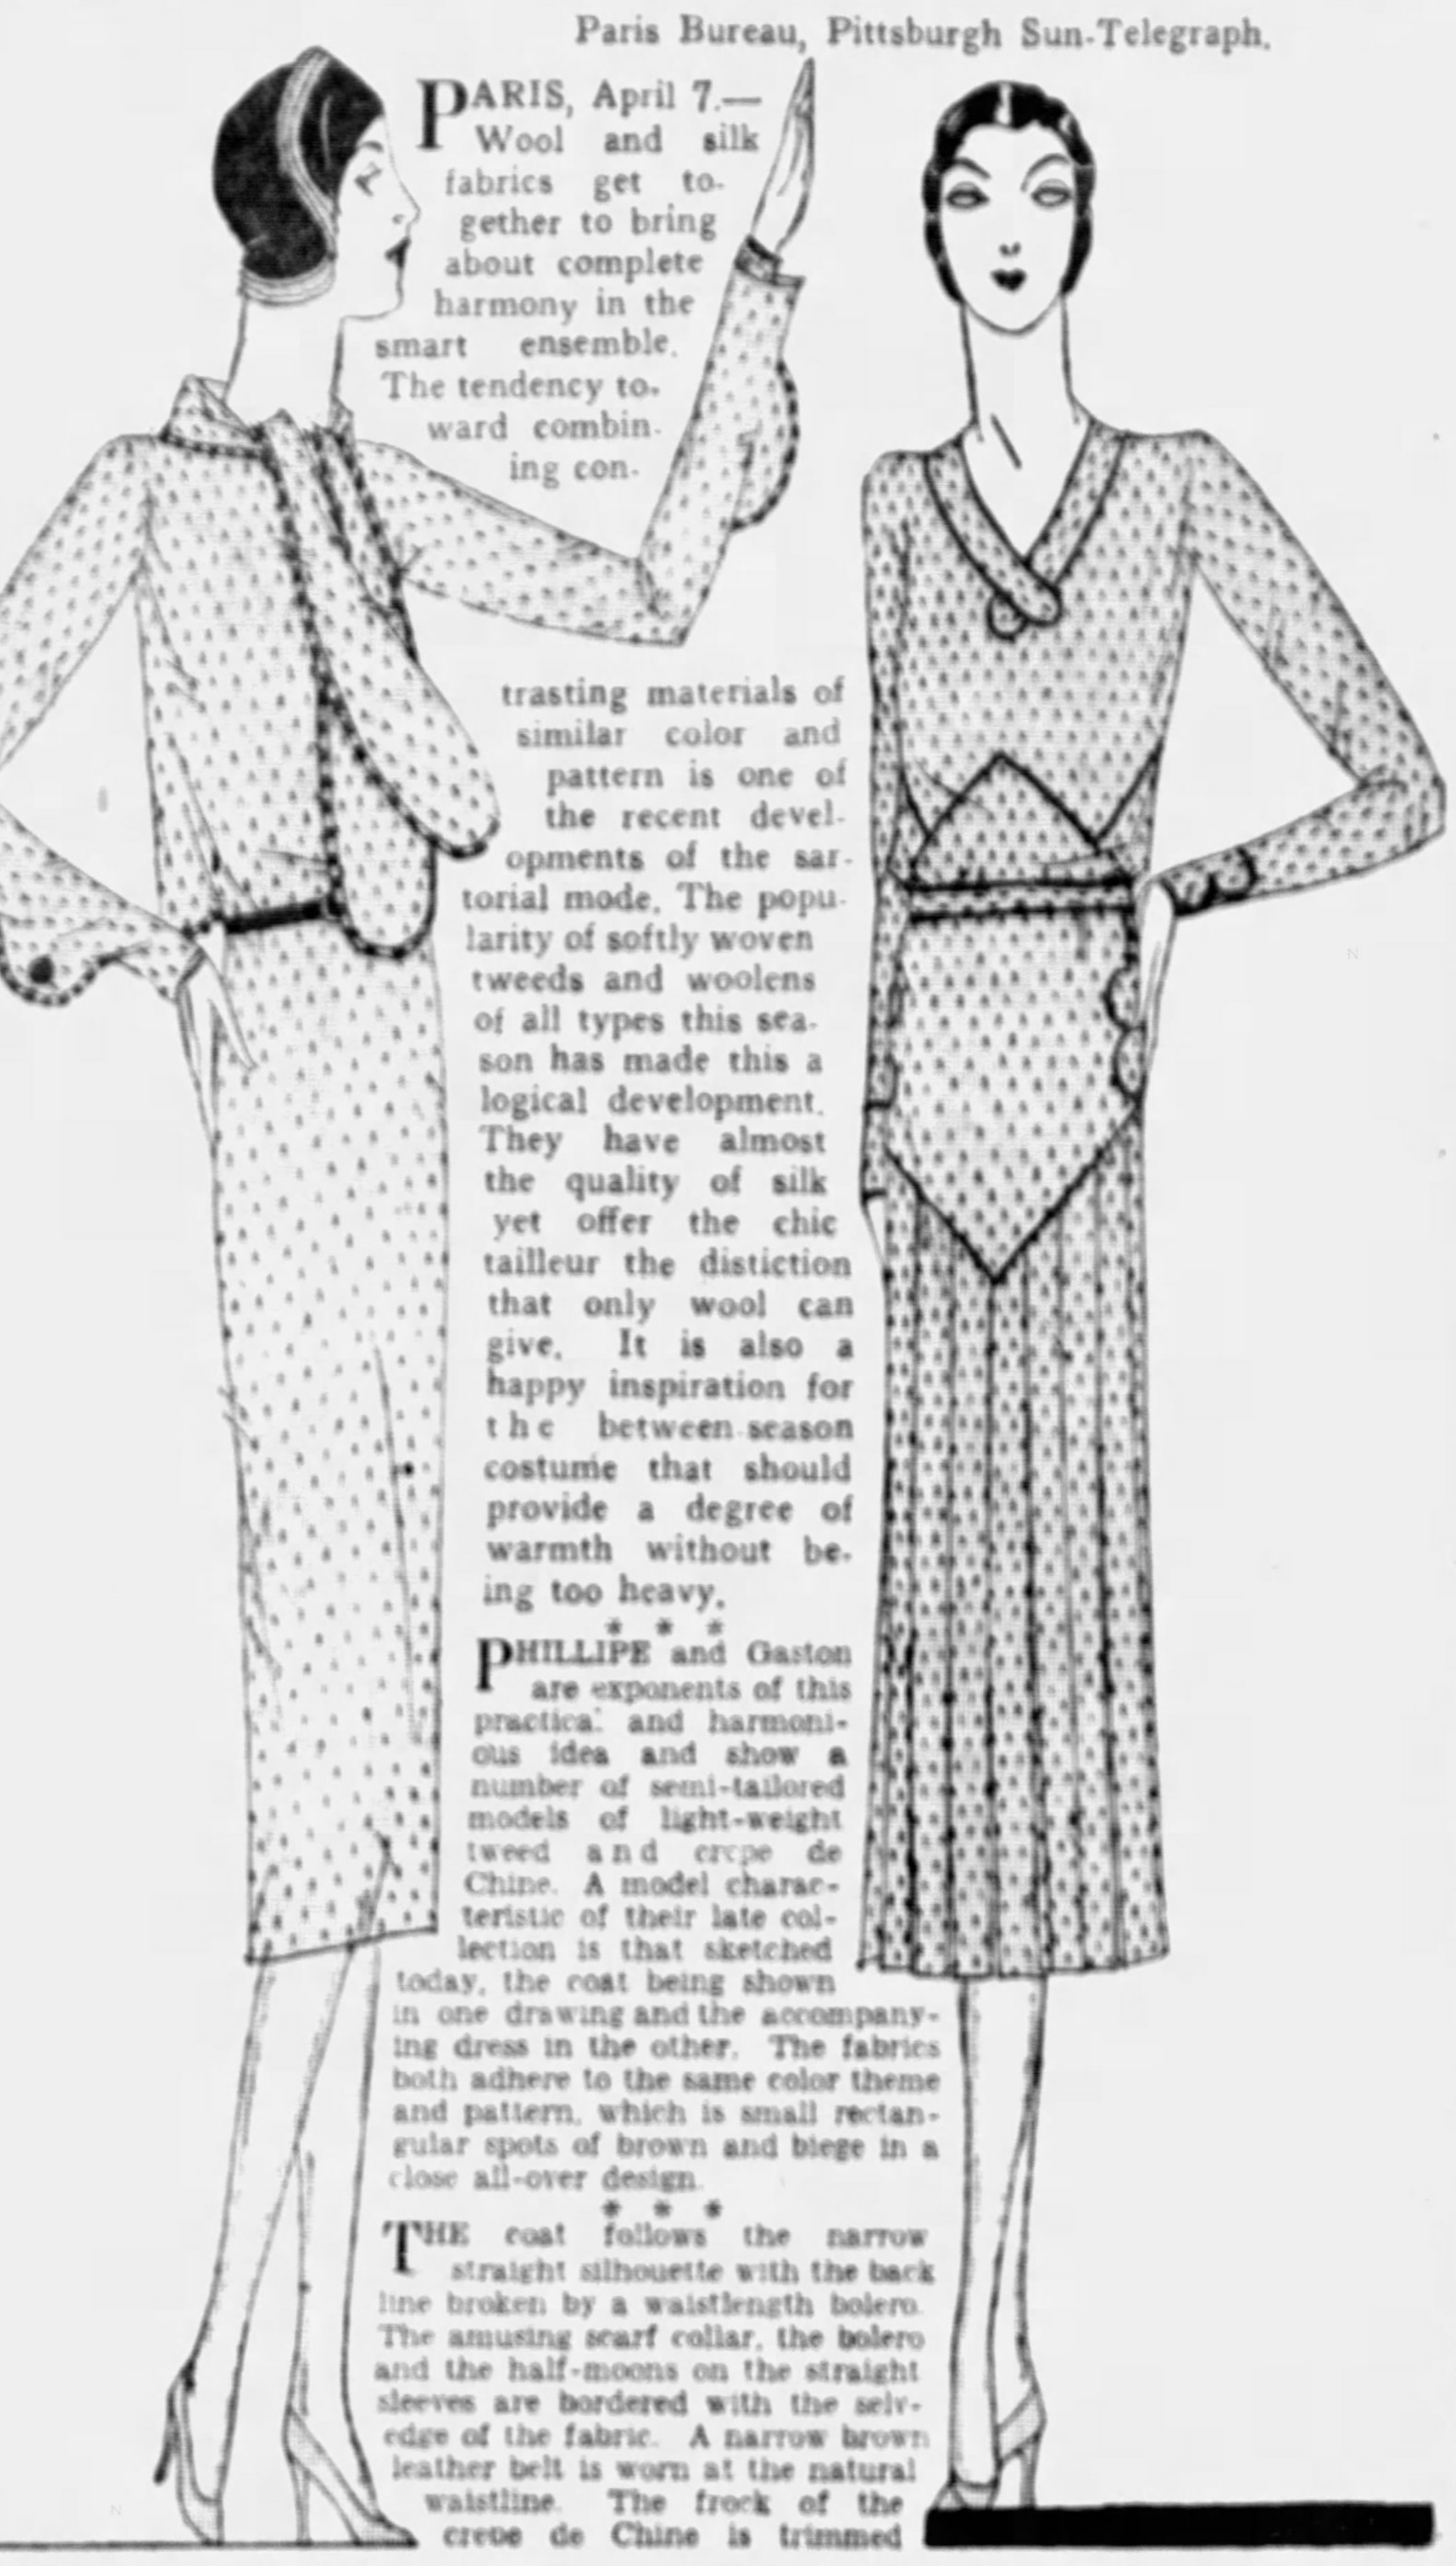
Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.



PARIS, April 7.—Wool and silk fabrics get together to bring about complete harmony in the smart ensemble. The tendency toward combining contrasting materials of similar color and pattern is one of the recent developments of the sartorial mode. The popularity of softly woven tweeds and woolens of all types this season has made this a logical development. They have almost the quality of silk yet offer the chic tailleur the distiction that only wool can give. It is also a happy inspiration for the between season costume that should provide a degree of warmth without being too heavy.

PHILLIPE and Gaston are exponents of this practical and harmonious idea and show a number of semi-tailored models of light-weight tweed and crepe de Chine. A model characteristic of their late collection is that sketched today, the coat being shown in one drawing and the accompanying dress in the other. The fabrics both adhere to the same color theme and pattern, which is small rectangular spots of brown and biege in a close all-over design.

* * *

THE coat follows the narrow straight silhouette with the back line broken by a waistlength bolero. The amusing scarf collar, the bolero and the half-moons on the straight sleeves are bordered with the selvedge of the fabric. A narrow brown leather belt is worn at the natural waistline. The frock of the creoe de Chine is trimmed with dark brown pipings which give character to the delicate tones of the crepe and mark the outlines of the "empiecements" on the bodice, skirt and sleeves. The bodice blouses above an attached belt and the close-fitting yoke at the hips dips in a V in front to join the very deep flounce laid in narrow box pleats.

You never need feel self-conscious ... wearing this sanitary pad

Kotex deodorizes: it fits securely and inconspicuously; it absorbs quickly and thoroughly.

WHAT a relief to know that you can depend completely on Kotex! You don't feel any self-consciousness. You are absolutely sure that this protection will last.

Kotex, you know, is the sanitary pad that is fashioned to fit. It is just wide enough, just long enough and it's made of a remarkable substance known as Cellucotton absorbent wadding, which is not cotton, but a cellulose substance that's really 5 times more absorbent than cotton.

Used in hospitals

Eighty-five per cent of the leading hospitals now use this Kotex absorbent in many kinds of surgical dressings.

It's lighter, cooler than cotton. It absorbs so quickly and so thoroughly! Yet Cellucotton transfers the moisture quickly away from the surface so that it's daintier and safer than ordinary absorbents.

There is no danger of getting Kotex wrongly adjusted. It is every bit as satisfactory, no matter which way you choose to wear it. Isn't that a relief? Then, of course, there is the reason so many women began to use Kotex: it is easily disposable.

That fact alone helped to change the hygienic habits of millions of women all over the world. Read other reasons why Kotex is superior. They are listed in the little panel at the right. Kotex Company, Chicago, Illinois.

KOTEX IS SOFT ...

1—Not a deceptive softness, that soon packs into chafing hardness. But a delicate, fleecy softness that lasts for hours.

2—Kotex filler is far lighter and cooler than cotton, yet absorbs 5 times as much.

3—Deodorizes ... safely, thoroughly, by a special process.

4—Disposable, instantly, completely.

Regular Kotex—45c for 12
Kotex Super-Size—65c for 12

With Walter Winchell On Broadway

MAN ABOUT TOWN

NEW YORK, April 7.

HE was until last night, the only Rounder and Big Spender on Broadway we never knew personally. But, for the past five years we have been amused and interested from a distance, watching him toy with the Canyon's grandest gals and then toss them away as you would hurl rubbish.

Walter Winchell

We listened to him unfold his system. It was amazing. His favorite method of giving a girl coin was to slip it into her hand and then walk away. To arouse her curiosity, he said,

"When you give a girl a lot of money they are bound to like you."

"Do you think I'm a bad man?" he queried.

BIG DOUGH MAN

"NO," we told him, "not bad. But you take an unfair advantage over the other fellow. Few men can compete with you and your dough." He chuckled. He liked that. Then after several rounds of fun milk he became moody and sentimental. He told of a one-time famous beauty whom he adored.

"I loved that girl and vowed I'd chuck all the others for her, I went for ermines, a Rolls-Royce and all the other things, and for a long time she was on the level with me. Then one night I happened into a speakeasy and the head waiter said: 'You don't go around with Miss Soandso, any more, do you?'

"I felt that something was wrong and pumped the waiter, 'No,' I said, 'why?'

"Because I saw her with her old sweetheart again at a show last night. So I figured you two had busted up."

SHOCK TOO MUCH

The shock of the two-timing drove him mad, he thundered.

"But," he said, "I've regretted the night I walked into that speakeasy, for if I hadn't I might not have heard about her cheating. What you don't know don't hurt you, and it was the first time I was crossed by a woman."

The girl in question died a few months ago. He was criticized at the time for "stranding" her when she needed help most.

"That was unfair," he said. I didn't strand her, she crossed me. And if I never went into that speakeasy I wouldn't have known tbout it, and I wouldn't have gone away to forget. I would have been here when she was ill and engaged the finest doctors, not the Broadway ham doctors they could afford to get for her. She would have been alive maybe and I wouldn't have been so miserable fooling around these other women who couldn't compare with her."

He was on the verge of tears.

"I know that I loved her," he continued, "and my only consolation is believing that she must have loved me because they told me that just before she passed away she mentioned my name."

DRAMATIC SECRET

A LAD who was seated at the next table had been listening to our gab for hours. He turned and softly said:

"If you don't mind, gentlemen, will you please tell me the name of the girl you've been talking about?"

"Sure," said the Spender, and he mentioned it.

The lad thanked him. "I thought maybe I knew her," he said, as he took his departure.

"Who was that bird?" the Spender asked us.

"If I told you his name," we replied, "I would tell you the name that was on her lips when she died."

JUSTIFIED LYING

THE "what-you-don't-know-won't-hurt-you" adage snugly fits this story, too. It was unfolded the other night in one of the midnight-to-yawning places and concerns a well known vaudeville headliner. While appearing in a mid-western city he received word that his brother, Joe, the black sheep of the family, had been killed in a gun fight. The headliner cancelled his bookings and hastened to Chicago to bury his brother—next to the graves of the grandmother and grandfather.

His little old mother, who never quite mastered the English language since she came to America from the old country, asked a neighbor to read a letter that came from her actor son. The actor had written in part:

"You will be overjoyed, I know, to hear about Joe. He is on his way to Palestine, where he has a chance to make a name for himself, dear. The job came suddenly, a government ob. And he didn't have time to write you about it. It is a fine opportunity for Joe, mother, but I'm afraid the job will keep him in Palestine for many, years."

The mother, who dwelled in the same state, was thrilled, to be sure. But she wanted more news about her Joe. So she came to Chicago to hear about him from her other son—in their own tongue. Before returning to her home town, however, she visited the resting place of her mother and father, and the irony of it is, that in reaching her parents' graves she had to step over her Joe's.

SHARP HOOCH SLEUTH

THE neatest trick of the week happened in one of the countless local speakeasies. A federal agent ankled into the place and stepped up to the bar.

"Gentlemen," he said in an affable tone, "I'm the new boss around here. Have a drink on me." The owner of the place, who officiates as bardender, asked the stranger if he meant it—that part of buying a drink for everyone in the joint. "Sure I mean it," he said, "give them all a drink."

The bartender complied.

"Have another," chirped the federal agent, and the bar hounds were treated to a second round.

After serving the second snifter the bartender said to the federal agent:

"That'll cost you exactly $14."

"Very reasonable," said the agent, as he flashed his shield, "give them all another drink and then put on your hat and come with me."

FLIES TO BERMUDA

ALL the fuss in the papers about Yancey and his flight to Bermuda rolls off the knife of a certain New Jersey man who has been in the giggle water business for some time. He flies his own plane to Hamilton, Bermuda, in seven and a half hours from a Jersey airport, leaving land at Baltimore . . He doesn't seek any publicity, of course, and makes the trip frequently and travels a la Lindbergh . . . His record to Montreal is three hours and he once made Washington in 55 minutes from the Highlands with a good tail wind . . And his intimates will tell you his head has swelled to such a size he now uses a sponge for a shaving brush.

The simple neckline, the frilled sleeves and the tiered skirt make for a youthful effect in this chiffon dress. Sizes 14 to 20. $25.

The sprightliness of springtime is caught up in the dashing manner in which these dresses present themselves. The fabrics, for instance! Never has a season offered so many really smart fabrics at one time.

Georgette, flat crepe Elizabeth, chiffon, prints, and laces. Certainly there was never a season like this—when one could express herself so well in exactly the way she chose.

Then, the sleeves! Long, if you like, but ornamented by bell-shaped flounces or feminine tabs. Short, if you wish the newest . . . cap shaped, frilled, or bedecked with bows. Here is a season of diversity and interest.

Regular Sizes and Half Sizes

And certainly an outstanding array of styles is presented in the $25 group. Assembled with the fashion-knowing woman in mind. Chosen that she may get the smartest dresses possible at this price—$25.

CALL THIS HAT "BEST"—

"Best" because you can wear it correctly from morn to midnight; because it maintains a certain dignity without sacrificing its youth; because its large headsize is cleverly concealed in intricate fashioning; and because in ballibuntl, baku and hair (black and the colors) it gives the illusion of femininity that is distinctly 1930.

WEAR THIS TO TEA—
$10

This is an example of what glorious things can happen when the designers let themselves go about fashion. In hair-braid it is captivating—and in crinol, baku, sisol or taffeta equally exotic. After Marie Alphonsine, it comes in a wide range of leading colors, and in every headsize.

We think the little inexpensive hats are full of sheer joy this season. In novelty straws, hairs, and taffetas, they make the "everyday" affair of yesteryear look old and out of the question—and gracefully run the gamut from the most youthful to the most dignified, in head sizes 21½ to 23.

Not until you have seen about 3½ yards of material and one yard of contrasting trimming at 95c (totaling $4.28) on mannequins in promenade, can you realize the exciting beauty that a cotton dress can have for you.

To help you, Butterfield has sent on a complete showing of 47 models for five major needs of the day: morning, noon, sports, afternoon and evening. The garments are all styled in cotton and its companion rayon—which are pointing the way to unbelievable chic in the famous designers' hands.

VOGUE Says Bags Should Have the Feel of Costume Fabrics

Shoe Calf Bags

Of course, costumes are not made of shoe calf! But smart opera pumps are, and shoe calf bags go well with these with the crepes, crepy woolens and dull surfaced fabrics that are smart this year.

Our collection at the very popular price of $4.95 includes swagger styles, envelopes, and vagabonds with cavernous roominess. Prystal, metal or self trims. Leading colors

M'GRAW AGAIN LEANS TO SOUTHPAWS

Bill Walker

The Giants are well stocked with right-handers in Larry Benton, Fred Fitzsimmons, Joe Genewich, Jack Scott and Ralph Judd, not to mention such new additions as Ray Lucas, Leroy Parmelee and Joe Heving, but McGraw is counting so heavily upon his trio of south-siders as to indicate a conviction that it would be a hopeless fight without a wealth of left-hand slab strength.

M'GRAW may be basing this theory upon personal experience as southpaws played prominent parts in all of his 10 pennant victories. In 1904 and 1905 he had George Wiltse; in 1911 and 1912, Wiltse and Rube Marquard; in 1913, Wiltse, Marquard and Ferd Schupp, and in 1917, Schupp, Rube Benton and Slim Sallee.

When the Giant chief started his next championship streak he had Art Nehf on his roster, and that crack left-hander was a big factor in the capture of four consecutive flags by the New York club from 1921 to 1924, inclusive. In 1921, Nehf was aided by Sallee, and in 1923 he had Jack Bentley as a working mate. McGraw feeling himself to be so well fortified in left-hand pitching that he let Rube Walberg, then unripe, get away in May.

SO IT WILL be seen that the boss of the Giants has tradition to back him up in his present course. Left-hand chuckers have figured prominently in the pennant successes of most other clubs, too, and the Pittsburgh team is included in the list.

This applies particularly to the earlier conquests of the Pirates. In 1901 and 1902 the locals numbered Jesse Tannehill and Eddie Doheny among their mound mainstays, and they still had Doheny in 1903 after Tannehill had gone to the American League. In 1909 Lefty Leifield contributed 19 victories to the pennant cause against only eight defeats though Howard Camnitz and Vic Willis, right-handers, were the chief winners that year until Babe Adams rose to stardom in the world series.

Jesse Tannehill

SOUTHPAWS did not shine to the same extent in the Buccaneers' later triumphs. Emil Yde won 17 games in 1925, with Don Songer and Red Oldham figuring only occasionally, but in 1927 the left-handers were in the background. Songer was released in May, Yde won only one game, Mike Cvengros only two, and George Peery pitched but a single inning. The only other modern instance of a big league club's winning a pennant without left-hand pitching was chronicled in 1922, when the Yankees finished first with Lefty O'Doul working in just part of one game. In 1921, the Yanks' did not get a great deal more southpaw help, being pitched to four victories by Harry Harper and two by Babe Ruth. About the only other clubs to win flags without left-handers were Boston under Frank Selee, Chicago under Cap Anson and Brooklyn under Ed Hanlon.

JOSEPH A. GUBBY, guard on the Duquesne Lafayette basketball team, writes to submit his idea of the best three teams that could be picked from the County League. "These boys have played hard, smart, heady basketball," he says. "Being a member of the league and having played with and against them, I know whereof I speak. My selections follow:

"First team—Forwards, Minnick, Lafayettes, and Klinzing (captain), Ackermans; center, Losman, Fintex; guards, Benedict, Lafayettes, and Leisenring, Goldensons. Second team—Forwards, Angelo, Goldensons, and Klateman, Fintex; center, Wunderlich, Lafayettes; guards, White, Fintex, and Miller (captain), Veronas. Third team—Forwards, Hoffman, Veronas, and Whitehead, Lafayettes; center, Twyman, Veronas; guards, McGill, Ackermans, and Rubenstein (captain), Goldensons."

AMONG the candidates for high ranking among the major league sluggers this year, don't overlook Dale Alexander, Detroit's big first baseman.

This is only the second season in fast company for Alexander, but he has shown enough to earn recognition as one of the big show's standouts when it comes to hitting for distance. He is a right-hand swinger and carries a wallop in keeping with his size, which is saying considerable, as he stands 6 feet 3 inches in height and weighs 215 pounds.

Dale Alexander

THE big Tiger sure does hit them from town to town, as the players say. In making an average of .343 last year he poled out 215 hits, of which 43 were doubles, 15 were triples and 25 were home runs. Like all hard swingers, he struck out often, fanning 63 times, but he knocked in 137 runs and the only American Leaguers to drive in more were Al Simmons and Babe Ruth. Judging from the manner in which he is starting out, Alexander is likely to make even a greater amount of trouble for the hurlers in the Barnard loop in 1930. His batting has been the sensation of Detroit's practice games. In his first 31 trips to the plate he made 15 hits for an average of .484 and only two of his safeties were singles. He drove out eight homers, two triples and three doubles.

THE PIRATES are certain to figure in two of the most notable baseball curtain raisers of the year. Not only has the Cincinnati club reported a complete sell-out of Redland Field for the opener there one week from tomorrow, when the Bucs will be the visiting attraction, but a bumper crowd is also assured at the Forbes Field inaugural between the Rovers and Reds two weeks from Wednesday.

Secretary Sam Watters, Bill Gardner and Larry Collier have been kept busy for some time filling mail orders for the local lid-lifter and report that the demand is the heaviest known here in several years. They will continue to accept and fill orders by mail and fans are thus enabled to get choice locations for opening day well in advance instead of waiting until the public sale opens. There is also a rush for the boxes which Secretary Watters has found it possible to sell this spring for the entire season, but he has a number remaining and urges that

PIRATES SELL O'CONNELL

VERONA YOUTH RELEASED TO FORT WORTH

By CHARLES J. DOYLE
Staff Correspondent.

FORT WORTH, Tex., April 7.—Catcher Johnny O'Connell, Verona boy with the Pirates, today was sold outright to the Fort Worth Club of the Texas League. In making the announcement Manager Jewel Ens stated he regretted to drop the Pittsburgher, but he thought he was doing something in the interest of O'Connell in disposing him to a class A team and one which has pennant aspirations.

O'Connell

The Pirates carry only three receivers, and Charley Hargreaves, Rolly Hemsley and Al Bool are the three first-string maskmen. O'Connell, one of the best-liked recruits to come to the team in years, was sought by more than one club among the big minors. It is known that the Baltimore Oriols wanted him after he was farmed to that team by the Pirates last fall.

PAYMENT FOR STONER

It was hinted here with good authority that Johnny was sent to the Panthers in part payment for Pitcher Lil Stoner, who seems to have won a berth on the Pittsburgh club. The local team is managed by Catcher Frank Snyder, former National League star.

The Texas League season opens Wednesday, and it would not be surprising if O'Connell were to swing into action almost immediately. Under the tutelage of Snyder the Verona athlete will soon learn enough to advance to the majors. At least, that is the opinion of Manager Ens and other Pirate veterans.

ROOKIES RELEASED

The day brought three departures from the big Pirate squad. Previously it had been announced that Outfielder Larry Cox had been returned to the Fort Worth club, while Infielder Johnny Skube was farmed to the Columbia club, of the South Atlantic League.

O'Connell stands to share the catching duties here with Snyder. The latter is at the head of one of the best teams in the league.

Johnny came to the Pirates from Canton, of the Central League, in the fall of 1928. He was farmed to Columbia last year, where he enjoyed a big year as first-string receiver. After rejoining the team he was sent to Baltimore.

BUCS SHUT OUT

The squad of 30 now is subdivided into 13 pitchers, three catchers, seven infielders and seven outfielders. The teams do not have to be down to the 25-player limit until June 15.

The Buccos experienced the anything but pleasant sensation of a shutout defeat before taking their leave from Houston yesterday. The score was 5 to 0. Completely flabbergasted by the pitching of one Allyn Stout, a rookie righthander, the Buccos were made to resemble minor leaguers at the plate. Stout held the Pittsburghers to seven blows under such conditions as are sure to startle the big bosses in St. Louis when they hear of his feat. The Buffaloes are one of the Cardinals' chain stores of the sport.

BEDNAR ON SLAB

Joe Schultz' boys played brilliant ball every way. They pecked away at Heinie Meine for four rounds in the second round and added another at the expense of Heinie in the sixth. Wattie Holm made the big timers feel foolish in this round when he worked a

STAR PITCHER MAY SIGN CONTRACT

By JAMES J. LONG

Whether Pitcher Burleigh Grimes is to remain a Pirate holdout, or will finally pen his name to a contract for the season opening one week from tomorrow and head for the southland immediately to fall in with the Buccaneers may be decided this afternoon.

Following the termination of his unsuccessful suit for divorce at Canton, O., Grimes came to Pittsburgh yesterday. He visited the offices of the Pittsburgh club for a conference with President Barney Dreyfuss at 2:30 this afternoon.

SHOWDOWN CONFAB

This is regarded as the showdown confab in what has been the most prolonged holdout of the year in the major leagues with the single exception of that of Outfielder Eddie Roush, of the New York Giants. Both sides have remained firm to date, but the close approach of the playing season causes it to appear probable that if they are going to get together at all they will do so today.

This is the first time that Grimes has conferred directly with President Dreyfuss on the subject of a 1930 contract. All of his previous talks on the matter were with Vice president Sam Dreyfuss.

After his arrival home from Hollywood, Fla., last week, President Dreyfuss said there would be no change in the terms originally offered by the club. These terms, Grimes says, are the same as he received last year. He is understood to have demanded a two-year contract at $20,000 per season. Pirate officials say that it is contrary to the policy of the club to enter into contracts for more than one season, and that it will not give a longer pact to Grimes or any other player.

BURLEIGH IN TRIM

The general opinion today among Pittsburgh baseball fans was that Grimes would sign and leave soon to join the Pirates on the final lap of the training trip. Following today's exhibition game in Ft. Worth, the Bucs are to play in Dallas tomorrow, in Mobile on Wednesday and in New Orleans on Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

At the conclusion of his parley with Dreyfuss, Grimes is to return to his home in Minerva, O., to further iron out his personal business affairs.

LOCAL BOWLERS FAIL IN TEST

CLEVELAND, April 7.—The Allegheny Social Deers, of Pittsburgh, helped ring down the team-event curtain of the American Bowling Congress tournament here last night and, on account of going to pieces, individually as well as collectively, in the final game, fell outside the prize money.

The Deers ran along in good shape in the first two games, getting 904 and 925. Then came a crash to 805. Today is their last chance to get even for, with the close of rolling in the doubles and singles events early this evening, the thirtieth annual classic comes to an end, after a run of nearly six weeks. The Deers' score:

W. Friedrich	215	201	159
J. Friedrich	182	184	182
H. [illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
C. Wake	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
J. Meuer	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
Totals	904	925	805	[illegible]

The tournament will come to a close tonight with the windup of doubles and singles events. The quintets in the first 10 places held ground last night against attacks of 60 others. As a result the D. Craft & Sons team of Kalamazoo, Mich., carried off the international bowling title, $1,000 in cash and a gold medal.

Nick Altrock Says:

SOMEWHERE IN DIXIE, April 7—Folks, before you know it the ball season will be with you. And maybe your Uncle Nick won't be glad. It is hard to get excited about spring training when the pay-roll doesn't operate. Just as soon as the umpire says "Play ball" on the opening day, no matter what control the pitcher has, the ghost always walks.

Nick Altrock

I see where the park is already sold out for the opening game between the Pirates and Reds. That proves the Cincinnati fans will try anything once.

Our Washington team opens with the Red Sox, but we will be playing major league clubs shortly after that.

STOUT MAY AID CARDINALS

By Staff Correspondent.

FORT WORTH, April 7.—The dire need of the Cardinals being pitchers, you can imagine the reaction in the camp of the Redbirds today as they learn of the embryo Card who blanked the Pirates in Houston. Perhaps Rickey and Breadon feel like ordering Allyn Stout from the Houston branch store at once, but maybe the people of the Texas City would kick too hard were Stout to be yanked away from them.

Chillysauce

The Pirates will barely get out of Texas in time to give the clubs of this Class A circuit a chance to get their season under way. The ball stage in Texas Wednesday afternoon, the Buccos winding up tomorrow afternoon in Dallas.

Joe Schultz promises to show the fans a bustling combination at Houston. Joe's club is not yet set, but it combines speed and batting power.

The latest bulletin received at the Pirate camp on Pie Traynor is most encouraging. The Pittsburgh doctor states there is a chance that he will be able to play in the opener at Cincinnati one week from tomorrow. He is slated to get into the first series some time. If there is any chance he will bob up for the inaugural.

Just a word about Charley Engle, who has been subbing for Dick Bartell. Skipper Ens and his aides are sold on the Memphis star. Engle has played two positions on the big barnstorming jaunt, his performance at second and short leaving nothing to be desired. Charley roams the shortfield like an old stager and there is a smartness about his play that has made a hit with the Skipper.

Mobile to Offer Bucs New Training Site

MOBILE, Ala., April 7.—The Pittsburgh Pirates, who are jumping here from Dallas, Tex., to play the Mobile Bears Wednesday and Thursday at Jimmy Hamilton's request, will be asked to consider this city as a spring training camp. Ball clubs who have trained here have lost little time from their training activities, the record of the Louisville club being four days lost in eight years.

The Pirates for years have trained at Paso Robles, Cal. Vice President Sam Dreyfus, of the Pirates, is with the team and it is him that Manager Hamilton will endeavor to persuade to bring the Pirates here for training in 1931.

The Lowdown On the Pirates

By The Benchwarmer

FORT WORTH, Tex., April 7.—Folks, I wish you could hear the arguments on the club ever since the old Lone Star State was reached. The fellas that live in Texas are fighting it out with the birds that make their home in California.

Ray Kremer started it with a couple of smart cracks as we came through the wild parts of West Texas a few days ago. Boy, what I mean there is some rough land between El Paso and San Antonio. Frenchy had been lookin' out the window for several hours at the same kind of cactus scenery when all of a sudden he shouted:

"You can give this country back to the Indians any time and it will suit me. I'd rather be in jail in California than be Governor of Texas!"

A lot of fresh guys from California cheered this remark, but it got the old razzberry from Jess Petty, Lil Stoner, the Waner boys and several others that live in Texas or Oklahoma. Then, when we got to Houston, the weather was so hot that some of the gents from California almost collapsed at the ball park when they began to work out. That was just the chance that Petty and the others wanted to rub it in to the Native Sons.

WEATHER IS RAZZED

"What's the matter, don't you know how to act when you get into real training weather?" they shouted, and a lot of other good ones besides.

Both sides are right, but in California you're liable to get double pneumonia if you look for a shady spot after working out in the sun, but down here in Texas it seems just about as hot in the shade as it does where Ol' Sol is beaming down. And these California dudes looked for the shady places, but the water rolled off them and they just moaned and groaned and couldn't say much with a kick.

Speaking about that land in Wild West Texas, Herb Sanders and Larry Cox know a lot about it, as they have relatives out

SOLTERS WINS ORIOLE BERTH

Purchased from the Fairmount club, of the Middle Atlantic League, last season, Julius Solters, slugging outfielder, who lives in Flowers avenue, Hazelwood, has clinched a regular berth in left field with the Baltimore Orioles, of the International League, according to an announcement made by Fritz Maisel, manager of the team. Solters' terrific slugging in the spring exhibition games, coupled with his general good behavior in the field, has clinched the berth for him. Maisel, a former major leaguer, rates Solters as one of the most promising youngsters in the International League.

Julius Solters

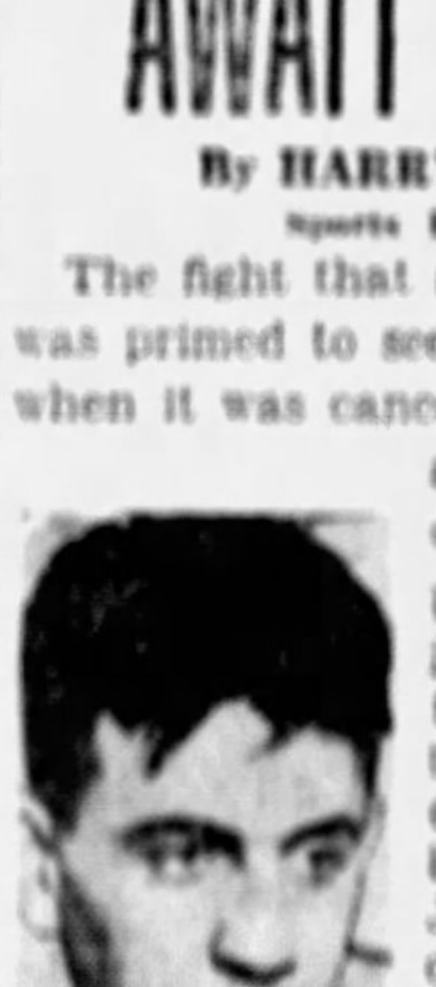
In a recent exhibition game with the Houston Texas League Club at Houston, Solters led the attack for the Orioles by clouting a pair of home runs.

Home-run hitting is nothing new for the Hazelwood slugger, as he led the Middle Atlantic League in circuit smashes last season, with 34.

RODGERS, BELL AWAIT GONG

By HARRY KECK,
Sports Editor.

The fight that all of Pittsburgh was primed to see two weeks ago, when it was canceled first by one and then the other of the principals, is being put back on the fire at Motor Square Garden tonight. It brings together Jackie Rodgers, of the North Side, Negro knockout star with eight straight kayo victories to his credit, and Archie Bell, of New York, over the 10-round route.



Archie Bell

The pair are to box at 123 pounds, a compromise between the original 122 pounds and Rodgers' demand for 124. Jackie wound up his hard training Saturday and pronounced his game ankle able to stand up under the test of a battle. Bell, upon his arrival, said he was in fine fettle and hoped to be able to outbox Rodgers all of the way. The visitor does not pack much of a punch, but is fast and clever, the exact type of boxer that caused Rodgers so much trouble before Jackie got off to his winning stride.

Jimmy Belmont, of Braddock, and Matty Mario, formerly of New York but now an addition to the local boxing colony, will box the eight-round semi-final; Georgie Bretsch, of the North Side, is in with Russell Powers, of Youngstown, for the second bout, and Young Sapienza, of Zelienople and Jackie Benton, of Braddock box the opener.

GROGAN CUP MATCHES TO START MAY 21

SUN-TELEGRAPH SPORTS

OPENING TILT SLATED FOR HIGHLAND

By VERN SWARTSFAGER

The tournament of greatest interest to members of the Highland and Shannopin country clubs, and one of the foremost golf activities in Western Pennsylvania, the Grogan cup matches, will get under way at the Highland Country Club on Wednesday, May 21, with a likelihood that the second and last half of the annual event will be played a month later.

BIG EVENT

The Grogan Cup competition is split two ways. It is a 36-hole team competition, with 18 holes at each club, testing the golf supremacy of Shannopin and Highland linksmen. The Indians of Shannopin and the Kilties of Highland they've been called in the past, and on the day when the Grogan Cup is at stake there are mighty few "Indians," and as many "Kilties" among the missing. It is the one tournament of the year in which every star and dub on each club is paired up and sent out to win honor for his team.

Johnny Quaill, Highland's greenkeeper, of course, will have Highland in its finest trim for the tournament. At this time the layout is in remarkably fine condition, and even yesterday's rain couldn't keep more than 100 players from traveling through the green.

OPENING SET FOR MAY 9

Highland will celebrate its official and formal opening for the season with a big day of golf, and a bigger party in the evening on Friday, May 9, according to the affable Mr. and Mrs. Ben Arnold, who cause things to run smoothly at the West View club. Arnold himself, by the way, has only recovered from serious illness of the past winter. There will be a few parties previous to the official opening, however, chief of which is the big women's luncheon slated for Tuesday, April 29.

With Vince Eldred, the club's pro, back in harness, and everything working like a clock, it appears Highland is getting away to an early start for one of its biggest seasons.

Tee to Green

Charley Manning, professional at the Shannopin Country Club, is feeling lots better, thank you, and yesterday afternoon left for Boston, where he will spend a week or so with the "folks at home, and a few friends."

Secretary Guy and the courteous Frank Ganser are on the job keeping things going at Shannopin.

E. A. (Axel) Jansson has succeeded Adolph Stuermanns as manager of the Wildwood Country Club. Mrs. Jansson is assisting Axel in his new work. Jansson has been with Manager Secora at the League Vue Club for the last three years. His local connections date a couple of decades back to the time when he trained regularly as a runner while working at the Westmoreland Country Club, we are told. And they like him at Wildwood.

Nelson Zimmerman and his brother Harry are on the job in the pro shop, anticipating a great season for Wildwood's fourth year.

George and Al Underwood are busy at the Altoona Country Club, getting members' clubs ready for play. George was in the South last winter and looks great. Manager Joe Trahan has been on the job all winter and is preparing for the rush season to begin next week.

The National P. G. A. championship, with Leo Diegel defending his hard-won crown will be played during the week of September 8 at the Fresh Meadow Country Club, Flushing, L. I.

FOWNES IN TOURNEY

PINEHURST, N. C., April 7.—(AP.)—Eighteen holes of qualifying play today faced a field of 146 golfers in the annual North and South amateur tournament.

Eighteen holes more tomorrow will determine the 16 players to contest in match play for the title now held by George Voight, of New York, who is defending his honors.

COAST LEAGUE OPENERS

SAN FRANCISCO, April 7.—The Pacific Coast League baseball season will get under way tomorrow with every club in fine shape. The local Seals face Seattle, Los Angeles faces Portland, Hollywood is at Oakland, and Missions at Sacramento.

Sport Vignettes

Now that the baseball season is with us, who can remember the good old days when a sport known as basketball was popular? . . . . Statistics are what most folks use when they want to prove something is what it isn't . . . . And baseball players employ to get larger salaries and moguls use to keep salaries down . . . . When we contemplate what Bobby Jones, as an amateur, has done to them, there is no secret about why the golf professionals have organized for their own protection . . . . Benny Leonard, owner of the Pittsburgh hockey franchise, who used to be a bit of a boxer, is 34 years old today . . . . Just a few years short of the comeback urge . . . . Archie Bell, who boxes Jackie Rodgers at Motor Square Garden tonight (believe it or not), is a Jewish lad who first climbed into the limelight several years ago by beating Johnny Vacca, of Boston, after the latter had defeated Fidel LaBarba, then the flyweight champion . . . . As a result, Bell beat Vacca out of a trip to London to box Teddy Baldock, the British champion, in a 15-round bout, which he lost . . . . He came back to score two victories over Kid Pattenden overseas, one in 10 rounds and the other in 15 . . . . LaBarba is just getting back into the foreground again as a featherweight . . . . He is matched for a return bout with Kid Chocolate in New York's Madison Square Garden . . . . Luke Carney says wrestling is a whale of a game . . . . They're trying to eliminate stalling from basketball . . . . The only way they'll do that will be to develop teams of Hyatts, and then they'll have to adopt speed laws . . . . The move to restrict college athletics to juniors and seniors sounds sensible, but why not go all the way and limit it to the alumni, who know all about how it should be done, anyway? . . . . Either that or suppress the alumni . . . . Milt Crandall was seen in Grant street yesterday with snapping turtles emerging from every pocket . . . . The gag is to stay away from him, for every time one of the turtles tags you you have to buy it for Milt's mammoth turtle derby, which he will inflict on the public in Duquesne Garden at too early a date . . . . The joker in the State Athletic Commission's stand that it will not recognize the winner of the Sharkey-Schmeling fight as the world champion unless he fights George Godfrey is that Sharkey, the likely winner, already holds a decision over Godfrey, scored in 1926, when Godfrey was a good fighter . . . . Jack Zivic, veteran local boxer, played an important part in the fistic careers of at least two Baltimore fistmen . . . . One was Joe Dundee, who went on to win the world welterweight title, and the other Tommy Herman, who flashed on the horizon a few years ago . . . . Zivic was Dundee's first major opponent and Joe's manager, Max Waxman, took him on against the advice of friends in a 12-round bout in Baltimore . . . . "I looked him up in the record book and discovered he had boxed a fellow named K. O. Jitney (of Beaver Falls) and made up my mind that my Joe could beat any guy who had fought a bird with a name like that," he explains . . . . Herman was a sensation until he ran afoul of Zivic, then past his prime, and took a terrible drubbing from Jack, which induced him to quit the sport.—HARRY KECK.

$1 and $2 tickets in the history of boxing in Pittsburgh at the opening of its new quarters in the downstairs auditorium of the Garden, Wednesday night, with the staging of three 10-rounders and an eight-round opening bout. At the same time, it is introducing some new faces, always a popular move with the fans. The club plans to operate in the Garden all summer and if the fans turn out as expected similar cards will be offered weekly.

Buck McTiernan, of Swissvale, and Johnny Windner, of Herron Hill, meet in the feature bout Wednesday. It is a return clash, Johny having surprised the talent by giving Buck a tough 10-round battle at the Moose Temple last season at a time when Buck was going at his best. In the 10-round semi-final, George Panka, Homestead heavyweight, stablemate of McTiernan, under the management of Bunny Buntarb, meets Tiny Grove, Jewish youngster, of Detroit, while Johnny Chinda, of Johnstown, popular with the local fans, goes against Soldier Dombrowski, hard-hitting blond aviator of Detroit, in the first 10-rounder. In the eight-round opening bout, Cowboy DeLara, of Lawrenceville, boxes Jackie Murray, clever Negro, of the Hill.

Panka has much to look forward to this summer and must maintain the form he has shown in recent bouts to keep the inside track for a bout with Henry LaMar, of Boston, stablemate of Jack Sharkey, on the Sharkey-Max Schmeling heavyweight championship card at the Yankee Stadium, in New York, June 12. It is the plan of the promoters to fill out the bill with bouts between promising young heavyweights from all over the country and Panka has drawn the nod from this section. Along with Johnny Risko, of Cleveland, Panka was an honor guest at the banquet of the Slovak Evangelical Union at Duquesne yesterday.

The entry list closes tonight for the Greater Pittsburgh junior amateur boxing and wrestling championship tournament, to be held in the Palisades roller rink, McKeesport, Wednesday and Thursday evenings.

Eight local amateur stars are in Boston for the opening of the National A. A. U. senior boxing championship tournament tonight, with the semi-finals and finals carded for tomorrow and Wednesday nights. Following are the local contestants: Flyweight, Tony Marino; bantamweight, Moses Butch; featherweight, Don Ash; lightweight, Bob McCormick; welterweight, Charley Crevatta; middleweight, Al Becker; light-heavyweight, Carl Czako, and, heavyweight, Eddie Sage.

Rajah in Chicago For Heel Treatment

CHICAGO, April 7.—(AP.)—Rogers Hornsby, the modern Achilles of the Chicago Cubs, came back from the West Coast today with his vulnerable right heel. It will be treated here.

At the suggestion of Manager Joe McCarthy and President William Veeck, Hornsby left the club last week to consult a Chicago specialist in the hope that the wounded heel might be repaired in time for the opening of the National League season. Hornsby admits the heel hurts, but has no intention of letting it keep him out of the Cubs' lineup. The doctor, however, will have something to say about that.

McGraw Celebrates Fifty-seventh Year

EVANSVILLE, Ind., April 7.—(AP.)—John McGraw, manager of the New York Giants, celebrates his fifty-seventh birthday today in harness. McGraw's party, he hopes, will be at the expense of the Chicago White Sox, who meet the Giants here today in the eleventh game of their spring exhibition series, which started a month ago. The Giants are one up so far with five victories, four defeats and one tie.

GOLF

As Champions Play It

TOO MUCH STUDY OF A COURSE WILL SOMETIMES MAKE A PLAYER TENSE

When you are going to play on a course that you never have played before, what points about the course, if any, do you try to learn in advance?

Answered by

One of America's Leading Professionals, Western Open Champion, 1928, Chicago District Open, 1929.

When playing a strange course it is important to get acquainted with the greens and the location of the traps and bunkers surrounding them. But, in many cases, if a player studies the course too much, he will become tense and his game is apt to go astray.

RICE IS LOST TO TIGERS

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 7.—(AP.)—Harry Rice, Detroit Tiger outfielder, will be out of the game for some time as a result of injuries to his face received yesterday in an exhibition with the Louisville Colonels. Rice collided with the wall of the bleachers while catching a fly ball. X-ray pictures are expected to reveal the extent of his injuries. He may not be able to play in the opening game of the season against the St. Louis Browns at Detroit April 15.

Sutton Tries Cue Comeback Tonight

CHICAGO, April 7.—(AP.)—George Butler Sutton, world 18.2 balkline billiard champion of more than 20 years ago, tonight will make another comeback attempt against Percy N. Collins, of Chicago. Collins recently defeated the veteran in a 600-point match. The second test will be played in two blocks of 400 points each.

ATHENS ISSUES DEFI

CHICAGO, April 7.—(AP.)—Athens, Tex., High School, winner Saturday night of the University of Chicago's National Interscholastic Basketball tournament, has challenged De LaSalle, of Chicago, to a game for the National high school championship. De LaSalle is the 1930 winner of the tournament held at Loyola University, of Chicago, for the National Catholic high school title.

BAMBINO OUT FOR WEEK

DALLAS, Tex., April 7.—(AP.)—Lou Gehrig, of the New York Yankees, has begun his annual home run pursuit of Babe Ruth, and the Babe has helped him by sustaining an injury to his right leg that will keep him out of action for about a week. Lou got his first homer of the training season in the second inning of yesterday's game between the Yanks and Dallas. In the sixth frame, Ruth rounded second base sharply and wrenched a leg muscle painfully. He does not expect to play again until the Yankees reach New York and meanwhile Gehrig has a chance to hit a few more homers and start the season on even terms.

EMIL LOEFFLER

Oakmont Country Club

Emil Loeffler

Emil (Dutch) Loeffler, who has the combination job of professional and greenkeeper at the internationally known Oakmont Country Club here, aside from being a marvelous player, instructor, course architect and links builder, is one of the most popular members of the professional clan in Western Pennsylvania. The reason may be that Dutch never changes, and his personality is such that it attracts a flock of admirers to him at all times. Aside from the fact that the important event in Loeffler's life last year was the advent of the Loeffler twins, Emil has been one of the toughest tournament players in the district . . . . a typical money golfer. He started to really play the game back in 1910. At the age of 16 he was made caddie-master at Oakmont, where he first was introduced to the game, and at 17 he was given the greenkeeper's job . . . . a mighty fine compliment to his early ability. He has been greenkeeper at Oakmont until this year, when he succeeded the late Charley Rowe as professional, but that did not detract from his tournament campaigns. He was Pennsylvania open champion in 1920, and runner-up in 1921 and 1922. In 1920 he also captured the West Penn open and finished in the money in the National open championship. He has qualified for the National P. G. A. three times. A remarkable chap, Loeffler is one of the district's foremost professionals.

Sharkey Faces Suit by Stone

BOSTON, April 7.—(AP.)—The Boston Post says that Jack Sharkey, America's outstanding heavyweight boxer, is to be sued for damages totaling $500,000 by his former sparring partner, Emmanuel (Rocky) Stone, of Boston, and that the papers will be filed this week.

Sharkey, now training at Epping, N. H., for his bout with Max Schmeling, of Germany, in New York in June, is charged, among other things, the Post says, with malicious assault and battery on the huge Stone during camp bouts.

In connection with the alleged assaults, Stone seeks $250,000 damages. A similar amount is sought in another suit in which Stone charges Sharkey failed to keep an agreement that Stone was to be used only as a sparring partner and not subjected to alleged severe punishment. Stone now is party blind.

FALL RIVER CHAMP

BRUELLS LOSE, 2-1, IN SLOW FINALE

By TOM BIRKS
Staff Correspondent

CLEVELAND, April 7.—The Fall River soccer team yesterday wrote its name for the fourth time on the Dewar Trophy, emblematic of American professional soccer championship, by defeating the Cleveland Hungarian Bruells, 2 to 1, in a slow game played in an incessant downpour of rain.

Fall River won the Eastern section and the Clevelanders copped in the Western, and in the first game play-off last Sunday at the Polo Grounds in New York Fall River was victor, 7 to 2.

It is questionable if any final of the cup has been as colorless as the Luna Park affair. Bad as Fall River was, the Bruells were worse and the champions left little impression upon the 1,500 fans who braved the elements.

SHOW POOR FORM

Nothing of the form that outclassed the Bruells last Sunday was on show and the fans endured a pitiful 90 minutes of tapping the ball around. And at that the game nearly went into extra time. Only three minutes remained when Petertude was pulled down on the 18-yard mark. The Bruells packed their goal, but McNab's shot hit the inside of the post and went into the net.

The morning had been dark and a strong blustering wind was coming from Lake Erie. When Pithie, of Detroit, signaled the game to start the storm let loose and made the playing field very slippery. This may have been the reason for the poor showing of the Easterners, but they have played in worse weather.

Fall River flashed some neat footwork in the first five minutes and Ralph Caraffi, the Pittsburgh boy, who was playing fullback in the absence of Burton, had a tough time. The forwards finished poorly, however. The Bruells scored first, G. Phillips taking a pass from Russell and beating Reber with a brilliant drive.

SCORE EQUALIZED

That put the Cleveland fans on good terms with themselves, but Fall River gave the writer the impression that it felt it could score at will and therefore refused to become alarmed. The field was slippery and passes went begging. Foolish plays were made by both teams; in fact, they were playing like juniors.

After 34 minutes Fall River equalized. McAuley took a free kick just outside the penalty box and beat Ramsey with an easy roller. That was all the scoring until McNab flashed his shot in the net, three minutes from time-up.

In the second half both clubs made substitutions. Petertude went to center in place of Nilson when Fall River became desperate for the winning goal. But this man, said to be the best American-born center-forward, showed Pittsburghers very little and cannot be classed with Buff Donnelli.

McDade went in for Phillips for the Bruells and Scott went to center forward, but the game dribbled along and in spite of itself Fall River again became American professional soccer champion.

LOCALS TO DETROIT

It became evident that the Gallatin Club, representing Western Pennsylvania in the western final of the national amateur cup, will have to make the trip to Detroit next Sunday to meet the Stephens in the final game.

Armstrong Patterson, president of the U. S. F. A., told the writer that this would be the case. This came after he had conferred with Secretary John McEwen.

The national commission went into session before and after the game and it seems that the national body is having troubles of its own. The Arsenal Football Club, of London, is trying to run out of a contract to appear in the States, and the Glasgow Rangers have offered to substitute for the Londoners. However, Patterson insists the Arsenals will be held to their contract. Whether the English Football Association will get into the argument is a matter of doubt. The Referees' Association trouble in the East also is causing a little concern. Yesterday's lineup:

Fall River.		Cleveland Bruells.
Baker	G.	Ramsey
McGill	R. F.	McFilgouri
McAuley	L. F.	R. Caraffi
McPherson	R. H.	Abrams
Priestley	C. H.	Wilson
Ballantyne	L. H.	Russell
McNab	O. R.	Phillips
Gonzales	I. R.	Burton
Nilson	C.	Caraffi
Petertude	I. L.	[illegible]
White	O. L.	Scott

Goals—McAuley, McNab, Phillips. Referee—Pithie, Detroit.

NO. 10—BASERUNNING—THE PROPER WAY TO TAKE A LEAD

Ed was fast. He could run like the dickens and he was able to start pretty well, but he never was a very good base-runner. He always was getting himself caught off base whenever he tried to take a lead.

The picture shows why.

In the first place he always was off balance, and in the second place he forgot to watch the pitcher's motion. And those are two things that are the secret of taking a lead. That's why some players can leave the bag 10 or 12 feet and never get caught and others are picked off before they get four feet away.

If you will study the picture you will see the difference between Eddie and myself. Ed is what we call "leaning." That is, his weight is on his forward foot and his balance is toward the base he's going to steal. A quick throw catches him because he has to shift weight before he can get back.

If you will take a look at my stance, on the other hand, you'll see that I'm on balance. I'm ready to go either direction, yet my left foot is set solidly for a shove off when the time comes.

Here's another little secret. When you're taking a lead off base keep your eye on the pitcher's feet. Whenever a pitcher is going to throw to first base he has to shift his feet—and that shift comes before he ever makes a move with his arm.

Another good idea, particularly when you're taking a lead off second base, is to back away from the bag and stand always facing half way toward second. In that way you can watch the pitcher and at the same time keep your eye on the shortstop and the second baseman to be sure they don't sneak up behind you to take a throw.

One other thing. In taking a lead always stand on the far edge of the base line back of the bag. The reason for that is that if you have to slide suddenly you will be in a position to hook the outside corner of the bag with your toe and give the baseman mighty little space to put the ball on you.

Just remember this, too. In running bases, it isn't so much speed that counts as it is a quick start and the ability to take a good lead always. And taking a lead is entirely a matter of always keeping your balance and never losing sight of the fellow with the ball. For instance, if you're taking a lead off first base and take your eyes off the pitcher even for an instant you're lost.

SCHOOL SPORTS CONDEMNED

COLUMBUS, O., April 7.—(AP)—County basketball tournaments for high school girls were condemned and inter-scholastic competition by girls was considered of questionable value in a bulletin issued yesterday by the State Department of Education.

Interscholastic games "do not come first" and should be most economically financed, said the report, which finally termed them "nuisances" because of the "traditional hysterias after victory and melancholia over defeat."

Championship tournaments and meets were said to be "useful only for senior high school and college girls, and then only in the absence of any other opportunity for competition," as the lack of intramural competition in schools with small enrollments.

Cocken-Stocking Win Squash Final

W. Y. Cocken and G. L. Stocking, of the Keystone A. C., were taken five sets before they defeated Frank White and C. A. Fagan, clubmates, for the city invitation squash racquet doubles at the K. A. C. yesterday. The scores were 15-13, 15-11, 11-15, 12-15, 15-11.

The K. A. C. club squash racquets tournament is to be continued this week. Ben Pope, squash pro at the K. A. C., and Monty Halvorsen, pro at the Buffalo A. C., are slated to play an exhibition match this week-end.

Junior Handball Doubles on Today

The Junior A. M. A. handball doubles championship starts today at the Pittsburgh Athletic Association with the best players in the district entered in the competition.

Among the stars are Stevenson and McCabe, Downtown Y. M. C. A.; Byrne and Justus, unattached; Warren and Horner, Keystone Athletic Club, and Fierst and Lapidus, Young Men's Hebrew Association.

SUIT POSTPONED

NEW YORK, April 7.—Illness of Billy Gibson, one time manager of Gene Tunney, retired heavyweight champion, has caused a postponement in the suit of Max (Boo Boo) Hoff against Tunney for 20 per cent of his earnings in the ring.

Wheeling Prepares For Race Meeting

WHEELING, W. Va., April 7.—Racing officials for the Golden Jubilee meeting which opens at the Wheeling Island Wednesday are here attending to their pre-meeting duties, insuring everything to be shipshape for the reception of entries tomorrow morning for Wednesday's opening program.

John I. Day, prominent turfman who is presiding steward, got in from his home in New York City. His prediction was that the meeting would prove the banner session of racing here.

Stagg to Fight For Cage Tourney

CHICAGO, April 7.—(AP.)—Amos Alonzo Stagg, grand old man of the University of Chicago's athletic world, has donned his armor for a fight to the finish to retain his pet hobby—the annual Stagg National prep basketball championship tournament.

As the twelfth edition of high school classics ended Saturday night with the lanky Hornets from Athens, Tex., champions for the second straight year, Coach Stagg threw down the gauntlet to the National Federation of State High School Athletic Associations, leader of the fight to stop the tournament.

Boucher Awarded Lady Byng Trophy

MONTREAL, April 7.—(AP.)—For the second time in succession, Frank Boucher, center of the New York Rangers, has been awarded the Lady Byng Trophy, awarded annually by the National Hockey League to the player who best combines effective and gentlemanly play. Boucher, one of the leading scorers of the league, was given only 16 minutes in penalties.

The Hart Trophy for the player judged to have been most useful to his team, went to Nelson Stewart, of the Montreal Maroons. He won the trophy in 1926.

TECH MEET IS SUCCESS

By JESS CARVER.

As a steady diet, I imagine swimming meets would prove to be rather tiresome, like ham and cabbage or steak and onions, but Carnegie Tech's first annual interscholastic relay carnival Saturday afternoon was right refreshing.

The meet drew a crackerjack entry list and a surprisingly large crowd. The Tartan aquatic entertainment went over in a big way, and promises to be even better in the future.

For one thing, each event was closely contested. The entries represented the best of the city school swimmers and there were enough out of town present to lend an intersectional tinge. Henry Blum, in the capacity of referee, handled the meet in splendid fashion, each event being run off exactly at the time scheduled. That helps a lot.

GIDDAP, HORSIE!

Judging from the crowd that attended the 107th Regiment-Shady Side polo game at the Hunt Armory Saturday night, it might be predicted that the expensive sport is in for a fairly profitable engagement here. Close to 500 watched Saturday night's setto, which, while not characterized by any extraordinary riding or playing, was always interesting and hard fought.

Neither team was exceptionally well mounted, with few of the ponies being trained polo nags. Captain Steimert, of the Soldiers, changed his lineup for the second and fourth chukkers, and it was the replacement trio in the fourth period that permitted the Academy team to pile up the winning margin.

There will be another game the night of April 19, probably between the same two teams. New horses are to be imported for the Soldier riders, and if the attendance at this game is as good as that of Saturday, other contests will be arranged with out-of-town teams.

16 Women Golfers Accept Glenna's Bid

PINEHURST, N. C., April 7.—(INS)—Sixteen of America's leading women golf stars have accepted the invitation of Miss Glenna Collett, women's national champion, to accompany her on a conquest of the international matches in England the latter part of the month.

The following will accompany the national champion: Miss Marion Bennett, New Britain, Conn.; Mrs. Leo Federman, New York; Miss Louise Fordyce, Youngstown, O.; Mrs. Stewart Hanley, Bloomfield, manager; Miss Helen Hicks, Hewlitt, L. I.; Mrs. O. S. Hill, Kansas City; Miss Peggy Wattles, Buffalo, N. Y.; Miss Bernice Wall, Oshkosh, Wis.; Miss Virginia Van Wie, Chicago; Miss Fritzi Stifel, Wheeling, W. Va.; Miss Edith Quier, Reading, Pa.; Miss Maureen Orcutt, Englewood, N. J.; Mrs. Lee Mida, Chicago; Mrs. H. A. Martelle, Hartford, Conn.; Miss Rosalie Knapp, Piping Rock, N. Y., and Miss Virginia Holzderber, Baltimore.

BURKE NAMED CAPTAIN

GROVE CITY, Pa., April 7.—Tom Burke, of Sharon, has been elected captain of the Grove City basketball team for next season. Burke will be senior next year.

DIEGEL TO RISK TITLE

NEW YORK, April 7.—Leo Diegel, professional golf champion, has announced he will defend his P. G. A. title in the annual tournament, to be held at Fresh Meadow, L. I., the week of September 8.

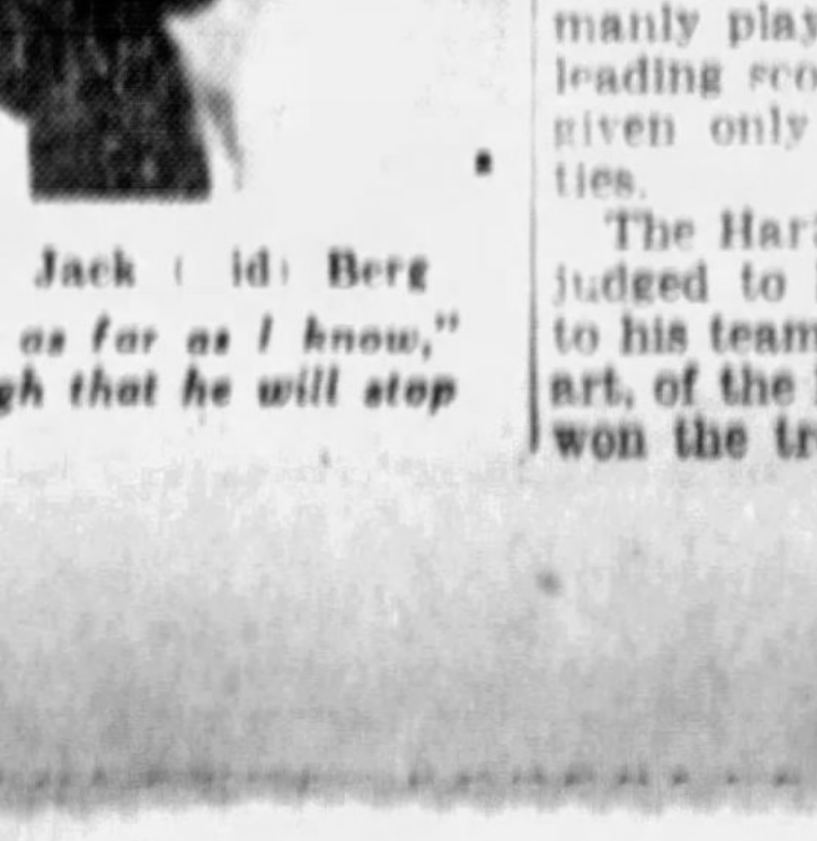
patrons desiring to reserve these for the year send in their applications at once, as the supply is limited.

RECENTLY Jack (Kid) Berg, English-Jewish boxer, junior-welterweight champion and the ring's closest approach to perpetual motion since the days of Harry Greb, overheard an old-timer assert that modern mittmen were only make-believe fighters and wouldn't stand a chance in a rough-house mill with the bare-knuckle battlers of the past.

Berg approached the veteran and proceeded to do some popping-off of his own. "Get anybody you want up to 160 pounds and I'll let you lock me in a room with him for a fight in which everything will go," he said. "I'll cover any sum of money you can raise and the first man to come out of the room will take all the stakes."



Jack (Kid) Berg

BERG'S proposition gets a rise out of Joe Humphries, veteran boxing announcer. Humphries says he will be glad to separate Jackie from some of his money by producing a man to beat him under the conditions suggested. And the man he has in mind is not a boxer, but a wrestler, in the person of George Bothner. "Bothner is twice as old as Berg and never had a boxing glove on in his life as far as I know," says Joe, "but I am ready to put up the dough that he will stop Berg in a rough-and-tumble fight."

there. The land is higher now than it was 25 years ago, they said. You had to pay as high as $3 an acre now—the way Herb talks you could get it for about 15 cents an acre then.

Well, anyhow, an old-fashioned real estate fella got friendly with Johnny Skube on the train and tried to sell him 640 acres for $3 an acre. All Johnny had to pay down was a little bit and then he had 40 years to pay the rest. Most of us kids couldn't buy it if they was selling by the acre.

THOSE SHORT FENCES

The last time I came through the wild country I was with a lefthanded pitcher and his wife. The southpaw had been pitching in the Western League, where they have a lot of high altitude and short fences. He rode along for four or five hours without talking as he looked at the deserts. Finally his wife asked him if he was sick or anything and he replied:

"No, I'm not exactly sick, but I'd like to know why in h—l they have so many short fences in country like this."

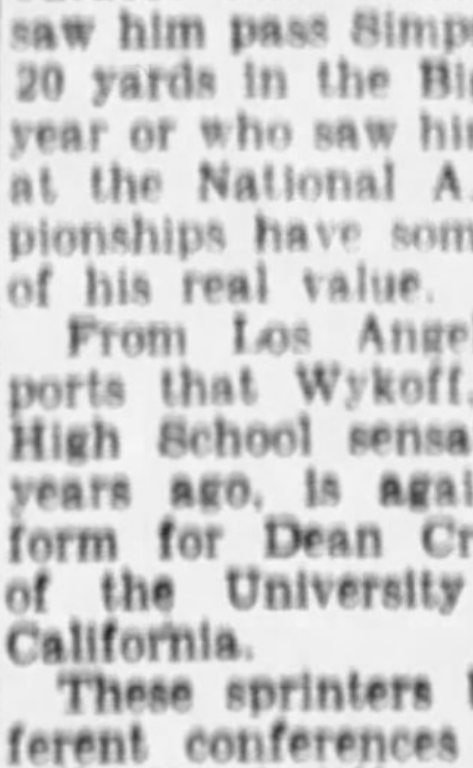
THE RACE OF THE CENTURY

Where there is smoke there is bound to be fire. From down Texas way come reports that both Bracey, of Rice, and Leland, of Texas Christian, are running the 100 in close to record time. Bracey was doing this two years ago, but last year he neglected his training. Leland apparently is a much improved sprinter, and is a particularly strong finisher.



Knute Rockne.

From his showing in the Illinois relays, Simpson, of Ohio State, is going to be just as good as last year, when he set that new world record.

Tolan, the Negro sprinter, of Michigan, does not show to advantage in the shorter sprints and the chances are he will not start hitting his stride until the outdoor dual meets. Those who saw him pass Simpson in the last 20 yards in the Big Ten 100 last year or who saw him grab the 100 at the National A. A. U. championships have some appreciation of his real value.

From Los Angeles comes reports that Wykoff, the Glendale High School sensation of a few years ago, is again hitting top form for Dean Cromwell, coach of the University of Southern California.

These sprinters belong to different conferences and probably will attend different relay meets during the year. The only opportunity for this superb group to get together in the same race will be at the National collegiate meet in Chicago early in June.

If the University of Southern California can be induced to enter this meet, the 100-yard dash that afternoon truly will be the race of the century.

"After Baby Came I Was Weak, Skinny Gained 22 Lbs."

"After baby was born I was very weak, skinny. Since taking Ironized Yeast feel fine. Gained 22 lbs."—Mrs. Laura Benoit.

Thousands write new Ironized Yeast adds 5 to 15 lbs. in 3 weeks. Ugly hollows fill out. Bony limbs get graceful roundness. Muddy skin gets clear and rosy like magic. Nervousness, indigestion, constipation vanish overnight. Sound sleep, new pep first day.

Two great tonics in one—special weight-building Malt Yeast and strengthening Iron. Pleasant little tablets. Far stronger than unmedicated yeast. Results in ½ time. No yeasty taste, no gas.

One touch

Corn Stops Aching

One touch of "Freezone" stops the pain instantly, then shortly the corn lifts right off! A tiny bottle of "Freezone", sufficient to remove every corn, hard and soft, costs only a few cents at druggists.

Endorsed by Nurse

"Just a few words of praise of your medicine. Nothing gave me relief and health as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did. I am a practical nurse and was so rundown that I was unable to work. I used to suffer agonies at times and would have to lie down the biggest part of the day. After two bottles of Vegetable Compound I felt better. Now I have used ten bottles and feel fine. I recommend it to many of my patients."—Mrs. Florence Johnson, R. R. #3, Chetopa, Kansas.

CONVERTIBLES LEAD BOND TRADING

Privilege Issues Chief Influence in Market at Present; Mortgages Quiet

NEW YORK, April 7.—(AP.)—The chief influence on the bond market at present seems to be the stock market. Trading in the so-called convertible group so far overshadowed dealings in the slow-moving mortgages and high-grade debentures [illegible] week that some of the [illegible] were reminiscent of last [illegible].

Although prices of bonds without speculative appeal firmed considerably in comparison with the previous week, turnover in the pivotal rails and utilities, as well as in the United States governments, were small. On the other hand, bonds with conversion and stock warrant features, were centers of enormous activity and many new highs for the past six months appeared although some heaviness developed at the week end.

A. T. & T. ACTIVE

Amusement issues in this group showed particular aggressiveness, but such bonds as American Telephone 4½s and Baltimore and Ohio 4½s outdistanced all others in point of turnover. The Telephone debenture made several spectacular rallies, ending the week at a top price since early last fall.

Institutional demands is consistently for old-fashioned, stable bonds whose price movements, governed by money rates, follow definite cycles. Inquiry from these important sources remains light, although it is again showing improvement. The market's action last week suggested that a lowering of interest charges would meet a prompt response from the basic bonds, which appear to have accomplished their readjustment from the over-bought position they attained three weeks ago.

REICH LOAN COMING

The behavior of foreign obligations is being watched closely in view of reports that the German reparations loan is to be floated next month. Gains in this group have been substantial since the first of the year, largely on buying for foreign account inspired by the current world-wide cheapness of money as compared with a year ago. A successful distribution of Germany's forthcoming offering is important and it is understood that plans are already being made here for the placement of America's share, generally believed to be in the neighborhood of $75,000,000.

Municipal bonds are now in high favor and inquiry for new issues is particularly keen.

Much of last week's new financing was by municipalities and states. Only one railroad issue was offered, and flotations by utilities and industrials were scattered. The week's total was $85,180,000, of which approximately $40,000,000 came under the municipal heading. The aggregate compared with $103,563,000 for the preceding week, and $68,000,000 in the corresponding period of 1929.

The March volume of new bond financing was the largest of the year, amounting to $580,000,000 in this market. February's total was $346,000,000.

Automobile Sales Hold Large Volume

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

RETAIL sales of automobiles in Pittsburgh have been showing only a negligible decline from the volume of last year. Total registrations in Allegheny County in March were 3,363 new cars. This was only 0.8 per cent below the registrations of March a year ago of 3,391 cars.

The year had a slow start for the automobile dealers but business in February and March was only slightly below last year. In the first three months of 1930 registrations reached 7,032 cars, a decline of 5.7 per cent from 7,457 cars a year before.

Pittsburgh has been doing far better than the country as a whole in the retail distribution of automobiles. It is doubtful if any other major city makes such a favorable comparison with 1929. The dullness at other points has been reflected in automobile production which has been kept down to about 50 per cent of capacity since last fall. There have been some signs of a resumption of productive activity but progress has been slow in the cases of most companies.

Improvement Scattered

A STUDY of the registrations of individual makes of cars in this county indicates that increases have been confined to particular cars which have taken public fancy. In March, 17 makes of cars showed gains while 19 showed decreases. Included in the makes showing gains were four which were not on the market a year ago. The new makes showed in the registration of only 35 cars in March so that it is obvious that the bulk of gains have been shown by a few producers.

More makes of cars are getting into the class showing gains as the year progresses. For the first three months of the year 15 cars showed gains and 21 showed declines. In January when total registrations were 21 per cent under the same month of 1930, only 10 cars showed gains and four of these were new to the market.

Gains in Low Price Field

BOTH of the leading makers of low priced cars showed gains for March and for the three months. In each case the increase represented a substantial amount. While the biggest gains were in the low priced field, this cannot be taken as an indication of any general trend in public demand.

In looking through the registrations of medium priced and high priced cars a very wide variation is apparent. The public does not seem to have swung to or from any particular price class. Gains and losses are seen in the registrations of makes throughout the entire price list. The public has been showing strong preferences in shopping for cars but the dominating factor in making up the minds of buyers does not seem to have been price to any greater extent this year than in the past.

Popularity Holds

A LARGE share of the makes of cars which are enjoying public preference this year also had exceptionally successful sales in 1929. Thus far there have been few changes in the market appeal of the leading makes of cars.

Within a few weeks a new factor will be injected into the automobile situation but the trade is not viewing the prospective arrival with any great amount of apprehension. The new Austin should be appearing on the streets early next month. Just what is to be the effect of a car which will establish a new low price field is difficult to say. The initial sales will be an indication but the proposed schedule of production is not great enough to seriously embarrass other makers this year. The most prevalent opinion is that the Austin, if it meets public approval, will tap hitherto untouched markets rather than take any great amount of business away from other makers.

Chesebrough Makes Liberal Payments

NEW YORK, April 7.—With sales at record levels, Chesebrough Manufacturing Company in 1929 reported the largest net income in its history. Net of $1,586,597 after all charges was 24 per cent greater than the $1,269,628 reported for 1928. The 1929 earnings were equivalent to $13.22 a share on the 120,000 shares of $25 par capital stock, compared with $10.58 a share in 1928.

Dividends during the last five years have risen steadily from $3.12½ a share in 1925 to $6.50 a share in 1929, averaging $5.12 a share annually for the period. Dividends during this period total $3,127,500, or roughly 54 per cent of the company's aggregate net of $5,844,961. Based on past performances, 1930 dividend disbursements will in all probability exceed the $6.50 a share paid in 1929.

Rubber Market.

NEW YORK, April 7.—Rubber futures opened steady. May, 15.20; July, 15.70; September, 16.00. New contracts—July, 15.85; September, 16.22. Spot, smoked ribbed, 15⅛c.

REPUBLIC WILL OFFER STOCK

NEW YORK, April 7.—The first public financing for the Republic Steel Corporation will be undertaken late this week when a banking group offers a $60,000,000 issue of the corporation's 6 per cent cumulative convertible preferred stock. This will be part of the $150,000,000 total amount authorized.

Republic Steel, a $350,000,000 company, was formed through the merger of the Republic Iron and Steel Company, Central Alloy Steel Corporation, Donner Steel Company, Inc., and the Bourne-Fuller Company. Stockholders of the constituent companies meet today and tomorrow, after which the consolidation plan will formally be declared operative.

In addition to the preferred stock, the corporation will have outstanding 1,985,212 common shares out of an authorized issue of 5,000,000 shares. Funded debt of $58,335,880, and a $5,000,000 subsidiary company preferred stock issue are bing assumed by the new company.

Number of Pennsy Holders Set Record

The number of Pennsylvania Railroad stockholders reached a new high record last month with March records showing 206,312 registered, or an increase of 1,949 over February.

C. & O. TO GET HOCKING

WASHINGTON, April 7.—The Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad was today authorized by the Interstate Commerce Commission to acquire and operate the Hocking Valley Railway and to issue in this connection $24,748,875 of common stock.

The Chesapeake and Ohio now owns 81 per cent of the outstanding stock of the Hocking Valley.

WASHINGTON, April 7.—Van Sweringen interests have withdrawn their railroad consolidation plan filed with the Interstate Commerce Commission by Chesapeake and Ohio Railway in February, 1929, in favor of a substitute proposal, to be submitted shortly.

Withdrawal of the plan was at the suggestion of Director Mahaffie, of the Interstate Commerce Commission, made early this year that the B. & O. and O., C. & O., Wabash and D. & H. unification plans be withdrawn or else dismissed by the commission.

Allis Chalmers Business Bulges

NEW YORK, April 7.—Allis Chalmers Manufacturing Company first quarter orders totaled $14,662,000, an increase of $1,402,000 over the 1929 period. Unfilled orders March 31 totaled $15,554,000, against $12,872,000 on January 1.

STOCK PRICES SHOW RISING TENDENCY

Bear Onslaughts Fail to Unsettle Market—Call Money Drops to 3½ P. C.

NEW YORK, April 7.—(AP.)—Frequent shifts of speculative sentiment characterized today's stock market, with a sharp upward tendency developing in the afternoon on the lowering of the call money rate from 4 to 3½ per cent. Bear Traders made repeated efforts to unsettle the general list by hammering some of the public utilities, steels and specialties, but they made little headway as new leaders were invariably brought forward in other sections of the list to revive bullish enthusiasm.

Trading was in fairly heavy volume, averaging more than a million shares an hour in the early trading. Several blocks of 5,000 to 40,000 shares changed hands during the session.

MONEY RATE DROPS

Call money renewed at 4 per cent, but the supply of funds became so plentiful that the rate was dropped to 3½ in the early afternoon. Time money and bankers' acceptance rates held steady.

New high records for the year were established by more than 50 stocks, the list including such outstanding leaders as American Telephone, General Motors, U. S. Steel common, International Harvester and Standard Oil of New York.

American Machine and Foundry broke 5 points in the early selling and Radio, Electric Power and Light, Eastman Kodak and Allied Chemical sold down 2 to 3½ points.

TRADE NEWS SPOTTY

Except for the apparent settlement of the Fox Film controversy through the sale of the William Fox holdings of voting stock, there was little news over the week-end to influence market sentiment, while business news continues spotty. Many observers were inclined to the opinion that powerful financial interests were committed to the side of higher stock prices in order to facilitate the many merger deals now pending and to help improve business sentiment.

Although several conservative houses have urged profit-taking in trading lines and caution in the making of new commitments, none of them openly advocate short selling at this juncture.

Mellon Announces New Treasury Issue

WASHINGTON, April 7.—The third issue of Treasury bills to finance the government was announced by Secretary Mellon, who called for bids for $50,000,000 to be opened on April 11.

The issue is to raise funds for the usual spring financing of the treasury heretofore done through the medium of Treasury certificates. The Treasury bills were authorized by Congress last June and are sold to the highest bidder and redeemed at par instead of being sold at par and redeemed at par plus interest.

Rail Questionnaire Returnable June 1

WASHINGTON, April 7.—The House Interstate Commerce Committee investigating the holding company situation, made public its questionnaire, which will be sent to 175 class one railroads. It will request of the roads the amount and classes of stocks outstanding. The proportional voting rights, the names of the companies controlling such carriers and the extent of such control. The questionnaires are returnable by June 1.

Eagle Picher Lead Land Leases Valid

CINCINNATI, April 7.—The United States Court of Appeals has confirmed a decision of the lower court declaring valid leases of the Eagle Picher Lead Company on Indian lands in Oklahoma, Kansas and Missouri. The property involved is said to be worth about $18,000. The contest over these properties has been in progress for several years.

McCrady-Rodgers On Local Board

The Pittsburgh Stock Exchange has admitted to unlisted trading privileges, 13,000 shares 7 per cent cumulative preferred stock, par $50, and 144,353 shares of no par common stock of McCrady-Rodgers Company.

The new Columbia Gas and Oil Company voting trust certificates were also listed on a "when issued" basis.

1929 Auto Output Sets New Record

WASHINGTON, April 7.—World production of automobiles during 1929 set a record of 6,500,000, a gain of more than 1,000,000 over 1928. Approximately 685,000 cars were manufactured outside the United States and Canada last year. This does not include assembly of a car in foreign countries, states the Commerce Department.

'Mop' Seeks O. K. on Louisiana Hookup

WASHINGTON, April 7.—The Missouri Pacific Railroad today sought permission to gain direct railroad entrance to New Orleans by asking the Interstate Commerce Commission to approve a 99-year agreement with the Louisiana Railroad and Navigation Company from East Baton Rouge Parish.

At the present time the Missouri Pacific's only connection with New Orleans is through the Texas and Pacific Railway, which ends on the west bank of the Mississippi at Gouldsboro, and then across the river by car ferry.

Gypsum Company Steps Up Output

CHICAGO, April 7.—United States Gypsum Company has amalgamated with the Northwestern Expanded Metal Company to increase production of metal laths. One of the Northwestern Company's plants is at Jeannette, Pa.

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, April 7.—The steady upward movement of recent weeks on the Curb market showed few signs of flagging at the beginning of the new week today. Profit-taking was in large volume, and forward progress slow, but operators for the advance continued to press their advantage.

Following is the list of transactions on the New York Curb Exchange, giving all stocks and bonds traded (00 omitted in sales column of stock list; 000 omitted in sales column of bond list):

J. H. Holmes & Co. In New Offices

J. H. Holmes & Co., members of New York, Pittsburgh and Philadelphia Stock Exchanges and New York Curb Exchange and Chicago Board of Trade, announce the removal of their Pittsburgh office to 419 Wood street.

Liverpool Wheat Market.

LIVERPOOL, April 7.—Wheat was due ⅝ to 1⅛ pence up. Opened 2 to 3⅛ higher and at 2:15 p. m. was 3⅜ to 3⅝ pence up.

SHAMROCK OIL RUSHES UP HERE

Sudden Advance Carries Stock Up Three Points As Scarcity Develops

Fuel stocks were in sharp demand at the opening of the new week on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange today with Shamrock Oil and Gas scoring a three-point gain in the first hour's dealings and Lone Star Gas selling again at the high of the recent movement.

The spurt in Shamrock followed several days of steady buying during which the stock had held close to $23 a share. Available supply at that level was apparently cleaned last week and the start of business today saw the stock rushing quickly to 26 and subsequently sold at 27½. Lone Star was fractionally higher at 47½ on the opening but sold up to 48 after which it remained steady while the trading interest centered in Shamrock. Western Public Service and Arkansas were firm but relatively quiet. Dixie Gas, Utilities preferred, another issue in which a scarcity exists, advanced 3¼ points.

Industrial issues were steady but price changes were fractional in most cases. Small trades in Pittsburgh Screw and Bolt indicated a firming up in demand for that issue. Mesta was slightly higher, while Blaw Knox and United Engineering were fractionally lower.

GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, April 7.—Announcement that 2,000,000 bushels of wheat in store here is out of condition had a bearish effect on Chicago wheat values early today. The announcement led to selling which for at least the time being acted as more than an offset for continued drought news and for Liverpool price upturns higher than expected. Opening at ⅝c decline to a rise of 2c, Chicago wheat afterward dropped to well below Saturday's finish. Corn and oats were unsettled, with corn starting ¼c off to ¼c up, and subsequently turning downgrade. Provisions held steady.

Word today that a large amount of elevator wheat in Chicago had deteriorated so much as to be no longer available for delivery on ordinary contracts was taken generally to mean that the market here would be burdened with cheap offerings made under disadvantageous circumstances. As a result, dispatches from drought regions southwest, west and northwest, telling of persistent lack of moisture and of high winds received much less attention than of late. It was asserted in some quarters that 2,000,000 bushels curtailment of wheat available for delivery on May contracts here should be construed as bullish.

Meanwhile, the amount of wheat on ocean passage showed a material fresh shrinkage today making the total quantity less than half the aggregate at this time last year. Advices were also at hand that dearth of sub-soil moisture in Canada rendered needful unusually favorable conditions during the coming period of crop growth.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, April 7.—Cotton opened steady today at an advance of 1 to 6 points, spot houses were buyers of the near months, while there was covering or commission house buying of late deliveries owing to the relatively steady Liverpool cables. Demand from spot houses for May continued after the opening and by the end of the first half hour May was up to 16.67c and July to 16.66c or 11 to 17 points net higher. Later deliveries advanced and the near positions sold about 10 to 12 points net higher, new October advancing to 15.58c. Trading was not particularly active but offerings were relatively light and the market held very steady at the end of the first half hour.

Liverpool cables said realizing sales in that market had been absorbed by trade calling and Continental and Bombay buying, but that sales of cotton cloths and yarns were smaller owing to distrust of current prices.

The early buying movement carried the market up to 16.71c for May and 15.62c for the new October contract, or about 17 to 24 points net higher. There was a lull in the demand at these figures and prices eased 8 or 10 points under realizing. However the market stiffened again later in the morning and active months showed net advances of 8 to 14 points at midday. Trading was moderately active and included considerable switching from near to late months.

Forbes

U. S. Business Is Now Headed in Right Direction.

By B. C. FORBES

THE second quarter of the year has been ushered in rather cheerfully.

Employment reports are better, building has taken a spurt, the decline in farm prices apparently has been arrested, motor manufacturers are expanding operations, steel mills have increased production and stock quotations have again reached the best level of the year.

SENTIMENT, that intangible but potent power, has changed for the better. Many who harbored doubts while business was poor during the greater part of the first quarter are now satisfied that steady, though perhaps not rapid improvement will be enjoyed. This optimism has made itself felt most notably in construction; from various points come reports of the actual launching of new projects which had been held up. Taking on of additional workers also reflects the new optimism. Perhaps the next reflection will be found in distinctly larger sales of automobiles.

WALL street has been experiencing a boomlet. Five million-share days with almost six million reached on Friday on the New York Stock Exchange, have returned. Last week's loan expansion of $148,000,000 has been exceeded only twice even during the boomiest times. The stock ticker has been falling behind. The street seethes with bullish tips. Merger talk again is rampant—with substantial basis. The recent swing to bonds has let up, and the speculative spirit is coming more pronouncedly into evidence.

JUST how much of the change in sentiment is attributable to events in Wall Street is a question. Certain it is that there has been more actual change in Wall Street than elsewhere. The reader may be interested in learning that among the nation's most powerful bankers the disposition is not to whoop up stock quotations further at this time, but rather, to feed out some stocks as quotations keep on soaring. A setback is expected—a setback, the magnitude of which it is reasoned will be largely determined by the extent of the rise preceding it.

However, if and when good stocks become available at more attractive quotations, influential accumulation will be resumed, as the prevailing view is that in time distinctly better prices will be witnessed in practically all divisions of the market.

LOOKING ahead we can count upon the tariff being removed as a source of uncertainty in the not-distant future. We can look forward to an abundance of lendable money, at low rates. We can look forward to a good market for attractive new investment offerings. We can look forward to an unusual volume of heavy construction. We can look forward to acceleration of retail buying between now and Easter. We can look forward hopefully to better rather than poorer prices for our main agricultural products.

We can look forward to at least the customary Spring demand for all classes of workers. We can look forward to consolidations of magnitude in various fields—manufacturing, merchandising, railway, banking, utility, oil, shipping, etc. We can look forward to a larger volume of foreign security offerings here, carrying in their train a stimulus to our foreign trade. We can look forward to the continued energetic development of projects in foreign countries by powerful American groups whose operations invariably entail purchases of American equipment and other materials.

THE essential thing is to be headed in the right direction. Industry, business and employment admittedly are now so headed. So is Wall Street; only Wall Street, true to habit, may attempt to go too fast and thus incur the risk of a fall. Let us hope it won't, because the country is in need of all the constructive forces it can muster.

LARGER DEMAND FOR COPPER

NEW YORK, April 7.—Improved demand for copper from both foreign and domestic sources last week reflected reduced stocks abroad and increased industrial activity here. Reports of gains in automobile output and building activity may have stimulated domestic buying, although the demand was reported to have come chiefly from producers' subsidiaries rather than from large independent consumers. The latter limited purchases to immediate needs on expectations of larger refined stocks in April, with the possibility that reduced production would not be reflected until June or July. In the meantime, producers continue to quote electrolytic at 18 cents in the Connecticut Valley.

Tin prices late in the week reported from the early firmness and volume of trade was decidedly small.

An easier undertone was noted for lead.

A better inquiry brought about some stiffening of the selling schedules for zinc. Ore, however, was easier and the expected curtailment of output failed to materialize.

Antimony was dull.

SEES GAIN IN BUSINESS

NEW YORK, April 7—Business conditions throughout the country are described as "fair" and in numerous places as "good" by Edwin E. Taylor, executive vice president of the General Foods Corporation, who has just returned from a tour which brought him into more than 30 states. Mr. Taylor's observations have led him to the belief that growing activity in several industries will help take up the slack in employment, and the country will soon again be enjoying prosperity.

"For example, in a large part of the packaged food industry, employment is normal or slightly above normal," said Mr. Taylor. "Business men are devoting their earnest attention to business affairs. Greater care is being exercised in the restriction of inventories and a watchful eye is trained on overhead expenses."

This change in the national attitude is reflected, he says, in the mounting savings accounts reported throughout the country, indicating that people generally have emancipated themselves from too much get-rich-quick speculation. This attitude, said Mr. Taylor, is shared by a majority of leaders in the industrial and business centers which he has visited during the course of his prolonged tour. Depressed business, Mr. Taylor believes, has about run its course.

140 GIVEN WORK AT E. LIVERPOOL

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., April 7—Jobs will be given 140 men here today when the East End plant of the American Vitrified Products Company, idle for two weeks, resumes operations in full.

The plant will work on a nine-hour day and six-day week basis, Supt. A. F. Whitcomb said.

Bituminous Coal Production Gains

WASHINGTON, April 7—A sharp rise in bituminous coal production, as compared with output in recent weeks, is reported by the latest mines bureau estimate. Figures for the output of the last week reported and comparable periods follow: Week ending March 29, 8,905,000 tons; preceding week, 7,832,000 tons; same week last year, 8,050,000 tons.

DAILY TRUE STORY

Mammy Stuff

MOLLY SULLIVAN liked Chick Chester back in grammar school days.

She rather liked Sim Morgan, too.

Sim was the school bully. He swaggered. He wore sweaters and smoked and used tough language. But he was big and strong and all the other boys were afraid of him.

Chick wasn't at all like Sim. He was dark-haired with big black eyes and rather small and thin and pale.

But Chick had a wonderful smile. He was smart in school and he could play the piano better than the teacher!

Chick wasn't foolish; he wasn't much of a hero. When big Sim Morgan teased Molly until she cried. Chick had yelled, "He can lick any girl in school—th' big hunk of cheese!"

Sim Morgan wouldn't have cared if little Chick had cussed him, but that was an awful crack to make. Everyone had laughed. Sim gave chase and Chick tried to escape but fell down.

Sim came up and kicked him.

A cop came along and lifted Sim by the back of his neck.

Sim promptly socked the cop right in the eye, which so pained and surprised that minion of the law that he released his hold and Sim made his escape.

So they forgot Chick's funny crack about Sim being able to lick any girl in school. Sim had squared accounts. Hadn't he actually socked a cop in the eye? What greater or finer achievement could a kid attain?

It certainly made him a hero.

So Molly Sullivan was torn between two loves. True daughter of Eve and of Erin, she loved the cave man stuff.

On the other hand, Molly was no fool. She admired Chester's smile, his wit, his cleverness in leading the whole school in studies and especially his ability to play the piano and to sing.

A young lady may not hope to find all the attributes in one young man—he cannot be a cop-fighting hero, a Hercules, and also a smiling, witty, scholarly lad whose fingers run up and down the ivories and produce wonderful music.

Name Changed

Children in that district usually quit school at this time. Most of them did. They were old enough to work, and most families down there needed every wage earner possible.

Molly went to school another year.

Sim Morgan quit and worked around with his father delivering ice for a while. He didn't like it. He could pick up more coin with the old poolroom gang. By this time he had dropped the "Sim."

Ever since he had fought two of the Hudson Duster gang and half killed them by banging their heads together, he had been called "Bull" Morgan.

Some men would get a thrill to achieve the title of doctor or professor or governor. But none of them could get the thrill Sim got when he was thereafter called "Bull." He tried to live up to it.

Chick Chester had quit school, too. There were three smaller sisters in his home. Now Chick couldn't deliver ice or work on the docks or tote quarters of beef as so many of the boys did down that way—boys that worked instead of going into the crooked life of gangdom.

But Chick was bright. He could run errands and clean an office and all that. And he was crazy about music and about reading.

So Chick went right into the heart of Tin Pan Alley and dug up a job for himself. He was to take telephone messages, jot down appointments and run errands for the music publishing house of Emson & Emson.

Chick took to it immediately.

One day old man Emson got into the office very early and found that it had been well swept. Then he heard music. He went to see. It was Chick in one of the rooms, playing the piano.

He was playing melodiously and humming something about:

"Mammy sing to you, Mammy
sing to you.
Mammy sing some sleep-sleep
into baby's eyes."

It wasn't half bad.

Chick went on and put more fervor into it and rolled his eyes and got a lot out of the accompaniment. He didn't know the Big Boss was there.

"Who sent that in, Chick?" old man Emson said.

Chick hopped up and turned red.

First Song

"I—I wasn't doing any harm, Mr. Emson. I got the place clean—I come down early and practice," he stammered.

"Who sent that 'sleep-sleep' song in, Chick?" he repeated.

"Why—er—nobody, sir."

"One of our crowd do it?"

"Why—er—it's something I been trying to do."

"You?" Emson came over. "Let's see it."

"I haven't written it out yet—it's in my head. I got three others about Mammy."

Emson was about to say "Like so-and-so you did!" when he decided that the boy told the truth.

He had one of his men jot down the stuff as Chick played it. He had another man help out with the lyrics. Chick wasn't so good at that yet.

Well, it worked out into "Sleep-Sleep." It wasn't a best seller, but it sold. Chick got one-half of the net. He should have got more, but he didn't know that.

When Chick was twenty he was helping with orchestrations and putting in spare time doing songs. Now and then one got over fairly well.

Chick was prosperous. His family became prosperous.

Molly Sullivan, who was at this time a little beauty, and a good little beauty, selling cigars and cigarets from a hotel counter, was rather proud of Chick. She liked to go out with him, and to whisper to friends, "He wrote 'Shores of Sleep' and 'Mammy Sings 'Em Best' and a lotta others."

Chick could entertain well. He dressed well, he sang his own songs at little private beer parties.

Then there were other times when Molly went out with "Bull" Morgan. Bull was also prosperous. He sported a great big limousine. He wore costly clothes—not quite Fifth avenue, to be sure, but swagger stuff. Now and then he got into a dinner suit. He liked to take Molly around. He liked to have some of the gang think she was his "moll," but he knew he could never make her—she wasn't that sort.

Decides to Marry

"Bull" had several rackets, from booze to dope, and strikebreaking gangs. He made plenty. He decided he would marry Molly. Why not? Lots of guys married girls. They didn't have to know down at the gang headquarters, that he'd married the girl. Then they wouldn't laugh at him. But he wanted Molly and that was the only way.

Molly wasn't sure. Bull was certainly big and strong and prosperous.

But then, Chester was making money and he was all music and full of fun and he could make you laugh with his jokes or cry with his songs—and he was good to his mother and sisters.

Chester wanted to marry Molly.

He told her so.

Molly wasn't quite sure.

Then at the Sweeney party, where Chester made such a hit and somebody had seen in the papers that day that Chester had cleaned up big with his song, "Mammy's Never Wrong," Molly decided that she wanted Chester, so she told him, when he proposed that night in her mother's parlor, that she would marry him.

Later Bull Morgan spotted the ring.

"What's dis?" he asked.

Molly told him.

"That little guy? Be yourself. You're gonna marry me, a reg'lar guy. Give it back to him. I'll get you one twice that size."

Molly didn't know about that.

And so Bull Morgan waited until Chick Chester came from his home one night.

"Hey, you," he said.

"Yeah? What is it, Bull?" Chick asked.

"Where'd you get the idea you was gonna grab off my dame, Molly Sullivan?"

"Be natural, Bull, she's mine," said Chick.

"Lissen, kid—a guy named Mapes got wrong with me and he was took for a ride—so was Dodge and Pustoni. Now, get this right. I run a big gang—when I say th' word they're bumped off. If you wanna keep on livin' and hammerin' piano keys, you lay off Molly or you'll be croaked—I don't mean maybe."

Wedding Anniversary

Chick Chester walked thoughtfully away.

Bull would do just that. He had done it before, or got his rodmen to do it. Chick couldn't permit this, with mother and three sisters.

So, at his next opportunity, he told Molly all about it.

"I can't have you killed. I'd rather have you than Bull but I can't have you killed. I'll tell him, so he won't hurt you," Molly said.

She cried much of that night but she told Bull.

When Terrence Harris was having his silver wedding celebration at his home down on Bull Morgan's street, Bull, Chick and Molly were all there as guests.

Bull eyed Chick coldly. Molly didn't dare look at Chick. Chick felt mighty sad.

They got pretty well mellowed up and, of course, Chick played the wedding march for Terrence and Sheila to march in for the wedding cake, and their grown children cheered them and then Chick had to sing some of his songs.

And then Chick gave him his newest one, not then published; it was all minor key and tear-jerking harmony and the chorus was:

"Mammy tried to make you good,
As Mammies always do.
Mammy's up tonight with God,
Pleading still for you."

Mush?

You bet it's mush—and they eat it up—the tougher they are the more they sob over that sort of stuff.

Bull Morgan's shoulders were shaken with sobs, tears streamed down his ugly face.

"Kid," he said, choking back a sob, "I was all wrong. I ain't fit for a jane like Molly. You take her, Kid, you marry her . . ." he sobbed a little more, "and you be good to her—you're fit, you're a swell little guy—I'm no damn good!"

So Chick took Molly.

ALL HE DOES NOW IS PARADE BACK AND FORTH BEFORE THAT DINING-ROOM WINDOW WAVING HIS FISTS AND TALKING TO HIMSELF.
HE'D BETTER TALK HIMSELF OUT OF HIS HABIT OF JUMPING OUT OF DARK PLACES IN THAT HALL EVERY TIME I PASS, AND ASKING ME IF I'M TRYING TO START SOMETHING WITH HIM.
THAT STUFF IS GIVING THE OTHER TENANTS HERE SILLY NOTIONS, TOO. WHEN WE BUMP INTO EACH OTHER ON THE STAIRS THEY LOOK AT ME AS THOUGH I WAS THE ONE WHO OUGHT TO APOLOGIZE.

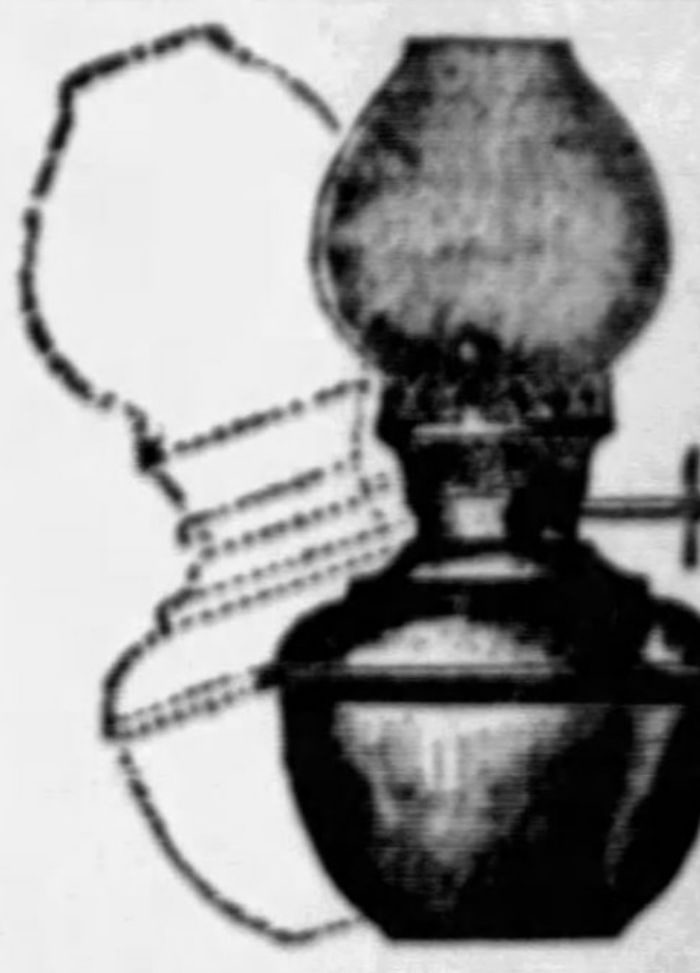
OFFICIAL LAMP FOR OUR SUBSCRIBERS



We do not generally recommend what kind of a lamp our readers should use, but we feel that subscribers will get a lot of pleasure from the Little Beauty illustrated above. It is constructed with a weight in bottom, hence it will not fall over when you kick it. This is a nice feature, particularly if you are inclined to be nervous about the house burning down. This is one lamp that you can kick and never regret it. And it is the only official lamp for this column.

At Last, Policemen Must Do Their Duty in Strike!

"No shirkers will be tolerated. Policemen must do their duty and preserve order." Thus James M. Clark, director of public safety, commented on the action of Police Superintendent Walsh in suspending four patrolmen who will be brought before the police trial board this week charged with neglect of duty.

Specifically, they are alleged to have failed in their duty in the matter of an attack on two men manning a taxicab near the cab strikers' soup kitchen in Liberty avenue.

Director Clark's declaration that shirkers will not be tolerated in the ranks of the police is commendable, even if the action of Superintendent Walsh is somewhat belated. It is gratifying to know that, if Mr. Clark's policy is adhered to, police no longer will be permitted to stand by doing practically nothing, as was the case in the early disorders of the cab strike, or be supported when they refuse to obey orders to guard property, as they were in the strike of milk wagon drivers.

It is assuring to note evidence of a change of heart in the matter of protection from disorder in strikes.

Educational Assemblage This Week Is Important

An important series of meetings is to be held in Pittsburgh the latter part of the week, when the Western Pennsylvania Education Conference, sponsored by the University of Pittsburgh, assembles for various group sessions. Noted educators from leading colleges, including University of Michigan, University of Chicago, New York University, Columbia and members of the Pitt faculty will participate in the discussions.

Public schools will derive benefit from the conference, inasmuch as principals from all city and county schools are expected to be in attendance. Friday and Saturday the number present is expected to be six to seven thousand.

When that many educators get together for an interchange of ideas, a beneficial result is bound to be reflected in the quality of education acquired by our youngsters.

Any Beginning Is Good

If You Have the Energy to Go Ahead.

THE BEGINNING OF A RAILROAD EMPIRE.

The original ox that pulled the old cart is dead. And James J. Hill, the great railroad builder who DROVE that ox, is dead also.

But his work goes on, it endures.

The son has millions at his command, is able to carry on important work of his own, because his father, while he drove the oxcart over the mountains from Canada, USED HIS BRAIN IN EARNEST THOUGHT.

When James J. Hill walked beside his single ox harnessed in the shafts of his primitive cart, guiding the animal with "gee" and "haw," the ox, the cart, and THE furs piled on it, bought from Indians in Canada, were all of James J. Hill's worldly possessions.

He lived to build a railroad system that opened up an empire in the Northwest, giving opportunity and happiness to millions of human beings.

Young people will please notice that he did this, changing his little cart with one ox into a gigantic railroad system, because WHILE HE WORKED AT ONE THING HE THOUGHT ABOUT OTHERS.

As his slow ox, head swinging from side to side, crawled over the Pembina trail from Canada, the owner of the ox, James J. Hill, was thinking about transportation, about saving time, about the possibilities in those magnificent western lands and glorious forests, vacant, unused, lacking population.

When his day's work was finished and the ox was lying in its stall Hill was still thinking.

He felt that what OTHER men had done HE could do.

And you who read this should have that same feeling.

He was determined to open up those millions of acres, great forests and mines, by making transportation possible.

He built his great railroad and a great monument should be built to him in memory of his public service in creating homes for millions.

James J. Hill is dead, his ox is dead. Another ox posed for this photograph with the younger Hill standing beside it. The cart is the same, the cart that carried loads of precious furs, caught by the Indians and sold by them for a few beads, or, perhaps, a rifle for an entire load.

The Indians caught the animals, sold the furs, shot deer, ate the meat, went to sleep, killed each other occasionally.

They did the same thing year after year, but THEY DID NOT THINK.

The white men came and SOME, not many of them, DID think.

Hence the United States as you see it today.

"Bugs" Baer Says:

Here Comes the Prince

THE principality of Monaco has taken stock and the Prince is still the Prince.

That's a new idea in royalty. The voters of the kingdom got together and elected the Prince for another whirl.

"Bugs" Baer

It was a tight contest. On the second ballot the Prince was only a third-class postmaster.

The Prince of Monaco is the owner of a lot of machines that churn butter out of your pockets. You buy some chips, bet on a number, a wheel buzzes around and you are trimmed twice against the grain.

After losing the price of a bicycle seat we suddenly remembered that the Prince wants no suicides in Monte Carlo. We had been told that if you lose all your money at his racket he will also pay your carfare home.

All that stuff is the first prize in the junkyard. You can wade into the Mediterranean until your hat floats. You can dot your eyes with an automatic. You can even jump off the rocks and it will not annoy the Prince if you don't bounce in his lap.

We were followed by a brace of gendarmes with interlocking mustaches. Everything was set for the bump-off but it's dangerous to commit suicide under the Baumes law.

Those gendarmes didn't care whether we followed the arrow to the grade-crossing or not. One of them even offered to be a reliable witness.

And as for the Prince paying your carfare back to America he wouldn't even waste his breath blowing up your waterwings.

You can kill yourself all you desire to in Monte Carlo. And if you want to play skip-the-rope with your feet off the ground the Prince will point out a good tree.

The bum's rush is the only kind of transportation furnished out of Monaco. Lose your paper profits and you are the first-class passenger on the end of a boot.

Another story we investigated was about the Dolly sisters winning a million francs every other day. That's a priceless antique tomato. The Dolly sisters wouldn't bet a dime that a camel has a funny shape.

There are other gambling joints in Europe. But when playing roulette we advise you to wear rubber gloves because you might touch the wrong number and get electrocuted.

We're glad the Prince is elected for another term. But don't expect him to pay your carfare home. If you go over there you had better do your gambling in the middle of a round-trip ticket.

'WHO'S LOONY NOW?'

By Herbert Kaufman

THE faith that moves mountains, is busily whetting tools for that VERY undertaking.

A. P. Flamands, whose technical training derives from Saldfelt, of Heidelberg, Delta Te Santia, of Paris, and Steinmetz, of Schenectady, directs attention to Marconi's promise of September, 1929, that short-wave electro-dynamics will eventually pack within a POUND of power, propulsion for a ship like the Leviathan or the Bremen, and a rod no bigger than a pocket pencil, soon push TONS.

A fortnight ago, electro-dynamics did MUCH more than this. They pushed aside EIGHT THOUSAND MILES and placed the machinery of an exposition in Sydney, Australia, under Marconi's thumb-tip.

Radio has become a NEWSBOY and delivered the front page of the San Francisco Call-Bulletin across the continent.

AND Thursday night its fingers caressed the harp of the winds and simultaneously played, from the New York Philharmonic stage a funeral dirge for Cosimo Wagner's burial—and YOUR receiving set, through which Signor Marconi might incidentally have inquired, in the words of one John Armstrong Challoner, "Now, who's loony?"

It doesn't PLEASE you to recall the "can't-be-done" and cackle of derision, with which you greeted his announcement, that a stick in Ireland would shortly exchange gossip with a flagpole in Newfoundland.

Your cock-sureness WRITHES at recollection of the thought that YOU once sentenced wireless to a lunatic cell.

And you aren't LATELY boasting to the wife and youngsters how YOU couldn't be horn-swaggled into sinking hard-earned money in the parent Marconi Company, when its shares were offered through Wall street at FOUR DOLLARS per unit.

But 90 per cent of us ALWAYS deride before practical demonstration decides the valid titles of invention.

Smart Alec opinion INVARIABLY knows better.

IT ha-ha'ed when Franklin claimed to tear lightning from the clouds; it grinned and tapped foreheads at the proposition to trap the Titan in the cataract and turn him into a LAMP LIGHTER; just as it hooted to scorn the proposal to mold steam into a BLACKSMITH'S ARM.

It's NO fault of majority discouragement that Goodyear vulcanized rubber—that the Morse key ticked its first triumphant message, or that the echoes of Bell's voice ring daily through ten million transmitters.

The paths of originality are paved with stones hurled at heads that dared to lift above MOB level.

Progress owes EVERYTHING to a scattering of folk who WOULDN'T accept the verdicts of preceding stupidity. And to a minority conviction that yesterday didn't yank ALL the golden hairs from the forelock of opportunity.

EVEN AS YOU AND I

EVERY generation has first turned a cold shoulder to its subsequent notables. Success doesn't thrive on lady-fingers and caviar. It's OFTENEST nourished on the black crusts of MISCONCEPTION and REBUFF.

There are few important lives that are not scarred with the memory of MEAGRE seasons.

Read biography and learn how MANY an inspiring pen was fed from an inkwell of tears.

There are a hundred odd million of us, each endowed with the inalienable right to BE or to HAVE as much as DEMONSTRABLE ability and stability deserve.

At the outset, we are commonly imbued with intentions to surpass—to seize the most and have the best.

We don't GIVE to our betters—we give WAY to them; but only after VAINLY opposing their distinctive projects and jealously stinting recognition of superior works.

∴ LISTEN, WORLD ∴

By Elsie Robinson

ON WEDNESDAY, March 19, a strange thing happened in New York. Above the roar of the streets a whisper rose—gathered—mounted—broke into a great tide of prayer from 800 churches—A PRAYER TO GOD TO SAVE RELIGION IN RUSSIA.

Atheism has Russia in its grip. Soviet troops are tearing down temples, desecrating shrines, ordering priests to prison, spreading a reign of terror amongst the devout.

"Dolol Relygeril!" (Down with religion) they cry—and, from horrified nations, rises the plea—"God save religion!"

But indeed that prayer was answered long ago. It was answered when man was made. Religion was built into man at his creation.

"And the Lord God formed man of the dust of the ground, and breathed into his nostrils the breath of life; and man became a living soul."

So runs the old story. Its words are poetry but its thought is eternal truth. Man's flesh is clay, but in that flesh something burns that is not clay. There are a million names for that burning spark. One name is religion. Religion lies in every man deeper than his organs. No one can destroy it in him. He, himself, cannot remove it from him. There is not a human being, whatever his race or creed, who is not religious.

Do you love? Then you are religious. Are you touched by beauty? Then you are religious. Do you respect courage and honor truth? Then you are religious.

Will you fight for the faith that is in you—whatever that faith may be? Then you are religious. Do you take pride in good works? Then you are religious. Do you dream of justice and liberty? Then you are religious.

For these things are the essence of religion. Churches and creeds are not religion. They are only an expression of religion. Religion is the burning spark within the body of clay—and that spark burns in EVERY man. It burns in you. It burns in me. It burns in the Soviet atheist as well as in the Russian worshipper whom he puts to death. For the atheist kills for HIS idea of TRUTH . . . and the worshipper dies for HIS idea of Truth—and though the ideas differ THEY BOTH SERVE TRUTH. That service is religion.

IN THE BEGINNING . . . GOD!" said St. John, writing his Gospel. In every man's beginning—God. In every man, however ignorant, however sinful, however desperate, burns a spark, glows a vision, stirs a song. Russia will not, cannot, quench that spark or kill that song.

Wise Words

Have patience and endure; this unhappiness will one day be beneficial. —Ovid.

There is nothing more fearful than imagination without taste. —Goethe.

There is no remedy for time misspent;
No healing for the waste of idleness,
Whose very langour is a punishment
Heavier than active souls can feel or guess. —De Vere.

Text For Today I am crucified with Christ; nevertheless I live; yet not I, but Christ liveth in me; and the life which I now live in the flesh I live by the faith of the Son of God, who loved me, and gave himself for me. Gal. ii:20.

THE SCIENCE OF LIFE

By H. G. WELLS

In Collaboration With

Prof. Julian Huxley and George P. Wells.

WE have already seen how the mammals and reptiles are linked by the ducked-billed Platypus and its allies; worms and arthropods by the grub-like Peripatus, vertebrates; and sea-urchins by Balanoglossus.

So also the dog-faced but tree-living lemurs link monkeys with insectivorous mammals, the tailless apes are halfway in structure between monkeys and man, the lungfish help bridge the gap between fish and terrestrial vertebrates.

H. G. Wells

But the chief evidence from comparative anatomy comes from the broad study of structural plan. In Book II. we saw that each of the great phyla of animals and plants is characterized by a common plan that underlies the construction of its members.

That is fact. But why should it be fact?

What is the sense of flying bat, swimming whale, burrowing mole, and jumping jerboa, all being built on one plan, while a wholly different plan runs through flying butterfly, swimming water-boatman, burrowing mole-cricket and jumping grasshopper?

Long before the time of Darwin, naturalists had recognized these underlying similarities of plan; Cavier endeavored to explain them by asserting that each main plan, or archetype as he called it, corresponded to an idea in the mind of God, who had rung changes on it in the process of creation.

It is difficult to understand why only a small, definite number of archetypal ideas should have been thus divinely conceived. Why should God be limited in his ideas? And further, as we shall see, the facts of embryology make that conception unacceptable.

In any case, the idea of evolution provides a more natural and much simplier presentation of the reality. If bats, whales, moles, jerboas, and the rest of the mammals were all descended from some common stock, then it would be expected that they should all show the same general plan, that they would start with that and vary from that to meet the demands of their distinctive way of life.

What could be more different at first sight than whale's flipper, human arm, horse's foreleg, and bat's wing?

Yet the skeleton of each is very plainly built on the same plan—a plan originally comprising one long bone in the upper arm, two in the lower, ten little knobbly ones in the wrist, and five jointed fingers to end up with.

This original model is distorted, cut about, modified. Sometimes one or two parts are enormously enlarged, like the two bones of the horse's forearm; sometimes parts are shortened and broadened, like the humerus, radius, and ulna of whales; sometimes they shrink almost to nothing, like the second and fourth toes of the horse, or wholly disappear, like their first and fifth toes; but the general plan remains as the common point of departure.

Even in limbs all serving the same function, the plan may be treated very differently and yet survive; in the wing of a bird, the bones of wrist and palm are fused into one solid mass, and only three tiny fingers are retained; the bat enlarges all the fingers except the first; while pterodactyls, the extinct flying reptiles, enlarged only the "little" finger; or again, the flippers of some among the ichthyosaurs, though at first sight very like those of a whale, achieved their paddle-like shape by a new kind of variation on the original plan; they broadened themselves by adding to the original number of fingers until these numbered seven or even eight.

If all higher vertebrates, from Amphibia up, are descended from one common stock with a five-fingered hand, all these curious details are illuminatingly sane; if otherwise, they are totally incomprehensible.

In precisely the same way, the jaws and mouth-parts of all insects conform to a single plan—the piercing, blood-sucking tube of the mosquito, the butterfly's coiled miniature trunk for sipping nectar, the house-fly's licking proboscis with its expanded lobes, the stag beetle's formidable weapons of attack, the ant's chewing apparatus—all can be reduced to a simple plan such as is most clearly seen in a grasshopper or cockroach, with an upper lip, one pair of strong mandibles, and two pairs of weaker maxillae, the second pair united to make a single lower lip.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, April 7.—Diary of a modern Pepys: Up and came three merry gentlemen, slightly potted at 10 a. m., and said they had suddenly decided to sail for Europe while at breakfast after a loose night, and later I heard they embarked, which indicates the potency of liquor these days.

Broke bread with my wife, she paying the chit in settlement of a wager, and we listened to Hawaiian singers, who somehow inspire me to melancholy. And among the lunchers I noticed Nathan Burkan, Edwin Balmer, Leon Gordon, Maybelle Manning and George Buckley.

In the evening to drive through the sullen brass district in Allen street and the push cart market of First avenue and then to the dress rehearsal of a music show. Home, and sat working a cross word puzzle with my beloved mother-in-law until long after midnight.

Gold fish, it would appear, are able to recognize owners. The other evening a friend who has a bowl of them sought to prove it. Four of us approached the bowl at intervals and the fish showed no sign of recognition. But when the owner approached they would swim eagerly to the surface, rapidly opening their mouths.

* * *

And speaking of fish, a sporting goods store has an expert salesman who specializes in outfitting fishermen. He knows the piscatorial possibilities of various waters and equipment necessary and receives a salary of $12,000 a year.

* * *

From a New York newspaper of the '70's: "Ice cream will be on sale every other Tuesday at Smith's general store. If the trade demands, it will be offered weekly."

* * *

All of which is interesting in light of announcement that on the coldest day last winter New York gulped 200,000 gallons of ice cream.

Two million dollar salons devoted exclusively to beauty preparations have been opened on Fifth avenue in a year. A third is preparing to open on Madison avenue. These, with the half dozen elaborate perfume parlors, give one an idea of just how hard times are. The most expensive facial so far is $18.

* * *

The breathless luxury of such beauty bazars dazzles. They are in tan, gray and silver and touched up with soft nymphs and pink cupids. At one the doorman has a French accent and sports a great coat of beaver. The reception room is filled with rare flowers every few hours. Lalique glass is in profusion and hot tea and coffee are served by imperious servants. The saleswomen, too, have a cosmetic and sartorial finish as sleek as the satinwood panelings.

* * *

A New York capitalist—and a chronic worrier—has listed 16 fears that have caused him sleepless nights since boyhood. Not one ever came true.

"How are you making it these days?" a cop asked a passing friend.

"Since all the explosions, I don't make it any more," was the reply. And I caught it on the third bounce a block away.

A headwaiter confides that Mary Pickford eats the heartiest breakfast of any celebrity he knows. It includes steak, potatoes and often a salad.

A School of Mines graduate from Colorado is superintendent of a swank Park avenue apartment house. There should be some cute crack here about gold-digging, if we could think it up.

On the other hand, someone sends a marked article captioned: "Seasickness—How It Is Caused." And right off it is our guess it would be caused by going to sea.

Cautions a police lieutenant: "In cafe holdups someone should be brave enough to grab the robber from behind while the timid shout for the police."

I wouldn't be much use in the grabbing but would be perfectly dandy for the shouting.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

UNEXPECTED expenses are always cropping out.

You are often upset by necessary outlays upon which you had not planned.

You have had enough experience but still you don't make allowance.

In establishing your budget you don't put enough into the column of unforeseen demands.

Perhaps you don't operate your home on a budget plan, but follow one by which you figure a certain lump sum will cover the monthly expenses and do as you please with the rest.

And then comes that unlooked for necessary sum to meet imperative need.

There is no degree of satisfaction equal to the feeling that you have the requisite cash to cover the surprise demands. There is never freedom from worry when each month's allowance is spent with no thought of future possible requirements.

If your present plan does not provide for this need you would better start a cheaper scale of living and keep it up until you have a nest egg which can be called upon if you have to do so.

Everyone has the same experience so you are not exempt from expenses for which you were not looking.
